

Albert College Baccalaureate

Church Must Deal with Social and Industrial Problems as Spiritual Ones.

The Rev. Chas. D. McIrvine of the First Methodist Church, Hamilton, brought a message to Albert College graduating class and the student body on Sunday morning at the Tabernacle when he preached the baccalaureate sermon. He outlined the duties of the Methodist Church and marked her place in the world of men.

It was a bright and cheerful service. The preacher of the day is an Albert graduate. His message was one of optimism and earnestness. The choir rendered special music and the quartette, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Nicholson, Mr. Mouck and Mr. Moorman sang a number very effectively. The Rev. Wesley Elliott, pastor of the Tabernacle, welcomed the preacher and the student body and Rev. Dr. Baker, Albert's principal, took part in the service.

After expressing his pleasure at being present, Mr. McIrvine opened his address, based on John 14, 13.

Hand of God Directing Church.

Those among the best wards of Christ have great significance in these days. We have opportunities today infinitely greater than those of the days of the apostles. The church has always possessed striking characteristics. John Wesley and Whitfield kindled a flame across the eighteenth century. The hand of God has been directing the Methodist church. In Canada God has committed to us a remarkable trust. He has put millions into our hands. Our church primarily is not an ecclesiastical organization but rather a living experience. She has striven to teach men to live. It was not Wesley's desire to leave the Church of England, but to purify it. He went not out to establish a new church but to fulfill the injunctions of God. The church requires great men. When has there been need for greater men? The world demands that the characteristics of the clergy and laity shall be pure. Christ lays the emphasis on manhood. What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?

Evangelism in Church

The church demands that the note of evangelism shall be sounded as it has not been in the past few decades. Our modern conditions do not lessen the need of evangelism. Sin is still sin. It is sin that is destroying youth and manhood and robbing them of their power for good. We must be positive in our utterance. The power of personal, practical experience is required. Whosoever will is the invitation of God. This is the genius of our church and religion.

Educational Life.

We must own educational life up on the principles of the Word of God. Literature has been refined when the name of Christ is revered. Where have science, music, invention and discovery led but on those lands that reverence Christ? It is Christ that inspires the greatest in life, art and science. We do not want that education that flatters vanity or gratifies curiosity but is the sister of humility. The great men of this world say nothing about themselves. We want the education that counsels virtue.

Must Face Social Problems

The church must meet some of the social and industrial problems that are essentially spiritual and should be regarded as such. We are living in a practical age. The preacher impressed that the best service was given when men carry prayer out into their actual lives. We may not be able to rectify every evil but let us throw the force of our young manhood against every sin. It will not be accomplished by epicureanism or utilitarianism but by doing the will of God. "I do not know whether men saw angels at Mons but I believe God was there." The people that do not fear God shall perish, said Isaiah. Herodotus said it was mice that destroyed the strings of the bows of the archers of Sannacherib, other authorities said it was a plague. The Bible says it was God. In all the great achievements wrought by men, it will be just in so far as men take God.

Albert's Place in the Church.

Principal Dr. Baker told of the Rev. Mr. McIrvine's days at Albert College. Today he has been called to a great Winnipeg church. At convocation of Albert College the President of Toronto Conference will speak. He is an Albert graduate. This shows the need of Albert College.

Dr. Baker addressed a few words to the students and the graduating class. During the past two weeks he had attended four conferences and the outlook he found was never so bright.

Talk of the Town and of the Country

Several times a Newmarket farmer has demanded $3 a bag on the old market of Newmarket for his potatoes and as often taken them home again. It no doubt would grieve buyers deeply to see the poor man obliged ultimately to accept a dollar and a half a bag, or less, but nothing better is more likely to happen him.

Dr. D. L. Kennedy, of Portsmouth, Friday hooked a 14-pound salmon of Charity School. The fish was a splendid specimen, and reports are that they are plentiful this season. The bass season opens Tuesday, and a big season is expected.

Four men whom the management of the Hagenbeck & Wallace circus, giving them trouble, were dismissed and then deported to the United States. The men in question left on the steamer Missisquoi on Thursday afternoon for Cape Vincent, N.Y.

On Thursday morning when the detective who travels with it, notified Immigration Officer Fowler Kingston that the company wanted to deport these men as they were unsatisfactory. When the circus entered Canada they furnished bonds to the effect that they would not allow any men to remain in Canada. The four men were detained in the police station and then put aboard the steamer.

The detective when speaking to the Kingston Whig, stated that the company had put up with a lot from the men they were deporting, and decided to get rid of them. Two of them, who were ordinary laborers, refused to work, while the other two were engaged to sell balloons had "put one over" on the company. It is stated that after selling balloons furnished them, they used to purchase others at the local stores and sell them on their own "hook."

A police patrol motor bus is carried with the circus. The officer in charge showed marks of a scuffle which he had with a negro pick-pocket in the United States. In the scuffle he received injuries to his hand, which resulted in blood poisoning, causing one finger to be useless.

Geologists were expected to examine Friday a huge meteor which fell and burned itself out near Okmulgee, Okla., after lighting the skies over several south-western states. Hundreds of persons in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, watched the meteor's flight, reports received at Okmulgee, said.

Tulsa, Oklahoma, reported that when it passed over, that city the meteor appeared to be within a few hundred yards of the earth and that the lower and heavier portion was of a greenish blue color, followed by a long wedge-shaped tail. As it approached the earth, the report states, the head apparently separated into four parts, but remained together as a mass and that during the last few seconds of the fall the southern sky was lighted with a blue green flash.

C. B. Smith, an astronomic authority at Muskogee, said he believed the meteor was thrown off from a destroyed planet between Jupiter and Mars, as it appeared to travel from west to east.

There are a number of fur dealers in Lindsay, says the Warde, who have been hard hit by the fact that the bottom has dropped out of the fur market. Furs especially rats, were bought by the thousands by local dealers, who paid fabulous prices. The trapper grew moderately wealthy, and to-day the dealer still has the rats on his hands. Some of them have as high as $3,000 invested in pelts, and still have the pelts. There is practically no market for furs to-day, except where a dealer can sell the skins to some lady who is desirous of having a seal coat made.

On Thursday afternoon three residents of Battersea were fined $50 and costs each for a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, before County Magistrate George Hunter and W. J. Rutlan. The case arose out of an assault committed on a farmer on Saturday, June 5th, while he was delivering milk to the cheese factory. The three defendants were in an automobile and blocked the road in front of Dr. Robinson's residence. When remonstrated with they jumped out of their car and a fight took place that attracted most of the whole village to the spot. The aggressors were proved to be intoxicated, and the magistrates found them guilty under the O.T.A. C.R. Webster was the prosecutor.

What was probably the oldest stone residence in Markham township was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning last—the old Reesor homestead at Cedar Grove, and with it many priceless relics of the Reesor clan—articles of furniture, wearing apparel and books brought in when the original Reesors migrated in ox teams to Markham from Pennsylvania in 1790. The old homestead is owned and occupied by Colin D. Reesor, eldest son of the late Samuel Reesor and his son Ira. The fire broke out, it is supposed between the kitchen and woodshed, and when the occupants were awakened by the crackling of the flames at about two o'clock Sunday morning, they had barely time to grab a few articles of wearing apparel and make their escape in their night clothes. Some few of the neighbors who were awakened by the flames quickly gathered, and with buckets kept the fire spreading to the outbuilding and managed to rescue a few articles from the lower front rooms of the house. The sturdy stone walls of the house are left standing, and it is hoped the house can be rebuilt without tearing down any of the walls.

Some interesting data is shown. The total number of students who have attended the college is 1,072. Of these over 312 came from Ontario, 61 from Saskatchewan, 129 from the United States and over 45 from the West Indies. Frontenac county leads all the other Ontario counties in the number of Queen's medical students and graduates. The number of graduates since 1900 is 806. From Halifax to Victoria, Queen's graduates are practicing in all the cities and large towns of Canada. In Toronto and its immediate vicinity 37 Queen's men are practicing, 70 around Kingston, 13 around Hamilton and 17 around Montreal.

The United States claims 129 of Queen's graduates and of these over 37 are in New York. Fifteen graduates are in England and four in Australia. Besides these, several graduates are doing medical missionary work in Japan, China and India.

Moral: Be careful.

In the zinc mining district of Oklahoma, practically unknown even by the residents of the state in which it lies, is the buried city of Dought. Surrounding it is one of the richest mining camps in the world. The Montreal, probably one of the most famous zinc mines, is in the city, as are also the properties of several of the leading zinc mining companies of the United States.

The city was not buried by a sudden flow of molten lava, as were the cities of Pompeii, but by the "tailings" of the mines of the camp, because, it is said, of differences be-

Two owners of the mines, and merchants and landowners of the town. One day the tailing spouts of one of the great mines was turned on the town, deluging it with crushed flint. The people moved their homes and business places in a mad rush to escape the downpour of dust and rock particles. Stores, cottages, barns and tents had to be moved, and how where once stood the thriving city is an immense pile of "chat" containing thousands of carloads. One street and a few dozen homes only were spared, and here the thriving business of the little town is carried on, the once prosperous business district being now buried under the immense mountain of crushed rock.
