

INTERESTING BUDGET FROM TURNING TOWN OF SUSSEX

Last Carnival of the Season to be Held February 25th

(From The Fun's Own Reporter.)

SUSSEX, N. B., Feb. 7.—Mr. H. P. Robinson of St. John, N. B., arrived in Sussex Saturday night en route to Halifax.

Mr. F. E. Sharp, Midland, passed through Sussex today en route to Moncton.

The last carnival of the season will be held in the Alhambra rink, Sussex, on the night of February 25th. A good time is anticipated by everybody.

Mr. H. A. McArthur has severed his connections with the Sharps Separator Co., for whom he has been the Maritime representative for a number of years, and will now devote his time to the interests of the Acme Steel Ladder Company, of which he is one of the principal owners. The separator work which was being done by Mr. McArthur will be looked after by Mr. J. H. Scribner, who will take the Nova Scotia territories, and Mr. S. H. Hagerman, who will have the oversight over eastern Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Miss Jennie Spear, who was visiting in Boston for the past few months, returned home last week.

His Lordship Bishop Casey's pre-lent pastoral letter is being very favorably commented on alike by Catholics and Protestants in this vicinity.

L. C. Daigle, dairy superintendent, was in Sussex today. He went to Moncton this afternoon and will go back to Bloomfield in the course of a few days to take up the work of herd inspection.

ON THE WEST SIDE

In view of the fact that Rev. Milton A. Rees, the speaker for the West side group, did not arrive until too late to attend the services, the meeting was conducted in Carleton Place, where Rev. David Lang, assisted by Mr. F. A. Bourdon, who led the singing. The large auditorium of the church was well filled and the meeting was attended with much success.

Rev. Mr. Lang spoke on Peter's denial of Christ. Christ, said Mr. Lang, was being denied every day by those who were living outside of His church. The Saviour had said, "He that is not with Me is against Me," and there were many who were against Him. It was those who were against Him that were those interested in the campaign hoped to reach and with the assistance of the people they would surely be reached. The speaker urged that everyone pray for the success of the campaign, and that each evening they should try and bring somebody to the meeting with them who stood in need of conversion.

Amendment to the Address Will be Moved

Will Raise Whole Question of Existing Fiscal System

Cabinet Meetings Called by Asquith-Liberals Confident

Split in Ranks of Irish Party Widens-Kitchener for India

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The tariff reformers are determined to put the address to the test at the earliest opportunity. They believe that the Irish element are overwhelmingly in favor of tariff reform and that the Redmondites cannot be depended upon to support a free trade government.

Accordingly, Asquith Chamberlain will move an amendment to the address in parliament raising the whole question of the existing fiscal system, in the hope that the Nationalists will either vote against the government or abstain from voting.

Premier Asquith returned to London this evening. He has called a meeting for the cabinet for both Thursday and Friday, and it is expected that he will go to Brighton on Friday to confer with the King. It is practically certain that the first business of parliament will be the re-introduction of the budget, which the chief Liberal whip tonight predicts will be passed intact within a fortnight. It is understood that the prime minister has decided that the exigencies of the fiscal situation make the course desirable, as it is believed that the question dealing with the veto of the house of lords may prove a long and difficult business.

The two sections of the Irish party are already coming in grips. John E. Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, having called a party meeting at Dublin for tomorrow, Timothy Healy, M. P. for the north division of Louth, has written a letter to Mr. Redmond, warning his action and claiming that every member elected, including himself, is entitled to be invited to the meeting, that Mr. Redmond has no right to discriminate between Nationalist members and that his action nullifies the party pledge.

In spite of Mr. Healy's protest, however, it is expected that Mr. Redmond will insist on his right to recognize the O'Brienites as members of the party. It is reported that Lord Lintin, who will retire from his post as vicar of India, has been asked to succeed Field Marshal Lord Kitchener.

DEATHS

(Special to The Sun.)

NEWCASTLE, Feb. 8.—Edward, son of Neville Whitney of Strathadam, died yesterday from effects of internal injuries received while skating a few days ago. He was playing hockey, wearing his stick stuck in the ice, ran into his side, and caused him to pitch forward, striking his head. He was twelve years old.

MISS FRANCES ALLEN.

Despatches from Buffalo, N. Y., announce the death in that city on Monday of Miss Frances Allen, widow of the late John A. Allen, M. P. of Carleton. The deceased young lady had been in poor health for some time, suffering from heart disease. She had a large circle of relatives and friends in this city, who will regret to hear of her death, and will sympathize with Mrs. Allen in her bereavement. Her remains will be brought to St. John for interment.

CHESTER DAVIS.

FREDERICTON JUNCTION, Feb. 8.—Last evening Chester Davis, son of the late Elijah Davis, died after a year's illness from pulmonary tuberculosis. He was taken ill while travelling in Ontario and spent last year at Gravesend, Sanatorium. About Christmas he came home, ostensibly to close his days amid the associations of his youth. He was 29 years of age and is survived by one brother, Harry, and his mother, Mrs. Rev. O. N. Mott, Chas. L. Clarke, the well known C. P. R. bridge inspector, who has been ill since with la grippe and pneumonia, is still in a precarious condition.

Three hundred intercolonial employees in St. John voted yesterday in the election for Provincial Fund Board members. Keen interest among the men on the railway system is being manifested over the election. There are six candidates for the two positions.

WEAK MAN RECEIPT FREE

"Any man who suffers with nervous debility, brought on by excesses or dissipation, may cure himself at home with a simple prescription that will send him in a plain, sealed envelope, to any man who will write for it. Address: 222 Luck Building, Detroit, Michigan."

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Probably the longest chess tournament ever held was concluded last Sunday when Mons. Gaston G. Netter won a game from Mons. Emil Stehl at the Hotel Lafayette and was declared champion in a match of a thousand games, begun on April 12, 1902.

Mons. Netter is a Frenchman and Mons. Stehl is a Swiss. They are business men and became acquainted at the Hotel Lafayette some years ago. During the observations that followed their introduction each discovered that the other prided himself on his skill at chess. A challenge to a game followed and was accepted. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other. A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after

luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

CHURCHES NOT AT WAR, BUT WAR IN CHURCHES

Modern Thought Gaining Among Catholics and Protestants, Says Dr.

Van De Water

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—"Modernism is truth and truth must triumph," says the Rev. Dr. Geo. R. Van De Water, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Fifth Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, in a sermon on Modernism, last night.

"Ever since the time of Luther," the preacher went on, "Catholicity has been divided between two great bodies, generally but wrongly called Catholic and Protestant. Changes significant in their effects on both Protestant and Romanism are now going on. The Roman Church has added doctrine to doctrine—Papal infallibility in 1870 and the Immaculate Conception in 1854. The Protestant churches have reduced the standards of belief in predestination, everlasting punishment and other doctrines.

"Recently a new school of thought has arisen in both branches of the Christian Church. While it is less encouraged in the Roman communion, it still counts many adherents and it destined to work out the providential end of God in Christendom, in whatever Church they worship, wants to know the meaning of the higher criticism.

YOUNGER CATHOLICS IN MOVEMENT.

"The Rev. Dr. Briggs, recognized as the greatest authority in America on Biblical history, who has equal access to the Vatican Library and those of the Protestant centres of Europe, is the apostle of modernism in America, as Father Tyrrell was in Europe.

"The number of modernists among the Romanists is constantly on the increase, and they recruit their numbers among the younger and more able men of the clergy. The Roman curia has attempted to execute a flank attack, but it has proved unsuccessful. Though the Pope, as the mouthpiece of antiquated cardinals, most of them Italians, has silenced some of the modernists, their work goes on. Truth is mighty and must prevail.

"If we are to believe the Old Testament, God never cared much for monarchies, and the modern spirit exhibits the same tendency. It seems inconceivable that the Papacy should long resist the onward march of modernism. Change the majority of the cardinals from Italian and Spanish to those of any other nationality and the problem will be solved.

MANY PROTESTANTS BEHIND TIMES.

"Among the Protestants there are many who hold as hard to medievalism as do the cardinals of the Roman curia. The conflict, therefore, is no longer between the Romanists and the Protestants, but between those who believe that inspiration ceased with Luther and Thomas Aquinas, and those who accept the views so eloquently set forth by Robertson that there is still much truth to be revealed in religion. Modernists adopt the approved critical methods of literature in their examination of the Bible. They are sure to displease some saints, discredit some miracles and throw out some verses, but they will bring out the stronger the real truths of the Sacred Scriptures."

LARGE GATHERING AT STONE CHURCH

Over $52,000 Contributed Since Mr. Kuhring Became Rector.

MEETING WITH ADMIRAL COWLES.

"A curious thing happened to me while I was waiting to make an appointment to see the Secretary of the Navy. A rather young man walked into the office and asked for Mr. Meyer.

"When he went out the Secretary asked me if I knew the man. I said: 'That is a nonsense of yours,' said he. 'That is Admiral Cowles.' I introduced myself to the Admiral a few minutes later and told him my story. Late that afternoon he called me up on the telephone and told me that he had spent the whole morning hunting through the department records, and finally examining the papers to Secretary Meyer. The Admiral told me that the papers had never been brought to his attention before.

MEETING WITH ADMIRAL COWLES.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

ERECTOR OF SUGAR REFINERY IS CERTAIN

According to Those in a Position to Know

Work Will be Commenced by May 1st.

Those who claim that they are in a position to know, declare that the sugar refinery is now an assured fact. Mr. Durant, they say, has now everything in shape and just as soon as the required legislation is secured he will be ready to go ahead.

It is declared that by May 1st work will have commenced and that after that the big buildings required for the new industry will be rushed to completion just as rapidly as possible.

PREPARATION FOR LEGISLATIVE OPENING

Moyer and Second of Address Not Yet Named—Wm. Babbitt Dead in the West—A Theft Case.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Feb. 9.—The legislature will meet here in session on the 13th. The government will convene here next Tuesday. It has been decided that the guard of honor will be furnished by the R. C. R., attended by the first band. The 10th field battery of New Brunswick will fire the royal salute. It is not known yet who will be the mover and second of the address. Mr. J. D. Black will be the official reporter and will probably have as an assistant Mr. Bodlake.

Word was received this morning of the death of William Babbitt at Los Angeles, California, aged 66. Up to a few years ago Mr. Babbitt was a resident of this city, being a well known painter here.

The case of Nat. McIntyre, charged with stealing a rifle at Oromocto, was up before the police magistrate this morning. The prisoner was remanded until Saturday. A knife was produced in court which McIntyre claims is his. This knife, it is alleged, was found at the premises lately burglarized at St. Mary's.

TOBACCO HABIT

Dr. McTaggart's tobacco remedy removes all desire to weed in a few days. A vegetable medicine, and only requires touching the tongue occasionally. Price $2.00.

LIQUOR HABIT

Marvelous results from taking his remedy for the liquor habit. Safe and harmonious home treatment; no hypodermic injections, no publicity, no loss of time from business, and a cure guaranteed.

Address or consult Dr. McTaggart, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Canada.

WAR SCARE IS TWO PARTIES BATTLE OF OF TORIES OF SETTLERS

Dreadnoughts Not Enough
AN EMERGENCY

Beating of Ultra-Imperialistic Drum With Calomel Effects

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—Mr. Middlemore (North Grey) who resumed the debate on the second reading of the naval bill in the House today devoted the first part of his speech to refuting the view taken by Mr. Monk that Canada and the other overseas dominions were not bound either by a sense of duty or by a sense of gratitude to rush to the aid of the motherland. He maintained that the paramount consideration now was not the question of maintaining our autonomous rights, but rather a question of giving effective and prompt assistance to Great Britain in the presence of emergency.

He concluded by submitting that the only way to meet the emergency which he claimed existed was by a contribution of Dreadnoughts.

Mr. Powke (South Ontario) claimed that the naval purpose of the government was an acceptance of responsibility to protect Canada's growing foreign trade.

Mr. Armstrong—"If there is no emergency why build a Canadian navy?" "Because," replied Mr. Powke, "we are carrying out a well defined policy which has been under advisement for some years and which was first laid down by the government. The policy of a direct contribution as urged by the Opposition, was, he contended, an undemocratic and un-Canadian policy. Why should any other country than Canada be advocated? Did the Opposition place greater confidence in the parliament of Great Britain than they did in the parliament of Canada? He believed that the party was merely in wait of the council of their old chief, Sir John A. Macdonald, who had steadily advocated this principle, and whose first lieutenant Sir Charles Tupper had only recently advised Mr. Borden to duty to party and country in supporting the principle of the government's policy.

Mr. Burrell criticized the Premier for injecting partisan into the debate by ridiculing the dissensions in the opposition ranks.

Resuming after recess, Mr. Burrell declared that he was convinced that the Empire was in great danger and that the government's policy of assistance for the future did not go far enough.

Dr. Clark (Red Deer) said the opposition amendment was based entirely upon the supposition of an immediate danger to the naval supremacy of Britain. But he believed that the German scare was largely worked up by the yellow press. Mr. Borden's omnibus resolution included, Mr. Jameson's attitude of not knowing what to do, but wanting the country to tell him and with this was incorporated the extreme extravagance in the matter of furnishing ships and money for Britain. The third party attitude, that of Mr. Monk, had been looked after in a separate resolution. If a plebiscite were necessary to test the policy of a majority, the result would be logical. Let us ask for a referendum on Mr. Borden's proposal.

ROME, Feb. 8.—The following appointments proposed by Cardinal De Lai, secretary of the Consistorial congregation, were ratified by the Pope today: Rev. J. D. Decollier to be auxiliary archbishop of St. Paul, Minn.; Rev. J. W. Shaw of Mobile, Ala., to be coadjutor Bishop of San Antonio, Tex.; Right Rev. Denis O'Donahue, auxiliary bishop of Indianapolis, to be Bishop of Louisville, Ky.

First Personally Conducted

HERE APRIL 1ST

Largest Ever Brought From Great Britain to New Brunswick

The first personally conducted parties of immigrants will reach here about the first of April. There will be two of them, one conducted by N. B. Immigration Agent Bowdler and the other by a deputy of his. These will be the largest parties which have ever been brought out, and they will be the finest collection ever imported in a body—hand-picked, so to speak. A. B. Wilmut, the provincial agent, is awaiting the lot with huge interest, as he estimates that his troubles will then begin.

Speaking of his work yesterday, Mr. Wilmut said that he had noticed with gratification the manner in which the girls brought out adapted themselves to new conditions. Many of them were girls who had worked at the hardest kind of manual labor, such as handling heavy hides in tanneries and picking coal in the mines, yet most of them had shown themselves clever as house-keepers.

One girl had worked at the rather remarkable task, for a woman, of had carter. Yet she was now an efficient table girl, and had seen forgotten whatever tendencies she had at first to hustle out glass about with all her strength.

position place greater confidence in the parliament of Great Britain than they did in the parliament of Canada? He believed that the party was merely in wait of the council of their old chief, Sir John A. Macdonald, who had steadily advocated this principle, and whose first lieutenant Sir Charles Tupper had only recently advised Mr. Borden to duty to party and country in supporting the principle of the government's policy.

Mr. Burrell criticized the Premier for injecting partisan into the debate by ridiculing the dissensions in the opposition ranks.

Resuming after recess, Mr. Burrell declared that he was convinced that the Empire was in great danger and that the government's policy of assistance for the future did not go far enough.

Dr. Clark (Red Deer) said the opposition amendment was based entirely upon the supposition of an immediate danger to the naval supremacy of Britain. But he believed that the German scare was largely worked up by the yellow press. Mr. Borden's omnibus resolution included, Mr. Jameson's attitude of not knowing what to do, but wanting the country to tell him and with this was incorporated the extreme extravagance in the matter of furnishing ships and money for Britain. The third party attitude, that of Mr. Monk, had been looked after in a separate resolution. If a plebiscite were necessary to test the policy of a majority, the result would be logical. Let us ask for a referendum on Mr. Borden's proposal.

ROME, Feb. 8.—The following appointments proposed by Cardinal De Lai, secretary of the Consistorial congregation, were ratified by the Pope today: Rev. J. D. Decollier to be auxiliary archbishop of St. Paul, Minn.; Rev. J. W. Shaw of Mobile, Ala., to be coadjutor Bishop of San Antonio, Tex.; Right Rev. Denis O'Donahue, auxiliary bishop of Indianapolis, to be Bishop of Louisville, Ky.

THE VATICAN'S POSITION

OFFICIALLY EXPLAINED

Dinner to Fairbanks Given Last Evening in Rome by Methodist Preacher.

ROME, Feb. 8.—The Rev. B. M. Tipple, pastor of the Methodist Church in Perth, gave a dinner last night in honor of Charles W. Fairbanks. Among the guests were Dr. Walling Clark, head of the Methodist organization in Italy, the Rev. Walter Lewis, rector of the American Episcopal Church in Rome, and John W. Garrett, first secretary of the U. S. embassy. Ambassador Leishman was unable to attend. The conversation at the dinner centered in the incident between the ex-vice-president and the Vatican.

With regard to the Pope's refusal to give an audience to Mr. Fairbanks except on condition that he withdraw from his promise to address the Methodist Church on Sunday, the Vatican explains that it is customary for the Pope never to receive a personage who acts in any manner other than that of a Catholic minister in Rome.

luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.

Mons. Arteil's chef prepared a special menu for the occasion. The two gentlemen played every afternoon after luncheon for some time. Honors were equally divided; one day one would win, the next day the other.

A tournament of one thousand games was suggested; neither of the two realized which it was that made the proposal.

Sunday happened to be the fortieth birthday of Mons. Raymond Arteil, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette and the event with a celebration of the ending of the long distance chess tournament and made it a gala day. Mons. Arteil entertained the chess players and others at luncheon at the Lafayette.