SOME ARMY TERMS

Light For the Layman Not Posted on Military Matters.

HOW ARMY UNITS ARE NAMED.

The Various Designations From a Corps to a Squad—in Speaking of a Company, Troop or Battery the Letter Should Always Be Named First.

To the ordinary civilian, who is not particularly well posted on military matters, an interpretation of the army terms in general use may prove of interest. The following are among those that are most constantly employed:

A corps is two or more divisions and is commanded by a major general. A division is composed of two or more brigades and is also commanded by a major general.

A brigade, commanded by a brigadier general, is composed of two or more regiments and independent companies or battalions.

A regiment of infantry consists of twelve line companies and three additional companies. It is commanded by a colonel, with the following additional officers: One lieutenant colonel, three majors, fifteen captains as company commanders, three of them also being members of the colonel's staff as adjutant, quartermaster and commissary; two lieutenants to each company, one lieutenant acting on each of the three majors' staffs.

A battalion is made up of four companies and is commanded by a major. A company of infantry consists of about 100 men, divided into two platoons; platoons are divided into squads. A platoon is commanded by a lieutenant—a commissioned officer; two or more squads are commanded by a sergeant; a squad is commanded by a corporal and comprises seven men besides the corporal.

A company of cavalry is called a troop, and a battalion of cavalry is called a squadron.

A company of artillery is called a battery. It is divided into sections, and there may be different numbers of guns, according to the kind of artillery. Three batteries of artillery make a battalion.

The word "company," "troop" or "battery" should not be used before the letter, as "Company B." It would be the same as to say "Street Jackson."

The letter comes first, just as the numeral comes before the word regiment—"Second regiment," not "Regiment Second."

Troops are either "federals" (regular) or national guard. Every male citizen of the United States between the ages of eighteen and forty-five is a member of the militia. Never use the word when referring to organized bodies of troops.

There are no such things as "militia officials" or "army officials" in military parlance. They are national guard and army officers.

A skirmish, engagement, brush, fight or encounter is not a battle.

A battle is an engagement for the possession of a certain point and is general in its character. Large bodies of troops are engaged—more than a brigade; otherwise the fight is an engagement, a skirmish or an encounter.

Never say "Captain Jones and his soldiers of Company A." Say "A company commanded by Captain Jones did so and so."

Any irregular body of troops less than a company or troops is called a detachment unless it is a platoon or squad or a section of artillery. Never say "Lieutenant Jones and a number of men" from such and such an organization. Say "A detachment from A company, commanded by Lieutenant Jones."

Ammunition is spoken of in terms of rounds. "Fifty rounds" means fifty cartridges—fifty shots.

Never say "muskets." There are not any. Artillery carry pistols and not revolvers.

Troops generally move in columns. The usual column is four men abreast, two ranks comprising a squad, with the corporal as the man on the left in the rear rank. They go into the firing line in "extended order," sometimes referred to as a skirmish line. Troops are sent into battle or engagement as the firing line, the support and the reserve. The tactical unit in line of battle or engagement is the battalion.

A picket consists of several men, generally a squad. One of a picket is a sentinel or sentry. In front and on the flanks of all troops in camp are outposts—pickets. All troops doing guard duty, picket duty, or sentry duty, etc., are commanded by "the pickets of the day," so designated for a period of twenty-four hours, as are the troops on guard duty.

Washing the Face. A convenient device in the form of a good sized depression in the center or end of a kitchen sink, away with the necessity of drawing and emptying water for a purpose. By the addition of a double sink, the hands may be washed and drained without being touched by the hands.

Hungry Ant. To have his mail sent up by white ants is sometimes the lot of the resident of Slum, owing to the neglect of criminal postal officials. A few months ago a whole bag of mail was lost in an outlying district, and the letters were afterwards found in the jungle partly eaten.

Fame has only the glow of a day they say. But to live in the hearts of the people—that is worth something. Guide.

BOIESTOWN

Boiestown—John Hayes a respected resident of Hayesville passed away while sitting in his chair Sunday morning Jan 27th. He had been in poor health for some months but had never kept his bed and walked across the kitchen a short while before his death. Deceased was well known having kept a boarding house for some years. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Hunter. The remains were placed beside his wife in the Moir cemetery. Rev Mr Neil officiating.

On Monday night Jan 28th Elias Standish died at his home at Upper Hayesville. Death came suddenly as he has only been sick 3 days with a pain in his head. Mr Standish was a man of sterling qualities and will be much missed in the community in which he lived as he was always ready to help anyone in need. Through his continuing efforts a church was erected in that place on a piece of ground given by himself. Deceased leaves a son, Wm at home and a daughter, Mrs E Ford of Ladlow. Rev Mr Smith conducted the burial service at Moir's Cemetery.

Mrs Alexander Bruce of Taxis River is spending the winter with her daughter Mrs Percy Calhoun.

SAVE FOOD

In a time needing food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food. It is not how much you eat, but much you assimilate, that does you good.

The addition of a small teaspoonful of Bovril to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.
