Fredericton paper that though the Scott Act is the rule in that community three bars are openly maintained in connection with the Royal School of Infantry was read to the se to-day by Mr. Gillmor. The article nplained that the young men who joined school for school courses were demoralised by these bars, which are in connection with the canteen, the sergeants' mess and the officers' mess. Mr. Gillmor asked what the Minister of Militia proposed to do about it and Sir Adolphe Caron replied that he would have an enquiry

Sir John Macdonald made a feeling referce to the death of the member for New Westminster (Mr. Chisholm) and pathetically remarked these sad events following so close ly, one upon the other, were reminders of the certainty of human life.

The House having gone into committee on the tariff resolution the clauses embodying the orders in council adopted since the last tariff bill were passed with brief discusion Then the new tariff was taken up. The items respecting acid, acid phosphates and precious stones evoked no dis-cussion but there was a great flow of oratory over the proposition that live cattle, sheep and hogs should pay an port duty of 30 per cent. in place of 20 per ent. as formerly.

Mr. Foster explained that this increase wa about equivalent to the increase in the duty

Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Charlton and fr. Mulock deplored this increase as serving o good purpose and tending only to inspire ae United States with a feeling of hostility Canada.

Mr. Foster repudiated the idea that Canada should have to consult the Unieed States before passing legislation believed to be in he interest of the Dominion. He ridiculed he statement that this change in the tariff vas thrown out as a challenge to the United States or could be described as retaliation. The simple fact was, he said, that the Government real-sed that certain of the farmers' products did not receive proper protection, and this it was proposed to give them. If Canadians net with difficulties in the way of retaliatory egislation they would face them not as travens, but as brave men. [Applause.] He ess than criminal in endeavoring to create the impression at home and abroad that the Government were inspired with a mali-

IS IT CONTEMPT OF COURT

To Advertise "Who Killed Benwell? or TORONTO, April 10.—The editor and proprietor of The Fireside Weekly, published in this city, has got himself into difficulties with those interested in he defence of Birchall, in jail for the murder of Benwell. The trouble arises out of der of Benwell. The trouble arises out of a notice which appeared in certain issues of this paper lately, which announced that a thrilling serial story would soon be commenced, entitled, "Who Killed Benwell! or the Mystery of Blenheim Swamp," which would introduce the principal features of the Benwell-Birchall tragedy and deal with the early history in England of "Rex Somerset." Yesterday at Osgoode Hall before Mr. Justice Maclennan, Mr. Hellmuth of London, Birchall's counsel, applied to the court don, Birchall's counsel, applied to the court for an order calling upon the editor of The Fireside Weekly to show cause why he should not be committed to jail for contempt of court in publishing this notice, and for an order restraining the publication of the story. Mr. Hellmuth urged that this notice was a contempt of court and tended to inflame the minds of the public against Birch-all and prevent a fair trial for his client.

His Lordship granted the order asked for and the editor will be called upon to defend his action on Tuesday, when the motion is returnable for argument.

Michael McLaughlin, the proprietor of a lodging house at 13 Simcoe-terrace, who is charged with having put two bullets in David Mason's foot during a row, was brought up before Col. Denison yesterday. As Mason is still in the hospital the prisoner was remanded till next Monday, bail being refused. Mc-Laughlin, along with James Johnston and Jane McCaffrey, was also charged with having robbed Richard Kirwin, an old pensioner of $10. The case was adjourned till Monday.

A deputation composed of Messrs. Blain, Hamilton and Campbell, representing the Peel County Conservative Association, waited upon Inspector Hughes vesterday afternoon and formally offered him the nomination for the Legislative Assembly, Mr. Hughes accepted, conditional upon the permission of the Public School Board.

At the Poplar Hotel, Queen-street east and Saulter-street, last night Coroner Pickering held an inquest on the body of Mrs. Anne O'Donohoe, 362 Eastern-avenue, who died suddenly under alleged suspicious circumstances. Dr. Luke Teskey, who made the post-mortem examination, gave as his opin ion that Mrs. O'Donohoe died from conges tion of the lungs brought on by drink and exposure, and accordingly a verdict of death from natural causes was returned.
