The Cynic Keeps House.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The minute the Cynic stepped into the room everybody paused talking to ask in chorus: "Still keeping house?" "No," laughed the Cynic. "Mother has returned to her muttons." "Well," said Mrs. A. T. H. O. R. Man, "what do you think—has the woman who keeps house a snap?" "No," said the Cynic, promptly. "She hasn't. And she never will. But she works about twice as hard as she needs to, and it's her own fault." "I mean just what I say. This has been called the age of efficiency. We find its spirit everywhere, except in the home. What woman, reading of how this task or that task has been systematized—so, for instance, that a bricklayer can lay three times as many bricks as he used to, thinks of applying the idea to her own work?" "You got that out of a book," interposed Molly accusingly. "Guiltily," admitted the Cynic. "I bought a book on efficient house-keeping for my mother. She turned up her nose and she hasn't read it yet, but I have, and I know a lot of things about her waste of time and labor that she wouldn't believe."

The Author-Man's wife sniffed, but the Cynic went on serenely. "I know, for instance, that her kitchen is so arranged that she has to take unnecessary steps and that even as it is, she takes more than she needs to."

One Trip to the Shop, or Ten!

"Suppose you needed certain things at the hardware store, the market and the grocery. Wouldn't you try to do all your shopping at each one at one time, so that you wouldn't have to keep running back and forth between them?" "Now the average woman has the equivalent of these shops in her kitchen. When she wants a fork she goes to her hardware shop, when she wants tea she goes to the grocery, for meat to the market, and so on. What does she do in preparing a meal? Go to each once and get all she wants? No, sir, she goes to each half a dozen times."

The Kitchen Delivery Wagon.

"Furthermore, if you could arrange to have the hardware store, the grocery shop and the market so placed that they would be in a direct line of travel, away from and toward home, you would do it, wouldn't you? And if you had many things to get, you'd have a wagon carry them if you could. Very well. Yet the average woman does not try to have her shops so arranged, and does not use a tray, which is the kitchen equivalent of a wagon."

"Yes," in answer to the protest of the Author-Man's wife, "I know that every woman can't have her kitchen arranged exactly to suit her, but every woman can control these factors to some extent. And how about the woman who builds a house? How about those plans for a large, sunny kitchen in your new home, that you were showing us the other day? Do they take efficiency into consideration?"

EDWARD GIBBON died 1794, aged 57. The celebrated historian of the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," whose great work is an enduring classic.

SIR JOHN MOORE died 1809, aged 48, at the Battle of Corunna. A British General who served in Holland, Egypt and in the Peninsula, where he found himself between two great French armies, led by Napoleon and Soult, and effected one of the finest retreats recorded in history, reaching Corunna safely. Soult came up. Just as the British forces were about to embark, and a desperate battle ensued, Soult being forced back while the British troops safely took ship. But Sir John Moore was slain.

BATTLE OF FALKIRK 1746, when Bonnie Prince Charlie lay siege to Stirling Castle and drove the English back to Edinburgh. This was the last success of the Jacobites. Culloden closed the story in April, 1746.

LOYD GEORGE born 1863. The popular Chancellor of the Exchequer and one of the most active of Liberal politicians; a most effective speaker and strong and keen in debate. He passed the famous "Budget" of 1909 in spite of the opposition of the Lords, and the National Insurance Bill in 1911 and is at present deeply interested in Land Reform.

QUINTON HOGG died 1903, aged 58. English educationist and philanthropist who in 1882 provided a popular college at moderate rates and built up an institution of great utility.

WHO PAYS.

Drum and trumpet and banner, banner and trumpet and drum!

Tramp, tramp, through the city streets the new-listed armies come. Song and laugh on the transports steaming under the stars. Wet eyes star-blind of those behind who pay for the nations' wars.—(The women who pay and have paid, dear Lord, for immemorial wars.)

Cheers and shouts greet the headlines that tell of the battles won. Who remembers the death-wrecked bodies motionless under the sun? Victory stood to our banners, only a handful left.—Only! We bore those bodies, and we know what bodies cost! (Mothers and wives of the soldiers dead who better can gauge the cost?)

Man is blinded by passion, by glory or gold or power. Shall we not see more clearly when it comes to the woman's hour? Before we loose hell's lightning that shall prove a curse through strife Shall we not weigh the price we pay when the payment's in human life? (Dear Lord, we know by each birth-throe the value of human life).

Counsellors, kings, and rulers, ye take what ye cannot give. Can ye say to the things in the trenches, "Be whole, rise up and live?" Do ye know—who have killed your thousands by a word from a death-tipped pen—One little pang of the cost to those who breed you your fighting men? (Who pays, dear Lord, for their bodies and souls but the mothers and wives of men?)—Edna Valentine Trappell.

'The Optimists Corner.'

"Opportunity," they say, "knocks once at every man's door," sooner or later. Some quickly open the door, others are while still doing nothing to head it, while still another class is too sound asleep to hear the knock consequently a very few comparatively speaking, ever attain the success which is written in capital letters. The meaning of the words opportunity and luck should not be confused, for their difference is as the difference between day and night. Luck doesn't mind dropping in without an invitation—but he's a mighty luke-warm friend to rest your entire weight against. But when opportunity knocks it's generally because you've given her reasons to believe that her attentions will be appreciated. In other words we make our own opportunities by paying strict attention as to what Liment you supply your customers with.

Pantomime Matinee

REST YET.

A crowded house at Rossieys' last night to see the Pantomime, and the laughs and applause testified to the patrons' enjoyment. It is the best Pantomime of all. The costumes are superb. The song the latest and prettiest ever heard. The dances original. The many specialties were encored again and again. To-day the matinee is five cents to give the children a chance. Little Red Riding Hood will be in the theatre to speak to the little one as they enter. There is another Pantomime being prepared. There are lots of the finest feature pictures to-day also. Send the children to see Robin Hood and his merry men with fifty performers taking part.

RECEIPT FOR MAKING GOOD BREAD.

Take 1 quart of VICTORY flour, 1-3 cake Royal Yeast, dissolve in one cup lukewarm water, pour this on flour with enough warm water to make stiff batter; in four hours this will be ready for mixing, then add 2 quarts VICTORY Flour and 2 dessert spoons table salt, and 1 pint lukewarm water, knead ten minutes, then let rise over night, mould into loaves, let rise until double its bulk and bake for one hour. For fancy bread add 2 dessert spoons granulated sugar, one of butter. Jan. 12/15

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

Every night sees a big house at the Rossiey West End Theatre. The pictures are splendid, and lots of them, while the music is extra special. Either of the Rossiey Theatres is the place to spend a night and see a good show.

CHILDREN LEFT ALONE.—Detectives Byrne and Tobin had occasion to go to a house in the East End the night before last where they found three infant children, sparsely clad, all by their lonesomeness. Standing on a table and in danger of being caught by a lighted lamp. The mother and father were at a dance and were quickly rounded up by the detectives and made return home to their neglected children.
