Curling.

(From the Calgary Herald.)

When men have passed the age of hockey playing in Western Canada they curl. There is no game more democratic. Its devotees include men of every class in every community. A man has no rank on the ice except that which his skill gives him. Is there a more enlivening spectacle than what than that afforded by the Victoria rink when its fourteen sheets of ice are all engaged and the roar of the players is sounding to the roof? Would a man have invigorating exercise? Then let him sweep a full game.

Would he have excitement? Then have him engaged in a game where every rock played affects the standing of the opponents. Would he see good sportsmanship? It is nowhere better exemplified than in a curling match. In Calgary, curling enjoys great popularity. One reason for this is, of course, the splendid facilities provided for the game. Both the curling rinks are excellently equipped, but it may be questioned if anywhere in the world there is another rink like the equal of Victoria. Its unusual size, permitting of the playing of fourteen games under the one roof, puts it in a class by itself.

St. John's West Committee.

The meeting of this Committee to-night, as advertised in another column, is for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year, as per nominations submitted last Tuesday night. This Committee has been active since 1919, and has decided to retain its position in politics, for the purpose of advancing the destinies of Newfoundland in general and St. John's in particular. Liberal now as always, the members have accepted the association of Labor and thus a powerful organization has been kept together which will not fail to make its effect valuable in the general election of 1923 or sooner, if current rumours are to be credited.

Loyal Orange Association.

The Grand Lodge Advisory Committee of the Province of Nfld. under the jurisdiction of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Canada, held a meeting last night for the purpose of discussing matters in connection with the celebration of the Golden Jubilee of the establishment of the Association in Newfoundland. Those present were very enthusiastic over the proposals formulated, and a number of Sub-Committees were appointed to make recommendations for the various ceremonies that should take place after Grand Lodge is convened, which will be about latter part of March.

Nelson and Bagot.

(From the Manchester Guardian)
Mr. Richard Bagot had a shorter spell of life than his mother, who was born in 1826 and died only a few years ago. As a girl she had danced with the ninth Marquis of Huntley, who was born in 1761, and who, as she relates, "made a point of dancing with every debutante because he had danced with Marie Antoinette at the Tuileries." Her father, Admiral Joceline Percy, had served as midshipman under both Nelson and Hardy. Hardy, coming on deck one bitterly cold morning, found the young Percy standing with his hands in his pockets. "My father," says Mrs. Bagot, "never forgave Captain Hardy for turning up all hands up Mr. Percy's pockets on the quarter-deck." A pleasant recollection was that of Nelson, at Hardy's request, receiving two Spanish captains in audience. "Nelson always wore short breeches and silk stockings, and at this moment his legs were bound at the knee and ankle with pieces of brown paper soaked in vinegar and used with red tape, to allay the irritation of mosquito bites. Quite forgetting his extraordinary appearance, Nelson made his visitors also forget it by his admirable courtesy and charm of manners."

Lumberman Says He Does the Work of Two Men Now

Bay Side Resident Has Gotten Rid of Stomach Trouble—Eats Anything Now.

"We Bay Side people have as much reason to be grateful to Tanlac as the people of Halifax have," said Dan Daughlines, well-known lumber man at Bay Side, N.S., while on a recent visit to Halifax.
"I had stomach trouble of the worst sort an' got cheated out of many a square meal because I just drowed to eat, knowing the misery I would have to go through with afterwards. I did not dare to touch fresh beef, pork or fat of any kind."
"It was getting worse right along and was lucky for me that I got Tanlac when I did. I can eat now and never have a bit of trouble afterwards. What I eat gives me strength too, for I can do the work of two ordinary men these days and not get worn out."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

High Cost of Lighting.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—The Humber project looks good on the face of it, but it ought to be examined carefully before any decision is given. It may or may not be a good thing for the country, but any monopoly at this date must be carefully scrutinized. Our experiences of monopolies are not very pleasant ones. Take for example the Electric Light Co. They got a monopoly of all the franchises free and without cost, and what is the result? It is alleged that the Company pays handsome dividends, but the public pays just three times as much for light and power as other cities. In Montreal the average cost per kilowatt hour is about 6 cts., while here it ranges from 11 to 15 cts., that is from twice to three times as much as it costs in Montreal. Some time ago there was some talk of reducing the ratio. If the Montreal Company with its manifold costs and charges can sell power for such a cheap rate, why do we have to pay so much? One word explains it—Monopoly.
Yours,
Jan. 17, 1922.

CAUTION.

For Coughs or Colds take Stafford's Phoratorne, it will cure.—Jan. 17.

SHOES.

I'll tell you it's a problem when a youngster's nine years old and to keep his feet in leather and to keep him healthy and soled, I've some money I can use.

His mother comes and tells me that he needs a pair of shoes.
Now I can wear a pair of shoes for several months or more.
But I don't seem to be working for the man who keeps the store.
And the rascal seems to fancy that his duty is to shoe the kid.
How fast a healthy, rugged boy can wreck a leather shoe.

But shoes are made for romping in, for climbing and for fun.
For kicking bricks and empty cans, and I am not the one
To make him walk sedately in the way that grown-ups do.
There's time enough for that, I say, when all his boyhood's through.

So let him wreck them, heels and toes, and scuff their soles away.
I'll not begrudge the bill for shoes that I'm compelled to pay.
For I rejoice that it's my lot, when mother breaks the news,
To have a healthy, rugged boy who's always needing shoes.

To Make Rich Red Blood

Revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves and increase your strength and endurance
Take Organic Iron; not metallic iron which people usually take, but pure organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. One dose of Nuxated Iron is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen apples. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Nuxated Iron is partially pre-digested and ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron filings.
Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. A few drops will often commence to enrich your blood. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain satisfactory results.
Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

One of History's Mysteries.

THE MAN IN THE IRON MASK.
("On Thursday, the 18th of September, 1698, at three o'clock of the afternoon, M. de Saint-Marks, governor of the chateau of the Bastille, arrived for his first entrance into office . . . having brought with him a prisoner, whom he obliges to keep himself always masked and whose name is not told.")
The above entry upon the register of the Bastille—that grim French prison—forms the only record of one of the most mysterious characters in history—the man in the iron mask.
Who was this man?
Of what crime was he guilty?
The prisoner was undoubtedly of royal birth, for even the governor of the prison stood with head uncovered in his presence, and he was granted many liberties not usually granted to prisoners of the Bastille.
The man of mystery remained within those grim walls for five years, two months and one day, and his burial was attended with as much secrecy as his life had been—the police of the Bastille were the only two people who know of his final resting-place.
One explanation of this mystery-man was that the masked prisoner was the illegitimate son of Louis, condemned to this secret imprisonment; for daring to strike his half-brother, the Dauphin (as the heir to the French Throne was called).
A second, and really amazing theory, however, was that the man in the iron mask was the rightful Louis himself, and that the man who occupied the throne was an impostor who ruled for more than seventy years solely by means of his deception and the imprisonment of the real monarch.
Fantastic, and hardly credible, was the story that the prisoner was the twin-brother of Louis, imprisoned in order to avoid the complications which would have followed any attempt to distinguish between two sons so much alike.
Finally, there is the belief that the masked man was James de la Cloche, son of Charles II. of England, who disappeared shortly before the man in the iron mask was first heard of—but there is not one title of direct evidence.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Bishop's Retort.

"It was Archbishop Magee," says Lord Frederic Hamilton, "who, when Bishop of Peterborough, encountered a drunken navy man one day as he was walking through the poorer quarters of that town. The navy man stepped out of a public-house, uttering a powerful aroma of gin all around him; when he saw his chief pastor he raised his hand in a gesture of mock benediction and called jeeringly to the bishop: 'The Lord be with you!' And with 'thy spirits,' answered Magee, like a flash."

G.W.V.A.—The Executive of the G.W.V.A. held a special meeting last night when various important matters were discussed. Lieut.-Colonel (Rev.) Nangle was present and made a short address on his work whilst across.

Prophet Sentenced to Gaol.

RELIGIOUS FANATICS GET SIX YEARS.

London, Jan. 14. (By Canadian Press)—"Enoch the Prophet," leader of the fanatical native section in South Africa known as the "Israelites," along with his two brothers, has been sentenced to six years' imprisonment, with hard labor, for sedition. Thirty other ring-leaders have received sentences of three years' imprisonment, with hard labor, and seventy of the rank and file eighteen months' imprisonment on the same terms. In the cases of the remainder of the Israelites—old men and boys—sentence has been suspended for a year. The Cape Town correspondent of the Times cables that the trial has justified the action taken by the police in the Bulhoek affair on May 24th last, when 183 followers of Enoch were shot dead in their fanatic charge upon the police. The Judge who presided at the trial of the seditionists, Sir Thomas Graham, found that no blame attached to the police, but he severely criticized the vacillating policy of the officials in the months preceding the outbreak. He especially condemned the authorities for having withdrawn a strong body of armed police in the preceding December. This, he described as a scathing, was the first occasion on which armed and disciplined white police had withdrawn and abandoned a camp in the face of natives armed only with assegais, swords and knives. He declared that the effect of this had been to encourage the native fanatics in the belief that the Europeans were afraid of them.

NATIVE FANATICS.

The so-called Israelites comprised a band of native fanatics who refused to take orders from any of the Government authorities unless Enoch announced that such orders were sanctioned by Jehovah, God of Israel. They camped on Government ground at Bulhoek, near Queenstown, in the Cape Province, and would not move. They caused a lot of trouble by refusing to allow subpoenaed witnesses to attend the Courts, and by generally failing to fulfil the ordinary duties of citizenship. The authorities exercised considerable patience in the hope of avoiding bloodshed. Before the police concentration took place an ultimatum was sent, but to this Enoch replied in an evasive and rambling letter that he would not move unless Jehovah ordered. Eventually, on May 24, a force of 800 police advanced against the camp. When they were within fifty yards of the natives, the latter charged—armed with big steel assegais. Then the police opened fire. It is thought that about 600 natives took part in the charge on the police, and that there was a considerable number in reserve. These afterwards fled.

Resembles Lumber.

Tufa, a volcanic ash rock, with properties possessed by no other stone, is being quarried near the town of Mt. Angel, Ore., the only place in the United States where it has been found in sufficient quantities for commercial use.
Deposits in Italy and Germany have been used for building purposes for many years, but the tufa is lighter than the European, and has other special characteristics. The stone is first blasted out and is then hauled to a mill and handled like lumber. It is cut into blocks of "boards" of any desired dimensions. Saws, planers, and drills are used on it exactly as in a lumber or planing mill.
The finished product closely resembles lumber, but is cut only in short lengths. It is a light gray color, with spots of white running through it, and weighs only eighty pounds to the cubic foot, about one-half the weight of common building stone.

A peculiar characteristic of the Oregon tufa is that it can be nailed. Nails are driven into it as easily as into oak and other hard woods, but are harder to pull out. Tufa furniture nailed together, has been made experimentally. It is regularly used for fence posts, moldings, sills and many other purposes where nailing is required. Recently it has been discovered that when pulverized it makes a soft, velvety powder which is an excellent filler for rubber. It is predicted that it will supplant all other materials for this purpose, thus utilizing the refuse.
The Mount Angel tufa field lies at an elevation of fifteen hundred feet and covers an area of over one thousand acres, varying from fifteen to thirty-five feet in depth. It is covered with a layer of earth and basaltic rock. This peculiar stone is composed of pure volcanic ash, free from lava, which was thrown up by some early volcanic disturbance and solidified remains of trees are found imbedded in the rock, erect as they were when the ash fell about them. The source of the ash cannot be determined, though it is suggested that it may have accompanied the eruption which formed the bed of Crater Lake in Oregon.
