PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

June 18th.—Lay long, being mighty weary from the parade of the night pefore, albeit my wife out of sympathy or me and calls me lazy. So up and the Board of Trade, where Capt. Kean discourses with me and his talk of the book which England, the American novelist, did write of the sealashery, and is indeed, the greatest exaggeration, in parts, that ever I did hear of. The Captain tells me also divers tales of the seal fishery, mighty interesting. Since the election little news anywhere, and the town is now the dullest place possible, being no life in anyone or anything. In the evening, the weather rown fine, to play at tennis. But ord, how changeable is my luck, that one day I may be among the best players, and on another, one of the forst, and indeed, it seems impossible for me to maintain the one standard form. Anon to drive around the pond in my motor coach, and to watch the crews at practice for the Haig Regatta. The bands playing, many to dance on an improvised floor, and the manner of their dancing amusing beyond all writing, allmost. special despatches this evening mes news of G. Doumergue, a formpremier, he elected President of French Republic, and indeed, a reat surprise to many, all expectations being that the honour would all on Painleve.
