BASEBALL

City Defeats Grand Falls.

On Saturday afternoon last, a baseball game was staged at St. George's Field between Grand Falls and the City, and to the great surprise of many the game ended in a victory for the locals by 7 runs to 1. There was a large attendance of fans, who showed their "old time" enthusiasm throughout. The game witnessed on Saturday augurs well for the reorganization of the League in the not distant future. Despite the fact that the local players had not participated in this game for the past three years, and entered the field without practice against a well-conditioned team, it speaks volumes for their splendid work. The city team showed up remarkably well in fielding and running the bases. Art Hiltz was invincible at 1st; Canning and Hall, the moundsmen, pitched a tight ball, and at times the Grand Falls players were completely baffled with their "stunts." Crowley, for Grand Falls, had the best hit for the day, a three-bagger, while Delaney's two-bagger was the best for the City. The Grand Falls downfall was largely due to loose fielding, and wild throwing. "Buck" Hannaford pitched a good game, having eleven strikeouts to his credit, but lacked the support of his team mates. The umpires were Messrs. F. V. Chesman and J. Nugent.

Emile then entertained the visitors to tea, and a happy hour was spent before return was made to town.

ALL-CANADIAN SPORTS.

The annual championship sports of Canada took place at Halifax on Saturday, and proved most successful. The sports were held at the Wanderers' Grounds and were attended by a large gathering of spectators. Club competition between the various cities was very keen but Montreal won out, defeating St. John, N.B., by the close margin of three points. A gentleman who saw the sports sent all particulars to a friend of his in the city, through whose courtesy we are able to publish the list of events, prize winners, etc. In view of the N.A.A.A. Sports being on Wednesday this will give the athletes here an opportunity to compare the time, distance, etc., made here with that of Canada. The programme is as follows:—

The Grand Falls athletes, and their supporters, with the city football team, left town by special train at 8.30 yesterday morning for the inland city. The second half of the football fixtures will be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. There was a large number of sports at the station to see the athletes off. The train made good time across country, having reached Grand Falls one o'clock this morning.

A SURE THING.

Considerable interest is being taken in a wager recently made by a prominent citizen to reduce his weight by fifteen pounds in three weeks. Already the citizen's face wears a look of worry, the parties season being so near, but his friends console him with a supper—at his expense—at the end of the period of abstinence.

TO MEET DEMPSEY.

STOCKTON, Cal. Aug. 29.—Larry Serrita, heavyweight fighter from Jackson, Cal., who has won all but one fight here since January, announced that he had accepted Jack Dempsey's challenge for a two round exhibition on the Labor Day programme in San Francisco. Serrita weighs 185 pounds and is a hard hitter.

GREG OUT OF HOSPITAL.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 29.—Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, who was injured in an automobile accident more than a week ago, is ready to leave the hospital to-day, his physicians said. They stated that Greb's injuries will not handicap his future ring activities, but advised him not to resume training for a few months.

SOLOMON GOT VERDICT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Fighting the last five rounds with an injured right hand which hung limply at his side, King Solomon (200), of Panama, won a judges' decision over Quintin Romero-Rojas (198) Chile, in a 12-round bout here to-night.
Newspapermen at the ringside gave Solomon a majority of the rounds on points, while the Panamanian inflicted the most damage, cutting the Chilean's face in two places with his stinging jab.

"KID" KAPLAN RETAINS TITLE FROM HERMAN.

RINGSIDE, Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 28.—Louis "Kid" Kaplan, last of Omaha, Russia, now a citizen of Meriden, Conn., was receiving last night. He received a fairly stout clubbing from the active knuckles of Babe Herman, the prize picking Portuguese of California, and then received the better of it from the referee who gave a draw decision, and saved the featherweight championship of the world for Kaplan, although from this angle of the ring it appeared that Kaplan had lost. It was a pretty sprightly fight, but as harmless as a Maypole dance, for Herman rolled far to windward of most of Kaplan's crude swings at the head and the Babe's own shots which were thudding against Louis the Kid's concrete skull, were not the kind which unbalance the knees and start the cookbooks twittering in the clock tower.

Jimmy Kelly, an Italian restaurateur from the artistic environs of Greenwich Village, who used to be a fighter himself, and has ears like the leaves of a rubber plant to prove as much, was behind Babe Herman as manager and director of strategy. When he saw Jack Sheehan, of Boston, raise the buggy right mits of Herman and Kaplan together, indicating that the fight was a draw in his opinion, Kelly swung around the ring-side, ripping his way through the crowd, demanding the blood of the Connecticut Boxing Commission and vowing never again to eat nutmeg, the principal fruit of the Connecticut orchards.

Signor Kelly was resolutely stroked on the nose by the walking gear of several Connecticut gendarmes and dissuaded from his evil purpose.

Kaplan Got $15,000.

Kaplan got $15,000. If the promoters have told the truth, for defending the championship, and Herman's pay was $5,000.

Herman gave Kaplan an efficient lathering in all but a few of the energetic, but uniformly eventless rounds. The fifth was a succession of rushes and clinches. Kaplan would come roaring from his corner, his chin lowered against his muscular chest, his thick neck bowed, his left fist slashing the cold evening air of New England, and Herman would either catch the punch on his upraised right or step inside the arc and let it warm his shoulder blades with the painless thwack.

Thereupon it was Herman's practice to sting a right to Kaplan's heart and rumple Kaplan's ear with a short left hook.

Kaplan is unusually strong for a featherweight, however, and Herman found it necessary to grab him and tie up his arms in clinches until Sheehan, a calm, sedate official, would request them to untie themselves and practice the business of pugilism.

From this point it seemed that Herman outscored Kaplan in the rushes, beating him to the punches with vigors to the heart and jaw as the featherweight king came thundering at him. The little ballyard was "pretty well peopled with customers, most of whom are more or less intimate neighbors of Louis, and the voice of the mob, as the fight whirled along to the final round, expressed the idea that Connecticut's champion was about to become an ex-champion.

Herman's rights to the jaw were the most satisfactory blows of the fight, and none of them was heavy enough to put the champion down, although one such smash delivered in the fifth round as Kaplan came pelting across the ring, temporarily basing him and made him fling several left swings which weren't even aimed at Herman.

Jane Novak "The Lullaby"

COLOSSAL FEATURE AT THE MAJESTIC TO-DAY.

Mother Love—untiring, magnificent, all-consumming—this is the basis of the tremendous "The Lullaby" running through "The Lullaby" Chester Bennett's intensely dramatic offering, starring Jane Novak which comes to the Majestic Theatre to-night.

There have been other mothers portrayed on the screen, mothers whose faith in their erring children has been predominant, humorous mothers, and mothers in whom a note of sorrow was the outstanding characteristic.

The mother which Miss Novak portrays in the first part of "The Lullaby" is a new type of mother—a mother who comes to this country from her native Italy, joyful, exuberant, and devoted, upon whom time and experience stamps its furrows of care and suffering. This mother, through a long separation from her child, is shut out forever from the sight of her offspring by an unmovable barrier, a barrier erected by established special tradition. And it is in the self-denial, the repression, and the tragedy of her removal from the one who is dearest to her, that Miss Novak rises supreme. Never before has that wistful appeal, for which she is so well-beloved the country over, been cast to such great advantage as in this artistic picture.

Miss Novak also plays the part of the daughter, ignorant of her parent's nearness, whose great happiness only serves to set off in bold relief the harshness of her mother's sacrifice. In this part, no trace of the other's mental anguish is apparent. She is simply the gay embodiment of youth, with no earthly cares or concerns, loving life and living to its utmost.

"The Lullaby" is the fifth picture which Chester Bennett has directed for F. B. O. in which Miss Novak has appeared in the leading role, "The Lullaby" and "The Lullaby" being the last two offerings, previous to which were "Colleen of the Pine" and "The Snowshoe Trail."
NOTE.—Because the Majestic management have contracted for a large number of super specials such as "The Lullaby" from now on there will be three complete changes of show weekly—Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The evidence showed that a sample of the rum had been seized by the police, on the premises, and upon being analysed, it was shown that it contained 1.4 p.c. of alcohol by volume. Judge Morris in summing up gave the accused to understand that under no consideration is liquor to be either exposed or sold on his premises. According to the evidence submitted there was nothing left for His Honor to do other than dismiss the case.

Veteran Explorer Will Adopt Thesus' Plan

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Frank Burnett, veteran explorer who makes his headquarters here, is more than seventy years old, but the South Seas are luring him back and he is at present planning to make the most extensive journey of his long career of wandering in strange places.

Obtainable at all first-class stores.

Mr. Burnett will leave this coming winter for the East Indies, where he intends to climb the highest mountain trod by white man cross over Borneo and then wind up his jaunt in India. On his way to the East Indies he will stop off at the Windward Archipelago, near the Fijian Islands. On these islands the legendary god of earth-grouches dwells. It is a little known group and Burnett hopes to make some interesting discoveries there.
The explorer intends to visit the maze in the caverns of Rasiklau, where the passages are so long and twisting that he will unwind a ball of yarn as he enters, like Thesus of old, in order that he may find his way back in safety. He will also explore the strange island of Munia, said to be the abiding place of the god of hurricanes and which was many years ago deserted by its native inhabitants. He has already had some experience of the fierce hurricanes of Munia for he was there in 1923, when the seas were lashed across the stretch of land flinging trees and forming inland lakes.

It is a common thing to find stone hatchet heads and other tools of stone under a thin covering of soil representing the accumulation of only half a century or so. Particularly frequent are these finds made on the sites of Indian villages, often in heaps of clam shells left as a relic of countless Indian feasts.

For three hours the clergyman had been pained by the free and unprovoked language of his frail companion. Then the talkative stranger alighted, and was half-way across the platform when the preacher called him back, shouting that he had left something behind.
"What is it?" the stranger asked.
"A very unpleasant impression," was the reply.
