DISCUSS MEANS TO CUT PRICE OF GAS

Problem Will Be Taken Up By Fair Price Committee at Meeting Next Week.

How best to prevent the City Gas Company from maintaining the charges for gas which have been imposed for the last two months will be taken up by the fair price committee at its next necting, which will be held next week. An organization meeting of this com-nittee was held last night in the Labor Temple. J. A. Glennie was chosen chairman and J. F. Thomson is the sec-

Delegates from the Trades and Labor Council, the Labor Representation Committee, the I. L. P., the Great War Veterans' Association and the Army and Navy Veterans were present. The Grand Army of Canada will also be represented on the committee at its next meeting.

There was a great deal of discussion at the meeting last night regarding the increasing wages and the boosting of costs of foods and other necessaries. The great difficulty was admitted to be that the beginning of a circle cannot be determined, but it was decided that the ring should be broken by fighting to reduce the cost of living rather than by trying to boost the wages.

In determining to bring down the cost of living within reach it was unanimously agreed that the first problem should be that of the price of gas in London. The committee decided to meet every Monday night, so in the natural course the gas question would be taken up next Monday evening. As that is Labor Day it is probable that the meeting may be postponed to Tuesday night. Labor Day was evidently forgotten by the men last night in their zeal to bring about better conditions.

Secretary Thomson has already written to the labor department to secure the wholesale prices that prevailed in Canada since 1913 and other statistics. He has also sent a request to Sidney Arnold, an English M. P., for all avail-There was a great deal of discussion creased to $120.

A promissory note action in excess of $200 could not be heard in the division court, but now an action up to $400 can be tried without taking it to the county court. Similarly there is a change in regard to contract suits. A charge can now be heard in the division court up to $200 instead of $100.

In view of the fact the division court in the city sits once a month and in the county every two months, collections can be handled with greater speed, for the county court only sits twice a year.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

September 1.—Rose as brisk as I ever did in my life and look over my chest of winter underwear and resolve this day to have a new iron plate put to my snow shovel, though St. Andrew knows 'twould be better to let the snow lie this winter like the Eskimos to the keeping out of cold blasts, what with the price of coal and other commodities. But a fine thing it is to welcome autumn again, than which season there is none finer save the springtime. Spring ever reminds me of guileless innocence blushing pink against the ardent stare of the sun, while autumn comes royally, like a woman of the world, who has seen all things but kept her righteousness.

To my accounts before breakfast and find that I be increased to my bank account by sundry items, that my vusiness ventures promise much for the future and that my wife and I have pearly enough clothes to see us through the winter. All this makes me pretty content and so to breakfast.

Out to the office by a street coach and observe that the cars look shabbier than I ever saw such cars in a city and than I ever saw such cars in a city and the service continues ridiculous in the extreme. Now is the time, I think, for our good burghers to play no longer with this system, but to plan forthwith for a transport system of their own. One of coaches without tracks or wires for power, the kind that the future will prove alone useful. This would serve us better than great city halls with a market in one end and a cold storage plant. ket in one end and a cold storage plant

To-day I meet a man that I knew in To-day I meet a man that I knew in the wars, a man ever proclaiming against his luck. 'Tis the same story with him in peace time, for he says: 'I am surely the unluckiest man alive. Nothing I venture at prospers and I believe that should I start for hades with a truckload of ice, that place would freeze up before I got there.' Which is strange.

Out to the golf links with a friend who is new to the game and has an instructor, a Scotchman. My friend plays pretty poor at golf though he is considered a master at the pipe organ. Rate of Exchange No Benefit in Purchasing Return Ticket in England.

Correction of the common belief that it is cheaper for a traveler to buy a single fare to the old country and then benefit by the favorable rate of exchange in purchasing the return ticket, is made in a communication received from a well-known steamship company by local agents to-day.

Hundreds of people who have crossed the ocean this year have gone on this popular assumption, only to find that they pay more instead of less by so doing. According to the company there is absolutely no basis for the impression that better value can be obtained by buying two single fares.

Second-class fares are cited as an example of the fallacy of the opinion. The price in Canada is $62 at present, while for the same passage bought in England £15 10s or approximately $75 is charged, and the purchaser does not reap the benefit of the exchange or of the reduction made when a return ticket is bought from Canada.

Out on the streets to-day and see a beautiful sight, which is no less than a short man with a maid whom 'twas very evident he worships. Unmindful they pass in the crowded throng while his arm holds her protectingly. Neither of them were beautiful in the accepted sense, but no doubt to their eyes one was an Adonis and the other a Psyche.

Also see an ugly sight that sickened me. Here comes a mother, still attempting an air of girlishness, but her face was lined with fretful furrows, showing discontent and carelessness. With her is a little lad crying, to whom she cries: "School opens soon, thank heaven, and I hope they run night and day!" "Me thought," he said, "that I died and went to Elysium, where at the gates ajar I saw a shade waiting beside the keeper of the gate. I inquired who this stern-visaged spirit was and another tells me: That is William Shakespeare. He is waiting for the man who started this latest story about his plays being written by a Vere de vere. The bard paid no attention to the Baconian theory, they both being good friends, but the name Vere de Vere galled him."

"He was looking for the one girl in the stars and forgot to look at the street in front of his house."

Surprising word from Toronto tells how they have an exhibition of red. white and blue cats. The strangest thing I ever heard of in my life out of Toronto. Have heard of men seeing even green cats in Montreal or Quebec, but to hear of this polychrone display in Toronto casts doubt on that city's title to purity.

"Inquirer"—Again, this is not a beauty column! But for St. David's sake think carefully before having your hair bobbed. There is only one type of face that can stand this form of cutting, and from your photograph imagine you are not that sort of girl at all. Instead of appearing youthful in this style, believe your expression would simulate a relative of old Dog Tray with long ears.

Press that he could place immediately as many as 100 men with the factories and firms of the city.

"Practically al lof our regular clientele left the city with the harvesters' excursion," explained the superintendent.

"We had a large list of men who came in periodically for employment, but for the past few weeks they have absented themselves from the office.

"A number of local employers have been seriously affected by the exodus of available labor," added Mr. Spencer.

"So attractive did the green fields of the West appeal to the restless citizen that many firms are now as short handed as they have been since the end of the war and the return of the boys."

No difficulty in securing men for positions this coming winter is anticipated by the superintendent who believes that by that time all the wanderers will have returned and will once more be familiar figures about the desk of the bureau. familiar figures about the desk of the

At a conservative estimate, Mr. Fisher said, that there must have been 500 men go from London and this immediate district who went to the West when the call for harvesters came. Attractive wages and plenty of out-in-theopen life are reasons advanced for the departure of such an army of workers.

Harmless to everything but dirt

The pure Rinso granules are made or finer quality ingredients than you get in ordinary laundry soas. They are so mild, your tubful of clothes is as safe with them as with pure water alone. Yet the way they cleanse! The rich, bubbly suds that Rinso instantly makes is so rich in cleansing value that it loosens all the dirt. Even in the grimiest things! Simply soak the clothes for a few hours with Rinso. Then rinse them out. The dirt just streams away.

No standing over a steamy boiler. No wearisome and clothes-hurting rub, rub at the wash-board. No need to boil the clothes, unless you wish to sterilize them. No rubbing. unless perhaps a cuff edge, between your fingers, as you rinse it. Everything gleaming clean, snowy pure-without labor.

AT NIGHT-Soak the clothes with Rinso.

MORNING-Rinse them out—that's all.
