THE leap year dance given by the young ladies of Watford in the Lyceum on Friday evening was a great success. About forty couples were present. The decorations of blossoms, hearts, bunting, etc., were very attractive. The leap year idea was even carried to the orchestra, the Caughlin Sisters, of Sarnia, being engaged to furnish the music. The gentlemen were given one choice of partners in the first half of the program and several in the second half. The supper provided by the ladies was all that could be desired. All present seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves. Visitors were present from Sarnia, Forest, Arkona and Alvinston. Another dance is spoken of for the near future.

"VSTED" choirs are becoming the real thing in Strathroy churches. And why not? Anyone who has attended St. John's church lately must surely have noticed the quiet dignity the white vestments lent to the services. Where before was a medley of colors and a distraction of shapes, and sizes, plumes and flowers, there is now a quietness such as is fitting should reign when man approaches the All-Powerful. "Forms, forms, forms," may be continually cried down, but it is forms on which the whole world of religion and business is based. And they are not empty forms for merely garish show, either.—Age.

THE board of education of Toronto has decided to petition the Ontario legislature to make the age for pupils entering school six years instead of five, as at present. Dr. Noble, who fathered the motion, gave reasons for the proposed change. Oculists were unanimous, he said, that concentration of the sight on minutiae in children under seven years resulted in nervous trouble later in life. A child should not go to school before it was ten years old and the doctor was positive that of two children equal in physique and mentality, the one who commenced school at ten would be farther advanced at fifteen than the one commencing at five.

THE Oil Springs Advance of last week has the following:—"On Saturday last Mr. W. C. Browne and family took their departure from our village to make their home in Watford. They have been good, faithful members of society, honest and upright, and no one can say aught against them. We can only wish them God speed and success in their new home, and truly say, that what is our loss is Watford's gain." Mr. Browne is now busy fitting up the building he purchased from Mr. Parker and will shortly open up in the furniture and undertaking business.

Pioneers of the Sixth Line.

As we drive through this beautiful country in comfortable carriages with splendid homes on every hand little we think of the trials and hardships of the early pioneers.

The Humes settled on the 6th line east early in 1834.

The late Henry Hume was proceeding on foot to Kilworth, near London, for supplies. He met a party, as he stated, of five men and one little girl. He had left Long Point on Lake Erie just 6 weeks before, making their way through the dense, unbroken forest. This party consisted of John Kelly and his young wife (the late Mrs. Esther Kelly), her brother, Thos. McWatters, who was a carpenter and came to see her settled, Wm. Whitcraft, Thos. Norris and Geo. Sweeton.

Mrs. Henry Hume espied the weary travellers coming along the blazed trail and sent little Jimmie Bole, now of Regina, running down to invite the party to come in for tea, which invitation they gladly accepted. There was genuine hospitality in those days. Mrs. Hume remarked that she had plenty of everything but cordial (tea). Mrs. Kelly said that if it would give no offense she could supply that want, having a sack full with her. It was no offense and a copious supply of cordial was prepared and ample justice done. The enjoyment of that meal can better be imagined than described.

After tea John Kelly, and his companions, proceeded to his homestead, purchased from a U. E. Loyalist, lot 22, concession 14, Brooke, now the property of Wm. Greer. Mrs. Kelly was left to visit Mrs. Hume for a couple of hours, while a temporary residence was erected. This homemaking began March 6, 1835, and in future issues your correspondent hopes to relate some of the experiences of those pioneers in after years. D.R.G.K.

Last Thursday morning Gordon Bennett, who is working for Dr. Albert Foster on his farm at Bell's Point, stood in his front yard and shot a fine specimen of white swan, out of a flock which was passing over. Though he merely crippled one wing he captured it alive. It is the pride of the farm.
