eight months old a Board of Trade springs up to accelerate the progress of the town and district. It frequently proceeds the church and the school and the village council. Through the gastern newspapers the business openings are advertised. The furniture dealer is told that the people are waiting for his wares. The need of medical and legal talent is likewise made known, and the splendid possibilities of developing a large and lucrative practice.

When the village council comes into being the Board of Trade cooperate with it in doing everything possible to attract business, to secure transportation and to boost the town generally.

In the cities and towns of any size the secretary of the Board of Trade is a sort of Commissioner of Industries and Publicity. He has up to date literature always on tap, giving full information regarding the town and many had district and its various admany had actually died, when at last many date with a curious instance of oversight freminds one that when peace was proclaimed after the late Boer War the members was proclaimed after the late Boer War the lating story were so enthusiastically engaging themselves in celebrating the cocasion that they forgot to send the play engaging themselves in celebrating the cocasion that they forgot to send the play engaging themselves in celebrating the cocasion that they forgot to send the play engaging themselves in celebrating the cocasion that they forgot to send the climbal and hammany had district and its various instance of oversight freminds one that when peace was proclaimed after the late Boer War the late Boer War the Plymouth folk were so enthusiastically engaging themselves in celebrating the cocasion that they forgot to send the claimal and hammany had catually died, where so enthusiastically engaging themselves in celebrating the could about the notable event to the light engaging themselves in celebrating the claysty of pockets, colored lights, toc., they saw night after inght might mean.

Even more extraordinary was an oversigh was desperate. The people were without food, and the actual owner of the islands died from want; whilst most of the residents were perishing, and many had actually died, when at last a vessel named The Empire, chanced to call, and thus enabled them to get some food. Then it was discovered that the Vi itehall rulers had entirely forgotte to arrange for the usual supplies during that year!

The reason, no doubt, that the Boards of Trade are so active in the West is that they are convinced that, at a time when the foundations of the country are being laid and hundred for towns are being built, the future importance of each town detent of the country are being laid and hundred of towns are being built, the future importance of each town detent to food anythe future importance of each town detent to food anythe future importance of each town detent to food anythe future importance of each town detent to food anythe future importance of each town detent to food anythe future importance of each town detent to food anythe future i

All Round Athlete of the New Domin ion Is a Versatile Man.

The fact that the words "and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas" were omitted from the printed copy of King George's proclamation is, by no means, the only remarkable instance of official oversight. In fact, only a few days later King Edward was described, on the breast-plate of his coffin, as having departed this life in the ninth, instead of tenth, year of his reign.

This curious instance of oversight this curious instance of oversight the record becomes even more astonishing. It must be admitted that the w

He himself entered all the principal events; and it was about this time that he distinguished himself by winning a forty-five mile race, and came in third in a sixty-four mile race. Mr. Ewins was entered for the second Marathon race of 1908. A fort-night previous to the race he was unfortunately bitten on the leg by a dog. In spite of this, however, he was amongst those to finish the race,

The magistrate for some reason did not like to look up, but felt it was his duty to be just and the sentence was thirty days in jail.

Picture Which Led to Marriage. A novel method has been adopted to ascertain the cost of living in various parts of Australia. To this end the Commonwealth statistician is getting into communication with persons willing to keep a record of their household expenses from July 1 next to June 30, 1911, the year of the census. Persons who forward their names are to be supplied with a suitably prepared book in which to keep the record, which when completed, is to be placed in the envelope provided, and posted to the Commonwealth Statistician. Forestry In Australia.

Much attention has been paid to forestry in Australia recently. The Victorian Government this winter will plant nearly a million young pines, spruces, and hardwoods, and will sow 125,000 immediately. Probably four million seedlings will be available in 1911. The New South Wales Government now inserts re-afforestation clauses in its leases. It is taking this step to prevent undue destruction of the valuable pine and iron-bark belts when the Pilliga scrub is thrown when the Pilliga scrub is thrown ties are to be given to any of the servants."
