

Ques. When did your speculation in the Royal Canadian Bank stock take place?

Ans. I believe in 1871.

Ques. Did you not tell me on the 25th July, 1873 that you had lost a thousand dollars of my money in that speculation?

Ans. I can't remember what I told you at that date.

Ques. Was the money you used in that speculation your's or mine?

Ans. I kept your funds in my name at that time I believe.

Ques. Did you speculate in my name or your's?

Ans. In my own name.

Ques. Did you not know that I gave you the Power of Attorney to invest my money in my name and not in yours?

Ans. No, I don't think I did know it; the Power of Attorney explains itself.

Ques. You wrote to me Nov. 27th 1871, "I think your money has been too dearly earned to trifle with" also "I do not intend to run any risk (beyond what there is in all human affairs) with your money." How do you reconcile this assurance with your disposition of my funds?

Ans. I was disappointed.

Ques. Why was I not informed of your loss of my money at the time it occurred?

Ans. I did not think it necessary to advise you then.

I have stated my case. On which side truth and justice lie, I leave to the decision of my readers.
