

eastern-most point of Cape Breton, in the Dominion of Canada, and taken possession of that great northern continent for the King of England!—An achievement, be it remembered, preceding by more than a year the Tablet on St. Augustine's Bridge.

landing of Columbus on the Southern continent.

That land across the wide Atlantic had been discovered long before Cabot sighted it is now generally admitted. Setting aside the claims of