GENERAL PURPOSE AND AGRICULTURAL HORSES. —"A general purpose horse is understood to be a horse that is suitable either for the wagon, carriage, buggy, saddle, or plough," says the prize list of the Association. Such a herse properly fitted for all these duties is to our mind purely mythical, and to embody in a plough and wagon horse the recessary attributes of style, action, and ambition of a carriage, buggy, or saddle horse is more than any Association fiat can do. As will be inferred such a class brings out horses of all types, and the awards must necessarily vary in nature, as the judges place more or less value on the qualities the animals before them show for either of the s-parate requirements of the saddle, plough, wagon, or carriage. It is a class that to our minds might easily be omitted, and the prize list of some of the other more definite classes strengthened. The number of horses shown in the general purpose class was not many, but in the agricultural class the entries were many
