

The Nova Scotia School of Horticulture.

Open Each year from November 1st to May 1st.

This school now opening upon its sixth year's work, offers a liberal and thorough course to those students desirous of obtaining a practical education with a correct and complete knowledge of Horticulture and its kindred branches. The course in Botany is a strong one.

A school that is to the farm boy what the city academy or the business college is to the town boy who is to devote himself to a trade or profession.

A well equipped green house and laboratories make the work thorough and practical.

The following chief points of advantage necessarily present themselves:

1st—Free Tuition to all Students.

2nd—Situated in a University Town with good influences.

3rd—Library and Reading Room containing the best literature of the present time.

4th—The Nova Scotia School of Horticulture is the only tree one of its kind in Canada.

A visit and thorough inspection of the workings of the institution is solicited.

Those desirous of attending should write for circulars and information to

F. C. Sears, Director.
