

he is teaching his students, and perhaps that is more than can be said of all professors in Medical Schools. Dr. Fenwick is Surgeon of the well-known Montreal Field Battery, and served with it during the two Fenian raids.

FRANCIS W. CAMPBELL, M.A., M.D., L.R.C.P.
Lond.

This gentleman may be styled the leader of the Medical Opposition in Montreal. He was one of the organisers of the Medical Faculty of Bishop's College, was for twelve years its Registrar, and for two years has been its Dean. He possesses many qualities which peculiarly fit him for the position he occupies. He possesses an energy which enables him to accomplish an immense amount of work and in his vocabulary he knows no such word as fail. He is a capital organiser, a good speaker, and though at times he fights his opponents without gloves, giving some hard hits, he counts among his best personal friends his most bitter political enemies. He has an extensive practice, and is a general favorite with his patients. To his medical friends he is a marvel of work. For in addition to his College duties, and his city practice, and being the chief medical officer of the New York Life Insurance Co. in Canada, he finds time to take an active part in the social events of our city. He is a prominent officer and member of our Social and Dramatic Club. Like most men Dr. Campbell has hobbies. He is an enthusiastic salmon fisherman, and is president of a select club of five gentlemen who hold the fishing rights of the River Upsalquitch in N. B., as well as a considerable stretch on the famous River Restigouche. Dr. Campbell is also an enthusiastic military man. For twenty-three years he was medical officer of the Prince of Wales Rifles, but about a year ago was transferred to the Infantry School Corps—then organised by the Government, and now, therefore, holds the position of Surgeon in the Permanent Military Organization of the Country. He served with the Prince of Wales Rifles at Hemmingford and Durham, during the Fenian raid of 1866, and in 1870, during the raid of that year, was again with his regiment at Pigeon Hill and St. Johns. Perhaps the profession in Montreal owe him something in establishing the right of all to an annual holiday. Dr. Campbell is well known throughout the Dominion as its senior Medical Editor, being the Editor and Proprietor of the CANADA MEDICAL RECORD. He is a vigorous and ready writer.

THOMAS SIMPSON, M.D.

A good Physician and a good man. He graduated at McGill in 1854, but did not settle in Montreal till about twelve years ago, since which time his progress as a practitioner has been steadily upward. His disposition is quiet and unobtrusive, and perhaps it is to this fact that some things to which I think he was entitled have passed into other hands. His patients speak highly of his kind attentions, and his friends admire his many excellent traits of character. He is chief Medical Adviser in Canada to the Equitable Life of New York, and he is a member of the Medical Faculty of Bishop's College.

THOMAS G. RODDICK, M.D.

Graduated at McGill College in 1868, and came here from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. His collegiate career was a very successful one, and success has attended him ever since. He is Professor of Clinical Surgery at McGill, and largely, if not entirely, devotes himself to Surgery. Dr. Roddick may justly be styled a universal favorite with his confreres—all of whom appreciate his largeness of heart, and the enthusiasm with which he enters into all schemes for the benefit of the Profession. His disposition is lively, and he makes a most pleasant travelling companion. When he forms one of a delegation from Montreal to meetings of the Canada Medical Association he is the life of the party, and his hearty joyous laugh is most contagious. No one can continue to be dull in his company, for his very presence seems sufficient to inspire a feeling of hilarity. Such a man should be like sunshine in a sick room. Long may my friend be his own old self, for a better I do not wish to meet. I had almost forgotten to say that Dr. Roddick is at present President of the Medico-Chirurgical Society of Montreal.

GEORGE ROSS, M.D.

Is also a graduate of McGill, and is now and has for some years been its Professor of Clinical Medicine. He began his medical career as a Surgeon on the Allan line of Steamships, continuing as such about six months. On retiring therefrom he became House Surgeon to the General Hospital, thence after a time into private practice. His clientele is numerous and influential. I think he has every reason to be satisfied with the way the world has used him, and I believe that he is. Dr. Ross is an excellent lecturer, and a fluent extem-
