

following Canadian environmental organizations: Pollution Probe;<sup>4</sup> Canadian Environmental Law Association;<sup>5</sup> West Coast Environmental Law Association;<sup>6</sup> and Action Canada Network, Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives and Common Frontiers.<sup>7</sup> In addition, three joint submissions were received: one on behalf of four Canadian, nine Mexican and 10 U.S. environmental groups; the second from seven Canadian and four U.S. environmental groups; and the third from six Canadian, 28 Mexican and 17 U.S. environmental organizations.<sup>8</sup> The Committee also reviewed submissions prepared by certain U.S. environmental groups.<sup>9</sup>

The recommendations of the environmental organizations, as well as those of the many individual Canadians who wrote to the Minister for International Trade, assisted the Committee members in identifying environmental priorities for discussion with the NAFTA negotiators.

---

4. Janine Ferretti, The Environmental Dimensions of Free Trade.

Janine Ferretti, Proposed Amendments to the Draft North American Free Trade Agreement.

Janine Ferretti, Statement of Janine H. Ferretti on Behalf of Pollution Probe.

Pollution Probe Foundation, Canadian Trade Negotiators Should Finish the Job.

Pollution Probe Foundation, Will North American Free Trade Pass the Green Test?

5. Michelle Swenarchuk, Notes for a paper presented at the Seventh Annual Conference on Canada and International Trade.

6. Chris Rolfe, Environmental Considerations Regarding a Possible Mexico-Canada Free Trade Agreement.

7. Action Canada Network, North American Free Trade Agreement: Draft Text: Preliminary Briefing Notes.

8. Binational Statement on Environmental Safeguards that Should be Included in the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). Endorsed by the following Canadian environmental groups: Canadian Nature Federation, Canadian Environmental Law Association, Sierra Club, Cultural Survival, Friends of the Earth, Rawson Academy of Aquatic Sciences, and Pollution Probe.

Common Declaration by Environmental Groups in Mexico, the United States and Canada Regarding the North American Free Trade Agreement. Endorsed by the following Canadian environmental groups: Pollution Probe, Canadian Arctic Resources Committee, Canadian Environmental Law Association, and the Rawson Academy of Aquatic Sciences.

Concerns of North American Environmental Organizations Regarding the Trade Agreement. Endorsed by the following Canadian environmental groups: Canadian Nature Federation, Cultural Survival, Friends of the Earth, Pollution Probe, Sierra Club, and the Rawson Academy of Aquatic Sciences.

9. Environmental Safeguards for the North American Free Trade Agreement. Endorsed by 13 U.S. non-governmental organizations.

National Wildlife Federation, Environmental Concerns Related to a United-States-Mexico-Canada Free Trade Agreement (Draft).

National Wildlife Federation, Trade and the Environment: Information Packet.