

crisis, but this has to be set against IMF/WTO/APEC commitments and the desire of governments for international respectability. There will also be the inevitable talk of greater Asian interdependence and self-help. Some economies have become less safe places for westerners to work, but so far this development has less to do with anti-western attitudes than with domestic unrest.