whom they stood well, they owe of borrowed money some $1,600 to $1,800, whilst the claims of merchants amount to scarcely half the sum. A slight pressure brought on a collapse. An offer of 40 cents on the dollar, unsecured, was refused, and a writ issued. The stock and real estate are announced for sale by auction, and it will be well if the creditors realize the amount offered. A cash book and other memoranda show that the extent of business and percentage of profits were too small to sustain even their small expenditure after they once began to fall in arrears.

* Palmerston is a railway town, risen up from nothing during the past eight or ten years chiefly in consequence of the building of the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway, with a line branching off at this point for the west. Nature has done nothing for the place, scarcely affording water for the numerous steam-engines that make the "hum" or whistle so frequently heard there, and furnish motive power for the factories. Great efforts were made by the land-owners to acquire a population, and at present the authorities boast of 2,000 inhabitants. Amongst the live works there is the establishment of Schnefers & Witzel, a saw-mill, cabinet shops and furniture ware-rooms, but in four short years their capital of $12,000 is gone, with a few thousands belonging to those who gave them credit or kindly endorsed their paper. Last week, the most valuable part of their property was sold under a Loan Society's mortgage, and the remainder of the property is in charge of an assignee under the Insolvent

Act. As far as can be made out, the failure is entirely attributable to the lack of business habits; no proper cash book, no bill book, and the partners apparently not knowing what the others put into the business or took out.

* President Hayes in his recent message to Congress adverted to the fact that a demand had been made upon Great Britain for $105,305.02, in view of the damages received by American citizens at Fortune Bay on the 6th of January, 1878, and summed up the purposes of his administration in relation to the whole fishery question in these words: "Upon the completion of the necessary preliminary examinations, the subject of our participation in the provincial fisheries, as regulated by treaty, will at once be brought to the attention of the British government, with a view to an early and permanent settlement of the whole question, which was only temporarily adjusted by the Treaty of Washington." This very dignified and temperate way of putting the matter does not at all please the Boston Journal of Commerce, which says: "We defy any one to argue therefrom the least indication of a more decided and common-sense policy in the future, on this vital question, than the old-fashioned, high-toned, inefficient interchange of compliments and surrender of money, national honor and the rights of a great producing interest to the superior greed, tact and shameless misrepresentation of astute Canadian politicians; and we should feel no hesitancy, were the above an extract from some local paper, in attributing it to the scissors of some editor pressed for copy, and provided with carefully-preserved excerpts from the occasional utterances of the astute and non-committal Evarts." The Journal evidently feels keenly the diplomatic victory gained by Canada at Halifax, and permits itself to indulge in language at once unguarded and abusive; but, making allowance for this by eliminating from its expressions the unwholesome outgrowth of hot temper shown in the words "greed" and "shameless misrepresentation," there will remain a clear residuum of respect for Canadian statesmanship, all the more complimentary because wrung from an unwilling witness who seeks to hide the truth beneath rude reproach.
