The William Rennie Seed Co. report the seed trade as being quiet with a few changes from quotations given in table. The communication from that company re quality of Canadian seed is of interest at the present time ought to be of interest to farmers generally.

BAD CLOVER SEED.

The Rennie Seed Company make the following statement: There has not been the amount of export trade done in seed this season up to the present time as has been generally experienced. With the exception of very fine seed in the United States, Canada is not in the game. Fully 1/2 of the present Canadian crop of clover seed is in the hands of the Rennie Seed Company. What is to be done with the seed, is bound to worry the trade for the next two months. It is practically unsalable and bound to be the source of a great annoyance to the trade.

The seedsmen have been refusing to make offers and also unwilling to be general trade, this has led to the present situation. The farmers, who would not think of buying such qualities from dealers, are now buying from the seedsmen as it is grown by them.

The low price of really fine seed should be an attraction to farmers this season to buy only the very best grades from reliable sources. A few of the large seed houses have plants, which enables them to furnish a first-class article at moderate prices.
