Bonar Law and Lloyd George Invertebrate Pipe Smokers.

Shakespeare Anniversary—Lord Ribblesdale's health Causes Concern—New Game Giving Auction Bridge a Fight in Society.

On Our Own Correspondent.) London, April 26.—The dance haunts along the green banks of the river down to Maidenhead and beyond are already bestirring themselves. Soon now they will be depositing the town clubs over week-ends, as if at prices were going to rise quite pleasantly, too. My river subscription form, which has just in, requests season subscription of two guineas. Last year it was the year before that five. So arrangements have not been to recoup the balance in drink inner prices will be well.

Both are pipe smokers, and Bonar Law's pipe is in defiance of his orders. Lloyd George has an anal ciger by way of a change, so pipe should surely be embossed on Bonar Law's coat of arms if he accepts a peerage. The table in private room at the House of Commons is littered with them in every age and stances. So was it down at Kensington. So his sanctum at 10 Downing street, at time I saw him. Everyone, it is said, was a pipe.

Shakespeare's Centenary. There have been most interesting and celebrations of the great Shakespeare anniversary, including processions on street corners and in the London churchyards. But the end is the real centenary of our Englishman. A centenary is, in fact, an empty grave.

I see that London Journal protests against assumption that, merely because his writing was shaky, Shakespeare died from neuritis. But some of the "roundest Shakespearean scholars" says agreed that most probably Shakespeare died of a heart attack, and that conclusion, not on the handwriting alone, but on the heart-felt note on sleep. The inference is corroborated by the handwriting, by sound; just as Milton's termination might be deduced from the agonies, with its poignant blindness.

The City Union of the King's Daughters yesterday presented to Mrs. John Foster, a beautifully bound hymn book as a mark of appreciation of her splendid work for the order during the many years which she had served as convent of the warm committee and also as a token of warm personal regard.

The presentation was made by Mrs. H. W. Robertson, president of the City Union, at the meeting of the house committee held at the Guild yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. E. B. Nixon, the recently elected convenor, presiding. In making the presentation Mrs. Robertson spoke feelingly of Mrs. Foster's good works and untiring devotion. Mrs. Foster was greatly touched by the kind thought and expressed her thanks feelingly.

Corns Go PUTS HEALTH AND VIM INTO WOMEN

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ontario.—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, and a pain in the back of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I kept house, but I was such a wretched creature that I could not do the dishes without crying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again. My monthly periods have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be put to rest for putting health and vim into a woman."—Mrs. James H. MacPherson, 888 Greenway St., Brantford, Ont.

If you are suffering from a displacement, irregularities, backache, or any other form of female weakness, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Coburn, Ontario, for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Text-Book upon "All Menstrual Peculiarities to Women."

Had Bad Pains In Her Heart

Nerves Were Very Bad

Mrs. John Case, R. R. No. 4, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—I wish to say that I have been bothered very much with my heart and nerves. I doctored with two different doctors, but did not find much relief. I would have such bad pains in my heart, at times, I would be almost afraid to move or breathe, and at night I could not sleep. If the pains in my heart were gone, my nerves would be so bad I could not lie still and would only get a little sleep by being tired out. My stomach was also very bad and I could eat but very little, and then only certain things or I would have so much distress which always made my heart worse.

"I had been suffering for nearly two years until one day I was talking to our druggist about the way I felt. He advised me to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a fair trial. I have now taken five boxes and am feeling so much better. I am able to do my own work, and can eat anything I wish. I cannot praise

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills too highly. Price 50c, a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto.

"The pimples I suffered from were scattered over my chin and cheek. They were large and red, and after a day or two they festered over. Woman Thought She Swallowed Set of False Teeth—Had Left Them at Her Dentist's.

London, May 8.—(By Mail).—A lady of "I've swallowed my false teeth!" startled everybody in a London restaurant in the neighborhood of Kensington.

It came from a woman, Mrs. Emily Pinfrew, who lives at Edgell Hill, Wimbledon, who was found in a state of great agitation, vainly searching her mouth for a vanished upper set.

In a few moments an ambulance arrived and the distressed woman hurried to the Charing Cross Hospital. Here several surgeons made a rapid but thorough search for the missing teeth, which, however, were not to be found.

A lady quite sure she swallowed them, she was asked, "Well, it is impossible for them to be in your stomach, they are in your mouth." In another moment one of the surgeons was speaking on the telephone to the woman's dentist. A minute later he returned to his patient. "It's all right," he said. "You left your teeth on your dentist's table."

"I was sure I put the teeth in," she exclaimed, and did not think about them until I felt a sudden pain in my chest."

Administrators have endorsed the idea, provided the bureau be purely a service organization to collect statistics, information, etc., and that in no way impede, supervise, or control the hospitals.
