Chatham, N. B., Feb. 18.—Sussex hockey team, 1921 maritime champions, shared honors in the first day's maritime championships, which are being held in West St. John. The former, who holds the title, won first honors in the 220 yards and one mile events and Garrett took second in both. Moss Perry and Percy Belyea, both of Moncton, won ten points each, the latter finishing third in the 220 and the former third in the mile. Gorman and Cannon, both of the latter, turned from the big meets at Plattsburg, Saranac Lake and Lake Placid, were expected to outshine the other competitors in the senior events and their showing was one of the features. Both finals saw the two local stars at their best. In the 220 both jumped away at the flash of the gun, Gorman slightly in the lead. He set a terrific pace, throughout, and won in the fast time of 20-1-5 seconds, with Gorman a few strokes behind. In the mile the final was a close race, with Gorman leading and in the last lap took turns leading and in the last lap Gorman and Cannon were skating neck and neck. Gorman broke the tape a few inches ahead of Cannon. Both were given well merited applause.

Market in Foreign Countries for American Athletic Paraphernalia.....	79 78 79	232 77-3
That there is a growing and wide interest in athletic sports is evidenced by reports received by the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Tennis leads as a pioneer in spreading this interest in competitive sports, and backed by the success of the leading American players in recent international tournaments, it would seem that our manufacturers of athletic paraphernalia should find a ready reception for their products in the overseas market. "Sporting goods manufacturers in England and Germany are active in supplying this increasing demand for tennis, association football, and cricket supplies," says the bureau. "The lower rate of exchange prevailing in their favor has in immediate result in promoting the sale of their athletic goods and bringing them within the price limits of a larger portion of the public than is possible for the higher-priced and exchange-inflated American goods. However, American paraphernalia is recognized as being of superior workmanship and material.

Local conditions must be considered in the introduction of sports goods in any market. As an instance, it is stated in a recent report by Consul Lewis N. Boyle, Durban, Natal, that owing to the mild climate of Durban and surrounding country it is possible to play tennis nearly every day in the year. Boyle further states that the most popular rackets are strung with red and white gut, and that it is absolutely essential that tennis nets be steam tarred throughout, it being advisable that they be covered with a three-eighths-inch galvanized wire at the top. At least 4,000 dozen tennis balls are imported into Natal each year, and the number of rackets sold annually in the City of Durban is approximately 3,500.

The consulate at Naples, Italy, reports that interest in sports has greatly increased during the last few years and that association football holds the popular interest, while tennis, yachting, and water polo take first consideration among the wealthier classes. Bicycling, rowing and long-distance foot races attract considerable attention, but there has been little development of track and field athletics. It is interesting to note from the report that there is a tendency toward the development of sporting goods stores. "German athletic articles are making headway against the Italian, English and French competitors. In Italy, American sporting goods are practically unknown, and, as stated in the report, even in the case of adverse exchange, it is believed that an excellent opportunity exists to develop a sound business relation in this line, which will produce highly satisfactory results when conditions return to normal.

JACK BRITTON AND SHADE FIGHT DRAW

(Canadian Press Despatch.) New York, Feb. 17.—Jack Britton, thirty-seven, a veteran boxer, and Dave Shade of San Francisco, a nineteen-year-old lad, fought fifteen rounds to a draw in Madison Square Garden tonight. Britton retained his title as world's welterweight boxing champion.

Britton entered the ring shortly after 10 o'clock. The weights were announced as: Britton, 146 1-2; Shade, 144 1-4. Britton appeared to have outpunched the challenger in all but two rounds, and the verdict of a draw was hailed for twenty minutes by the crowd as Shade was wild and landed few effective blows.
