THE YEAR THERE WAS NO CHRISTMAS.

I don't remember how it came about nor what happened to bring it about but there was a year when there was no Christmas. It was before the children's grand-mothers were born and that must be the reason they never heard about it heard about it.

I think St. Nicholas had heard that I think St. Nicholas had heard that there were people who did not believe in him, and that some of them went so far as to doubt his existence. Just as Sarah Gamp told Mrs. Prigg that there was no such person as Mis-arris. I imagine that the sunny, cheerful disposition of Santa Claus had been soured and that he had come to the conclusion that the best way to convince people of his existence would be vince people of his existence would be to go away into retirement for a year and see how the world would get along without him.

While they fought the fire the exultant Republicans sang Republican songs, and jeered at their 'homeless' opponents. The refractory pisoners were not subdued until they had been thoroughly drenched with water from five lines of hose.

A number of them were wounded in encounters with the opposing faction.
