Because a few fields of wheat rusted owing to the very wet season it was seriously contended that those who had sowed wheat from seed supplied by the government should be reimbursed by them for whatever loss they had suffered. Any one reading the Sun, Gleaner and other opposition papers might have been led to suppose them. Sir Charles Tupper has been blowing his own horn for the past seventeen years as to his marvellous achievements as ministes of ralways; but his claims in this regard will not bear investigation. He had very little to do with the initiation of the C. P. R., his own statements to the contrary notwithstanding. When he went to England in 1881 to have the trans-continental railway project floated, he reached the end of his tether when the board of the Grand Trunk railway declined to take up the matter. It was the Hon. John Henry Pope who, alone and single handed, had the undertaking accepted by the syndicate which afterwards carried out the work. Instead of giving any credit that is due to where it properly belongs Six Charles the calls. to where it properly belongs, Sir Charles Tupper, now that Mr. Pope is in his grave, appropriates it for himself.
