

ANALYTICAL LIST OF CONTENTS

FIRST PERIOD

1713-1758

Introductory Note to the Period	3
I. The Treaty of Utrecht, 1713	5
II. Commission to Cornwallis, 1749	6
III. Representative Government in Nova Scotia, 1755-8	9

SECOND PERIOD

1759-1763

Introductory Note to the Period	21
IV. Articles of the Capitulation of Quebec, 1759	23
V. Articles of the Capitulation of Montreal, 1760	24
VI. Treaty of Paris, February 10, 1763	31
VII. The Royal Proclamation of October 7, 1763	35

THIRD PERIOD

1763-1774

Introductory Note to the Period	41
VIII. Instructions to Governor Murray, December 7, 1763	43
IX. Ordinance Establishing Civil Courts, 1764	52
This ordinance was issued by governor Murray to regulate and establish the administration of justice in the province.
X. Murray to the Lords of Trade, October 29, 1764	55
Murray complains of the British in Canada and praises the Canadians. He looks for further privileges for the latter. He hopes the ordinance (No. IX) will be approved, as he considers it necessary to prevent emigration.
XI. Petition of the Quebec Traders to the King, 1764	55
The petitioners outline their settlement and progress, even under military rule which they endured, hoping for civil administration. Murray's rule is objected to as vexatious and partial; complaints are made that he is negligent in his religious duties. His recall is asked for, and a new and more sympathetic governor requested. A house of assembly is also petitioned for, in which the British alone should sit.
XII. Ordinance of November 6, 1764	57
This ordinance aimed at quieting the uneasiness of the Canadians in connexion with security in their property.
XIII. Presentments of the Quebec Grand Jury, 1764	58
The grand jury claims to be consulted as the sole body representing the people.
XIV. Report of the Attorney-General and the Solicitor-General of England regarding the Civil Government of Quebec, 1766	65
The report claims that much disorder has been caused by the failure to provide for the use of the French language and for the employment	