Welcome to the Prince.

A visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra (when Prince and Princess of Wales) to Birmingham by road from Packington Hall, the seat of the Earl of Aylesford. On the outskirts of the town they had to pass a small local police station.

As decorations were the order of the day, the officer in charge was not going to be behind his neighbors, so he had fastened right across the building the one word in the dictionary that did not properly fit the occasion. The Prince was consequently much amused when he saw "welcome" staring at him from a building not accustomed to receive honorable visitors.

Seville is the only Spanish city in which begging is forbidden in the streets.

A TONIC FOR THE NERVES

The Only Real Nerve Tonic is a Good Supply of Rich, Red Blood.

"If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing which the specialist spoke of is the nervous run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctored nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red blood. Therefore, to relieve nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills make new, rich blood, which strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts," you should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Character Told by X-Rays.

Modern marriage is not the sentimental thing it once was; it will be less romantic still if the startling suggestion of a French specialist is adopted.

Before you wed, he says, submit yourself to a thorough X-ray examination. Character is clearly revealed under X-rays, and many unhappy unions might be avoided if care in this direction were only exercised.

There are, apparently, certain peculiarities of anatomical construction, which, under the rays, are sure indications of meanness and fickleness, obstinacy, bad temper, and other qualities which cause unhappy marriages. Such photographs, the specialist says, either or not a woman is of jealous disposition, merely by studying her breathing apparatus. Shallow breathers are usually jealous and mean; deep breathers are more generous in disposition. The nagging wife who henpecks her husband is shown by a highly-tilted diaphragm and short, sharp ribs.

In the same way, a selfish husband or a glutton can be detected by examining his shoulder-blades.

Whether or not future marriage will be based on X-ray conjectures remains to be seen. We human beings have a strange knack of preferring to rush to our fate blindfold.

Prince of Wales Writes Preface to Book.

Enthusiastic accounts given by the Prince of Wales in the Royal family circle of his experiences during his recent Empire trip are said to have raised a keen desire on the part of his brothers, Princes Albert, Henry and George, to go on similar voyages.

The Prince of Wales is reported to be writing a preface to a book of photographs taken during his trip, which will be sold for the benefit of a blind soldiers' hospital.

Since his return to London the Prince has been giving a series of small dinner parties to his intimate friends at St. James' Palace, which is now pretty well stocked with souvenirs of his tour. He makes an excellent host, and he has a fund of amusing anecdotes about his experiences abroad.

He is fond of playing rackets and swimming at the fashionable Bath Club, of Piccadilly. A keen follower of the chase, he has recently bought several new hunters, and he is keeping up family traditions by accepting the chairmanship of the West Norfolk Hounds, a position which his grandfather, King Edward, held for many years. He is also coming to the fore as a cattle breeder. At the recent Birmingham Cattle Show he took three prizes with three heads of Aberdeen Angus cattle from his Dartmoor farm, near Princetown.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE

Once a mother had used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she is always happy to recommend them to others. Her advice given after a careful trial, can be readily followed with assured good results. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fails to regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm even to the youngest babe. Concerning them Mrs. P. Laforest, St. Nazaire, Que., writes:—"For three months my baby was constipated and cried continually. On the advice of a friend I gave him Baby's Own Tablets and now at the age of five months he is perfectly well and weighs twenty pounds. I am delighted to be able to advise other mothers to use them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Monieur:
For 15 days in the month of January I was suffering with pain of rheumatism in the foot. I tried all kinds of remedies but nothing did me any good. One person told me about MINARD'S LINIMENT, so soon as I tried it the Saturday night, the next morning I was feeling very good. I tell you this remedy is very good. I could give you a good certificate any time that you would like to have one. If any time I come to hear about any person sick of rheumatism, I could tell them about this remedy.
Yours truly,

Artificial Raisins.

The production of grapes in California for the present year is estimated at more than 300,000 tons. Of these a large part are wine grapes, grown in the central and northern parts of the state.

The producers are not permitted to make wine from these grapes, and they cannot ship them elsewhere for wine-making purposes. Obviously, the only thing to be done with them is to convert them into raisins.

In southern California this might be done by the ordinary process of sun-drying; but in the central and northern sections the weather is not sufficiently reliable. Accordingly, the growers are resorting to artificial dehydration.

It takes four to five weeks to produce raisins by sun-drying, but the dehydration process occupies only twelve hours, and the results obtained are described as conspicuously satisfactory.

Considering all expenses, it costs an undergraduate at Oxford at least $1,500 a year to carry on his studies. A hen cackles after laying an egg to denote pleasure; this noise is said by some scientists to be akin to human laughter.

BANK OF MONTREAL

Annual General Meeting, Held 6th December, 1920.

The 103rd Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of the Bank of Montreal was held on Monday, December 6th, at the Bank's Headquarters. The President, Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., occupied the chair, and presented the annual report of the Directors.

Before moving the adoption of the report, Sir Vincent Meredith gave a comprehensive review of the economic situation. During the year, he said, an overwhelming demand for credit had taxed resources to the utmost. It had been difficult to make men who had grown accustomed to high prices recognize the fact that economic conditions, which no artificial means can alter, alone are the cause of price decline. "The demand for intervention through Government control has been insisted in our quarters," he said. "Canada alone cannot control world-wide conditions, and it is idle to turn to the Government for relief from falling prices. This applies to wheat as well as other commodities."

Summing up the situation in Canada as it presents itself, it is that while there does not appear to be any cause for apprehension, there is every reason for the exercise of the utmost measure of caution. Canada cannot dissociate herself from world conditions, and world conditions are not satisfactory. On this continent the two years supervening upon the Armistice have been marked by unexampled trade activity and prosperity, a circumstance common to the conclusion of all great wars, but the recovery has not yet been fully set on its feet. Happily, Canada is well buttressed on many sides, and the exercise of prudence and sagacity should enable her to meet the shock of falling prices, restricted credits and deflated currency, with serious impairment of her commercial and financial vitality."

Expansion of Business in Canada.
The General Manager, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, in reviewing the operations of the Bank during the year, said the payment of 10 per cent of the shareholdings was the outcome of higher rates of interest on current loans in Canada but a reflection of the increase in current loans and of high interest rates on call loans in New York. The volume of which was governed by the Bank's requirements in liquid reserves. One anomaly which attracted attention was that with credit restriction as acute here as it was across the line, the price of money was materially lower in the Dominion. This condition, he said, was regarded as a tribute to Canada's good banking system.

With the growth of the Bank's operations, he said: "It is noteworthy that the greatest expansion of the Bank during the past few years has been in our own country. This is revealed in our greatly increased loans and deposits in Canada and in the number of branches opened during the period."

Loans Deposits in Canada
1914 $123,147,000 $168,557,000
1920 240,725,000 358,788,000
The annual report was unanimously adopted and the retiring directors were re-elected. The shareholders gave approval to the motion by Lord Shaughnessy to increase the number of directors from 16 to 18 and to the two new positions on the Board were elected Sir Lomer Gouin and General Sir Arthur Currie.

At a subsequent meeting of Directors, Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., was re-elected president, and Sir Charles Gordon, G.B.E., was re-elected vice-president.

Fairy Gold.

In the lore that is known to our childhood, The beautiful story is told That under the foot of the rainbow The fairies have hidden their gold. Forever eluding but tempting, The sunshine is bright on the rain, And over the hills and the valleys We follow the glory—in vain.

Though we stand where we thought it had rested, Yet distant it ever appears: For what seems the rainbow to others To those at its foot may be tears. The strongest of charms is upon it, This treasure, which never is gained; And bright, with a glory celestial, Is the goal that is never attained.

Admires Lloyd George.

An old English woman was holding forth on the benefits of the old-age pension.
"Perhaps," said a sarcastic listener, "Lloyd George will soon send you a first-class ticket to Heaven."
"Well," said the old woman, "at any rate he's made the waiting-room very comfortable."

Too Smart.

She was a shop assistant. She had a slow mind and a quick tongue. She thought herself awfully smart. A timid looking man came in the shop. "Do you keep hair brushes?" he asked.
"No," she snapped. "We sell them."
"Well," he said quietly as he strolled towards the door, "you'll keep the one you might have sold to me. Good morning."

A Big Model.

Once a very youthful chicken fancier had in his possession a couple of bantam hens that laid very small eggs. He finally hit upon a plan to remedy this.
When the lad's father went the next morning to the chicken-house he was surprised to find an ostrich egg tied to one of the beams and above it a card with this notice:
"Keep your eye on this and do your best."

Time!

Attorneys for the prosecution and defence had been allowed, by mutual consent, fifteen minutes each to argue a certain case.

Counsel for the defense began his argument with an allusion to the old swimming pool of his boyhood days. He told in flowery oratory of the balmy air, the singing birds, the joy of youth, the delights of the cool water—and in the midst of it he was interrupted by the drawing voice of the judge:
"Come out, sir," he said, "and put on your clothes. Your fifteen minutes are up!"

MONEY ORDERS.

A Dominion Express Money Order for five dollars costs three cents. Nearly three and a half million beneficiaries, a number almost equal to the population of Scotland, are drawing war pensions in Britain.

Long Thumb—Strong Will.

If the top joint of your thumb is long, it shows that you have good will power. Well-developed reasoning faculties are possessed by those people who have thumbs the second joints of which are long. Thumbs that work easily are owned by careless, happy-go-lucky, spend-thrift individuals. A stiff, firm-jointed thumb, however shows that the person is keen, tactful, self-possessed, and cautious—the sort of man who will get on in the world.

Surnames and Their Origin

PLUNKETT.
Variations—Blanchet, Whittle, Whitlesey.
Racial Origin—Norman-French; also Anglo-Saxon.
Source—A n-l-name.
The family names of this group have wandered far, very far, from their original forms, with the exception of Whittle, which is not recognizable to the average person because it comes from a word now obsolete. Whitlesey comes from the name of a town, which in turn took its name from this word.
The word in modern English is "blanket." But it did not have the same meaning in medieval times as it has to-day. "Blanket" was the Norman word, derived from the French "blanche," meaning white. "Whittle" was the Anglo-Saxon word, derived from the same root as our modern word "white." In the speech of medieval England either "blanket" or "whittle" meant white cloth, that is to say, colorless cloth. In reality it was not white, but merely not dyed. It was the garb of the poorer people, and like nearly everything associated with the daily life of people in the days when the need for surnames was developing, it was called into use in connection with men's names as a mark of differentiation. Those who bore the names in this group when they were still sobriquets or nicknames did so because they were customarily garbed in this kind of cloth, or perhaps because they traded in it. "Plunket" is an early corrupted spelling of the word. One law of Richard III, relating to this cloth calls it "plonket."
Our modern use of the word "blanket" to denote a woollen bed covering is of comparatively recent development, and from it we have derived a number of similes with the general meaning of "cover all," which have no relation to the original meaning.

ROWAN.
Variations—Rohan, Roan, Roughan, Ruane.
Racial Origin—Irish, also English.
Source—Given names, also geographical.
By far the majority of families bearing names in this group are of Irish origin, but not all; for one variation the name also developed in medieval England from an independent source.
The larger of the two Irish sources of the name is the given name of "Roghan," which literally translated, means "the chosen one." The "O'Roghans," to use the nearest equivalent to the old Irish spelling, trace back in nearly every case to a chieftain of this name who was a descendant in the line of O'Dea.
The other source is from the given name, or sobriquet, "Ruadh," meaning "red." Ruadh is met with most frequently in Irish nomenclature, but always in the form of a descriptive addition to the family name, distinguishing one branch of a family from another by its coloring, which explains why we so often meet such terms in Irish, and even Scottish history as "The Red O'Connor," "The Black Douglas" and the like. But only under very exceptional circumstances have such qualifying terms developed into real family names in the Gaelic tongue. The usual course would be for such a word first to become a given name, and from this develop into a family name. So with "Ruadh," the family name developed from which is properly Ruane. But the similarity of sound between Rowan and Ruane has often led to their interchange in English spelling.
The English family name is properly Roan, which was the common medieval spelling of the name of the city Rouen, in France. Settlers in England from foreign cities quite commonly came to be known by the names of the cities or countries whence they came. Picardy, Antwerp, Cologne and Lyons have given many English family names.
