Wonderful Exhibit by Canadian Pacific The exhibit of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at the Toronto Exhibition this year is unique and very representative of the glories and beauties of the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

It is housed in the popular Railway Building, and immediately catches the interest of the visitor. It is the C. P. R. Sun Dance Lodge and quite typical of the Rockies and the Indians of the West.

The premier attraction on entering the building is the huge Sun Burst which throws its rays around the gigantic tepee in which are garnered the side scenes portraying in miniature form some of the gorgeous settings which none but the Canadian Rockies can produce.

The roof of the Indian tepee is hand painted with symbolic writings and signs typical of the Rocky and Plain Indians. The side embellishments are finished in white birch, the bark of which was always a favorite with the Indian not only for the construction of his canoe but for the building of a quick camp fire.

On each side of the entrance office accommodation has been worked into the setting where information of every description can be obtained and telegraph service is also installed.

This has the tepee finish and real Indian tepee poles transported from the West for the purpose have been used. The lighting effect of these elaborate interiors are electric with miniature Indian tents as shades producing interesting effect.

The scene from Sulphur Mountain overlooking Banff Springs Hotel in the foreground, and the beautiful Rundle and Tunnel Mountains, and the stretch of the Bow river in the background is undoubtedly realistic. A fine model of the C.P.R.'s famous hostelry built specially for the occasion by Messrs. H. Morgan, Ltd., Montreal, is electrically illuminated and gives the visitor the impression that he is paying a visit to Banff instead of sweltering under the atmosphere of an exhibition.

The Banff Hot Springs, famous for their health giving qualities, especially for curing rheumatism, were known to the Red men long years ago and accidentally discovered by some engineers when surveying for the C.P.R. The huge swimming tank hidden from the view, but situated directly in front of the hotel has a depth of water of from three to eight feet and is one of the great summer attractions. The beaches of Banff are to be found on all sides. There are mountains to the right, mountains to the left, mountains in front and also behind, and the Bow river seen in the back of the picture reminds one of opals with its pale green color, and its ever changing fires. The view is entrancing, and one never feels dull or suffer from sun, in this delightful spot. The scene cannot be eclipsed for grandeur, although Lake Louise depicted on the opposite side of the tent certainly gives it a close running, and many people prefer this exquisite location high up amidst the unnumbered peaks of the Canadian Rockies. This picture is a representation which meets the eye of the tourist looking for the grandeur of Lake Louise from almost any spot behind the Chateau with a glimpse of the wonderful gem of a lake and a gigantic glacier and mountain in the rear. On arrival here feelings of wonder and admiration grip the mind, compelling a reverential silence. The Victoria Glacier which forms the background feeds the lake which is shown by real water, while the towering spires of Mount Lefroy and Mount Aberdeen are observed in the distance. The model of the Chateau is another masterpiece from Morgan's. The frieze of Indian decorations and the magnificent transparencies tend a perfect finishing touch to the whole Sun Dance Lodge effect. The remaining sides of the "Lodge" are of typical white birch interspersed with panelling of beautiful real Indian mats made from cedar bark, and there are many reproductions in miniature of the famous Totem poles from Alert Bay. There is also an exhibition a very valuable collection of Indian relics from the West Coast, all of which are original, and many over a hundred years old. They include eating and cooking utensils made of wood and whalebone, bows and arrows, coffins and tom-toms, cedar chests and model Indian houses. The illumination effect is perfect comprising some five hundred lights.

Master Kenneth Yorke celebrated his third birthday on Saturday by inviting a number of small boys and girls to his home. A dainty lunch was served and the little ones enjoyed themselves to full extent.

Mr. Marion York, Roblin, is spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Martin. TRENTON.

The Salvation Men's League meets at the Christian Army Barracks on Thursday evening next to hold their meeting.

In the absence of our pastor, Capt. Clarke, Mr. A. Finkle filled the pulpit on Sunday last, both morning and evening. Mr. Finkle speaks very impressively.

Mr. Earl Kerr, of Toronto, is visiting at Mr. C. VanAlstine's for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hanton have returned from Iroquois where they spent a number of days camping.

Some from here are attending the camp meeting at Ivanhoe. Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid motored to Belleville on Saturday evening.

A memorial service was held in the Salvation Army Barracks on Sunday evening last for the late Mr. Friend. Little Miss Bessie Chard entertained company on Sunday.

Miss Vera McKee entertained Miss Viola Dafeo on the anniversary of her 12th birthday. The L. T. L. will hold their meeting in North Toronto church on Thursday next at 2.30 p.m.

Mrs. Gardiner entertained company on Sunday last. Mr. W. Pope, Miss Gladys Pope, from Prince Edward, accompanied by Miss Annie Young, of Sidney, were in town one day last week.

Mrs. Simpson was called on to wait upon the sick last week. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Workman made a flying visit to Colborne one evening last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Workman are entertaining the latter's sister and brother for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Keller were guests of their daughter, Mrs. R. Workman, recently.

Mrs. Sweetman, York Road, called on Mrs. R. Workman on Saturday evening last. Mr. and Mrs. Billings and Miss Winnifred have gone to Toronto.

The scenic paintings were executed by Mr. Hal Ross Perrigard, assisted by Mr. A. Robinson, and the decorations by Mr. Perrigard assisted by Mr. James Crockett, all of Montreal. Taking the exhibition as a whole, fifteen or twenty minutes could be spent to advantage in the Railway Buildings, as it is not only an historical representation, but educational from every viewpoint.

APPOINTMENTS AT QUEEN'S Two Old Country Doctors for Medical Faculty—The New Teachers

As part of the re-organizing of the medical faculty, Queen's University has just appointed as professor of pathology, Dr. James Miller at present lecturer on morbid anatomy in Edinburgh University, Scotland. Dr. Miller was educated at the Edinburgh Academy, and at the university where he graduated B.Sc., in 1895; M.B., with honors in 1899; and M.D. (gold medal) in 1904. After graduation, Dr. Miller served in South Africa with the Edinburgh and East of Scotland hospital. In 1903 he went to Birmingham as lecturer in bacteriology in the university, and in 1909 he returned as lecturer in pathology and bacteriology to the school of Medicine of the Royal College, and to the Edinburgh school of medicine for women. Throughout the war he served with the rank of captain, and No. Scottish general hospital, and for the last year as lecturer in morbid anatomy in the university. He has also acted for ten years as pathologist at the Royal Infirmary and several other Edinburgh hospitals. For seven years he has been local educational adviser to the Indian office. He is the author of a number of papers in various medical journals, and of a student's handbook in morbid anatomy and post-mortem technique. He has held the post of examiner in the universities of Aberdeen, St. Andrew's and Birmingham, and in the Royal College of Physicians and Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh; Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons of London.

In Clinical Surgery, the university has been very fortunate in securing Dr. J. Austin, who has for many years been on the staff of the famous London hospital. Mr. Austin was educated at Clifton school and Oxford, and is a son of Judge Austin of Brighton. On his mother's side he is good Presbyterian stock, as his mother was a daughter of Professor Lorimer of the English Presbyterian Church. Mr. Austin's excellence as a surgeon is very widely known, and his qualifications as a teacher has been spoken, too, among others by all the Queen's students who have gone to London for further study. Immediately on the outbreak of war, Mr. Austin after his services and was taken prisoner in one of the early engagements. After a few months captivity he was released and was afterwards in charge of the surgical work in one of the large hospitals.

Queen's has appointed as assistant professor of commerce John R. Ballard, M.Sc. It is likely that the school of commerce will be one of the most largely attended departments in the university, and the greatest attention is being paid to the building up of a strong staff. Professor Ballard is a graduate of the school of commerce and finance of New York university. During the years 1917-18 he was on military service with the American expeditionary force in France. Last winter he was in charge of the department of business administration in the university of North Dakota.

In mathematics, Keith P. Johnston, B.A., B.Sc., has been appointed as lecturer for the winter. Mr. Johnston is a Queen's graduate who was formerly on the teaching staff of the university and has recently been employed with an engineering firm in the west.

In biology, Rollo O. Earl, B.A., a graduate of Queen's in 1914, has been appointed as assistant professor. Mr. Earl has been, up to this time, in the department of the interior, natural resources intelligence service in the department of English literature in the university of St. Andrew's, Scotland, and who during the war, by his knowledge of Russia, made a remarkable place for himself in the intelligence service, will take the place of Professor W. D. Taylor, who has gone to the University of St. Andrew's.

A. E. Prince, M.A., who has been appointed assistant professor of history in Queen's, is a graduate of Manchester university, and afterwards studied at Balliol College, Oxford. He was appointed lecturer in medieval history at Queen's just before the outbreak of the war. After carrying out his duties in the university for a winter he joined the army and served in Gallipoli from October, 1915 until the evacuation. He then served in Egypt until September, 1918 and was mentioned in despatches by General Allenby. Mr. Prince has made medieval history his special line of study and it is confidently expressed that the department of history in Queen's will, with Professor Morrison, Professor McNeill, and Mr. Prince, be extremely strong and well-balanced.

Dr. John T. McNeill, Ph.D., a graduate of McGill, appointed professor of church history, studied for the ministry of the Presbyterian Church paying special attention to church history. In Vancouver he had the advantage of studying under Professor MacEwan of Edinburgh, and Professor James Stalkes, of Aberdeen. He crossed to Edinburgh to study further under Prof. MacEwan and went from Edinburgh to Halle. In addition to work at Union Seminary, New York, he took his Ph.D., in history (especially ecclesiastical) magna cum laude in Chicago. While at Chicago, Professor McNeill lectured in Chicago University. He is at present professor of church history in Westminster Hall, Vancouver, B.C., and has studied specially in the field of the history of the Celtic church. He comes to Queen's university very highly recommended by such men as Dean Shaller Matthews of Chicago, the late Professor MacEwan of Edinburgh, and Professor Ernest Scott, late of Queen's university.

LOST IN WOODS FIFTEEN DAYS The Terrible Sufferings Endured by David Kincaid, a Returned Soldier

Peterboro, Sept. 1.—For fifteen days lost in the woods surrounding Mud and Loon Lakes, in the vicinity of Fort William, David Kincaid, a returned soldier, suffered hunger, thirst and wounds worse than active warfare in France and Flanders.

Kincaid, who saw service with the 8th Battalion, and lost a leg, went fishing near Loon Lake on 23rd July, and on starting for home got hopelessly lost in the jungle tangle of the bush. When news of his non-return was heard in Fort William, friends and relatives, assisted by Indian guides and experienced woodsmen, combed the bush for two long weeks without gaining even a trace of the missing man. All hope of ever seeing Kincaid alive again had been abandoned by Saturday, 7th August, when a C.P.R. freight train on route for Fort William was signalled from the tracks at mile post 97, between Pearl and Loon, by a ragged, unkempt man. This man proved to be David Kincaid, who after fifteen days of terrible suffering, had managed to crawl on hands and knees over hills and through dense and woods, to rescue in the eleventh hour.

He was conveyed by the freight's crew to Fort William, and taken to McKellar hospital, where he is now receiving the best treatment the city affords.

When the freight train reached Fort William, David Kincaid was met by his brothers and Dr. B. C. Hardiman, and in the reaction of joy at his escape from death by starvation and from injuries, the principal actor in a thrilling Ontario episode broke down in tears.

Listened for Train Whistles In his fight to reach civilization, Kincaid climbed hills, listened for train whistles, and tried to follow their sounds to the railway tracks, only to find himself deeper still in a jungle, from whence there seemed no road to home and friends.

On the third day of his dangerous adventure, his artificial leg was broken when wading down a creek, and from that time onward the lost man dragged himself on all fours in search of some way out of the woods. When the stump of his severed leg began to bleed he used his necktie as a tourniquet to stop the flow from that limb's artery. During his two weeks' terrible experience all the young man had to eat was chokecherries, one small supply of blueberries, and a small amount of spawm but he had in his fishing kit. When the few matches he carried with him were exhausted, Kincaid had no means whatever of starting a fire from which to get some measure of comfort against cold nights and penetrating rains. It is pitiable to hear him tell of how he used his last match in frantic efforts to fire the bush and thus attract attention.

At the hospital Kincaid was found to be suffering from terribly lacerated knees, as a result of ten days' crawl over root and rock, exhaustion following two foodless weeks, thousands of fly-bites, and a general breakdown. He has been pronounced out of danger.

Like a Grip at the Throat. For a disease that is not classed as fatal there is probably none which causes more terrible suffering than asthma. Sleep is impossible, the sufferer becomes exhausted and finally, though the attack passes, is left in unceasing dread of its return. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful curative agent. It immediately relieves the restricted air passages, as the thousands can testify. It is sold by dealers everywhere.
