ed in the public journals. That on the Great Western, which was occasioned by a horse-box having been placed on the rait, as as to endanger the lives of the travellers in a large excursiontrain, has caused a great deal of interest. Under the cifrumstances, no blame seems to be attributable to the principal railway authorities; a policeman, however, has been sent to prison for two months for neglect. The calamity has not caused any depression in the value of the property. The recent accident on the Great Northern caused the destruction of three engines of very great value. It was generally expected that some distinguished Member of the Bar would eventually be needed Recorder of the city of London, in liter of picture does the miserable and devastating contest present. The trade and agriculture of a fertile and flourishing country are stepped, and its insub-tants involved in the greatest suffering, merely because a band of agitators want to range themselves under the black and yellow fing of Germany. The Duchies have always gone on prosperously under Denmark, enjoying every rational provilege, and facessing in importance; what then have they to hope for in the event of their present effort being successful 1—Absolutely nothing. It was the phantom of German unity that first blew the alumbering embers of discontent into a fame, and now that the phantom has disappeared, the fire still rages on. The unseemly dispute has had a serious effect upon the trade of England more than one large mercantile farm in Hull have no been absolutely ruined by its direct beauting has had a serious effect upon the trade of Engine's more than one large mercantile firm in Hull having been absolutely ruined by its direct beating upon their transactious, and it is only fair to suppose that the embarrassments of the Holstein merchants have been of a more serious character. The people of Hesse Cassel seem to be provokingly quiet, now their Elector has run away. I do not much feer that Austria and Prussia will come to blows at this affair. It is, however, most embarrassing to the Potentates as well as the people of Germany.
