THE BEAUTIFUL LAND OF NOD.

Come, cuddle your head on my shoulder, dear,
Your head like the golden rod,
And we will go sailing away from here
To the beautiful land of nod.
Away from life's hurry, and flurry and worry,
Away from earth's shadows and gloom,
To a world of fair weather we'll float off together,
Where roses are always in bloom.
Just shut up your eyes and fold your hands
Your hands like the leaves of a rose,
And we will go sailing to those far lands,
That never an atlas shows.
On the North and West they are bounded by rest,
On the South and East by dreams,
'Tis the country ideal, where nothing is real,
But everything only seems.

Just drop down the curtains of your eyes,
Those eyes like a bright blue bell,
And we will sail out under starlit skies,
To the land where the fairies dwell,
Down the river of sleep our banquet shall sweep,
Till it reaches that mystical isle,
Which no man hath seen, but where all have been,
And there we will pause awhile,
I will croon you a song as we float along,
To that shore that that is blessed of God,
Then, ho! for that fair land, we're off for that rare land,
That beautiful land of Nod.

MOIRE COATS THE FAD AT ATLANTIC CITY

Along the boardwalk, on bright Sundays, at Atlantic City, spring fashions are blossoming out; and not the least charming of the new togs are the little wraps of moire silk which seem just the thing for wear over silk frocks. Here is a wrap of prune colored moire Egyptian crepe, made with a slightly gathered front, attached to one of the deep, oblique yokes which extend downward to form the sleeves. The cord and tassels fastening is a modish new touch.

"Women who wear low heeled, comfortable shoes are healthier, have better complexions and are happier than those who wear high heeled shoes," she avows.

Miss Gertrude Elliott (Lady Forbes-Robertson) is a well known actress and a charming woman. She, with her distinguished husband, will be welcomed to Toronto next week.

What with the red hand of Ulster, the green flag of Ireland and the blue outlook for certain eminent politicians, the political situation in Great Britain at present does not lack color.

The height in heels makes a difference in the color of the complexion, according to Dr. Mary Crawford who makes physical examinations of women applicants for civil service positions.

Mrs. VanAllen, Miss Marjory and Mr. Marston VanAllen, who have been spending the winter abroad, returned to Toronto on Monday, the latter going on to his ranch in British Columbia.

Mrs. Roy Secord, wearing a sweet gown of white satin, trimmed with shadow lace, entertained Wednesday evening at a beautifully appointed dinner and miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Louise Newham, whose approaching marriage takes place in the near future. The table was artistically done with red and yellow tulips, at which covers were laid for eight.

Lord Frederick Blackwood, who goes to Australia as military secretary to the new Governor-General, Sir Ronald Munro-Ferguson, is, of course, the brother-in-law of the latter, as he is a younger son of the late Lord Dufferin and the Dowager Lady Dufferin, so much beloved in Canada long ago. Lady Dufferin is one of the many prominent women strongly supporting Ulster in the present unhappy disagreements.

Miss Gardner was the hostess on Thursday at a prettily arranged little luncheon of six covers in honor of the bride-to-be, Miss Mary Louise Newman, who looked charming in a gown of violet satin, trimmed with shadow lace. The spacious rooms were bright and spring like with daffodils and tulips placed about them as well as on the prettily bedecked table. Although it was informal, it was much enjoyed and many regrets were expressed at the departure in the near future of the popular bride-elect.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foy Park Avenue was the scene of the annual masquerade which was held on Wednesday evening last by the O.N.O. Some of the costumes worn by the crowd represented Queen Mary, Bill the Kid, Chief Brant, Aunt Ann etc. After the usual game, were played dancing was indulged in. A dainty lunch was served later and Victoriana music enjoyed until the wee 'crows' hours of the morning, when the crowd departed to their homes, after wishing the host and hostess adieu.

Child's Dress.

This pretty little frock is quite plain, the ornamental tab at the upper edge of the closing being the only trimmings effect. A corresponding tab finish is used on the sleeves, which end below the elbow. The four gore skirt appears straight, but there is an underturned pleat at each seam and the closing is at the side of the front gore. This style is good for school wear in wash materials or simple woollens.

Wireless Mystery Now Explained

The wireless mystery which had developed at the Y.M.C.A. was satisfactorily solved yesterday by the young men of that association in charge of the instrument. It was found to be a broken wire on the Paris road of the Hydro-Electric system. This bears out the theory held by those who had investigated without result the cause of the disturbance. A high current was on the broken wire, and when it became super-charged the current would jump, causing the violent noise heard on the local instruments. The local wireless men are very glad that the mystery has been solved, as it was causing a good deal of trouble.

Mr. G. K. Chesterton, as is generally known, is an unusually stout man. Somebody was recently describing a meeting at which Mr. Chesterton was one of the principal speakers. "Mr. Chesterton then mounted the platform," said this reporter, "and the chairman was seen no more for half-an-hour."

Mrs. R. L. Borden was the hostess last week in Ottawa of one of the prettiest and most enjoyable of luncheons. Her lovely home was beautifully decorated with tulips and daffodils, and gave one the impression that spring had really come. A few of her guests were: Lady Evelyn Farquhar, Madame Amelia Conti, Miss Warner, of Dublin, Mrs. David MacKeen, Miss MacKeen, Mrs. Geo. Fowler Mrs. E. A. Lancaster, Mrs. G. H. Barnard, Mrs. E. S. Houston, Mrs. J. F. Smellie, Lady Teschereau, Mrs. H. P. Hill, Mrs. Alan Palmer, Miss Grace Drayton, Miss Muriel Anglin.

The First Lady of the Empire

There are probably many thousands of British subjects in different parts of the Empire who have little or no conception of the ordinary homelike characteristics and virtues of the Royal couple whose lot it has been to be placed at the head of the most widely extended realm the world has yet seen. Queen Mary is gaining a European reputation amongst royal householders. Foreign visitors to the English court note the perfection of its management not excepting that eminent authority on the domestic sphere of woman, the Kaiser. The habit of looking after things herself, which the Queen acquired as a young housekeeper in the comparatively small abode of York Cottage, Sandringham, has been continued in the large and complicated household of the court. To Queen Mary belongs the credit of furthering in every way the officers of the household in their efforts to keep the huge domestic machinery in perfect order.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS USED FOR YEARS.

When a mother uses only one medicine as long as there are little ones in the home it certainly bears grand testimony to the value of that particular remedy. Thousands of mothers use nothing else but Baby's Own Tablets. Concerning them, Mrs. M. L. Blanc, Memramcook, N. B., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones for the past ten years and know of nothing to equal them during teething time or for colic, constipation and indigestion. All my neighbors who have used them think as I do." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

fect working control. The King's valet is a gentleman of the most courtly style and manner, has the control of His Majesty's personal service staff. The housekeeper controls the little army of trim women servants and the dressers of the Queen and Princess Mary. The pantry butler has under him a staff of twenty yeoman. The interest which the Queen takes in domestic science has extended beyond her own household. She has introduced the domestic arts into some of the Colleges and schools.

Blue Dragon Sun

It is a wonder there are not more inns in Ontario, quaint and interesting places where motorists can halt and enjoy rest and refreshment. There is one inn between Toronto and Hamilton, with a delightful old world atmosphere and environs. "Blue Dragon Inn." The sign itself has a fascinating look about it, the blue metal dragon himself performing the gyrations which his name would suggest to your mind. Over his blue head hangs a quaint lantern which by night makes a comforting little pocket of light on the dark road. Blue Dragon Inn—it has a savor of things pleasing to the inner man, and so it is that motor people and others turn in at the gates leading to the peaceful looking country house. Wayside inns being so rare perhaps that is one reason why one is so charmed with the "Blue Dragon Inn." You stop at "Charkons," a small railway station, then wander down a sunny country road until one

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

Grandma Kept Her Locks Dark. Gussy Thick with a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.
