Charlie laughed, and hesitated a moment. Then he blurted out:

"Look here! Why did you do it? You're not an abject fool as a rule."

THE FEEBLE MINDED.

To the Editor of The Gleaner:
Sir—Having read Dr. Anglin's report with painful interest, may I be allowed to suggest that as a means to prevent the propagation of insanity a Home should be provided in our province for the proper treatment, care and protection of the feeble minded and mentafy deficient who are a prey to every evil influence. Much has been done in other places with most gratifying results. Why should New Brunswick be indifferent Yours,

REV. MR. McLAUCHLAN'S

SERMON. To the Editor of The Gleaner: Sir—In the Daily Gleaner of March 9th, page eight, column three, I notice

9th, page eight, column three, I notice that you credit me with having on Sunday morning last made the following statement: "He urged that the dismissal of Col. Marsh should be demanded and that petitions with that idea in view should be circulated and presented to the Attorney General. Furthermore he said that he understood that Col. Marsh would retire anyway on the first of May next."

I may say, Mr. Editor, that these thoughts may have been in the re-

I may say, Mr. Editor, that these thoughts may have been in the reporter's mind, but they differ from what was said, and I know that you will very cheerfully make the correction. What I did urge was that in view of the misconduct of the Barker House raid case up to date the people request the Attorney General to investigate the whole case and other cases if deemed necessary. Then if it be found that this misconduct is due to incompetence through old age and forgetfulness let Col. Marsh be retired, in recognition of his long service, upon full superannuation allowance.

ance.

As regards the statement that Col.

Marsh would retire on the first of May, this also may have been in the mind of the reporter and inadvertently attributed the thought to me. But I knew nothing of such retirement and therefore made no allusion whatever to it.

EDUCATION OF THE BLIND.

To the Editor of The Gleaner:
Sir—The extension movement in connection with the Halifax School for the Blind is for the purpose of helping those—the adult blind—by sending to them Home Teachers, through which agency they may arise from their position of inactivity to that of helpfulness, not only to themselves, but also to those who may be dependent upon them. The Home Teacher will not only instruct blind persons in their homes, but will also instruct the parents of young blind children, in order to give them practical ideas with regard to literature for the use of those instructed by the Home Teacher, this can be procured free of charge from the circulating library of the school. This library was established in 1881. Beginning in a small way with a very few volumes the library has been slowly but steadily energy has been subscribed by public-spirited men and women who have realized with what delight the books have been taught to read in their homes.

The following is a quotation from the report of the superintendent of the school in 1882:

"The inestimable blessing of this previous grain the person to the condition of those who lose their sight whilst yet in the prime instructed by the Home and Industry to the billind—of ildrend the previous training the provious training unfits them to dwell, they become desired.
