

A Terrible Disease.

I have been troubled with Salt Rheum for 6 years and could get nothing to cure me until I took Burdock Blood Bitters. It only required 3 bottles to make a complete cure. Mrs. Jas. Deziel, High Bluff, Man.

Your reverence appears to have had little confidence that I shall succeed in proving your innocence," the solicitor remarked.

"I wish it with all my heart for your sake, and for that of my poor mother and sister; still more for the sake of the holy Church, as this scandal will be most prejudicial to the cause of religion, if my innocence is not indubitably proved. Unfortunately I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that appearances are against me."

"We must trust in God, and hope He will assist me in my exertions. Courage and confidence are important factors in a struggle and without them one can scarcely hope to win the day."

"Most assuredly I put my trust in God, and pray to Him day and night to grant us his assistance. Yet in spite of this I cannot help feeling a presentiment of evil."

"A presentiment of evil! Nonsense! Why, all the clergy are praying for you, and a number of the Laity, and in all the convents in the neighborhood they are praying for you as well. And yet you talk of a presentiment of evil! You will put me out of patience!" rejoined the cheerful old man. "Again I say: Courage and confidence! But now there is this question to be settled; had we not better apply for a postponement of the trial? It can hardly be refused, the interval is unusually short."

"I have already said that the sooner the matter is concluded the better pleased I shall be. Of what service would a postponement be to us? The few witnesses for the defence, who will be called to give evidence of my good character in the past, are all in this neighborhood; those of my teachers who are still living, the Very Rev. Father Regan, the aged parish priest in whose house I lived, and under whom I worked for ten years during my first curacy, besides a few of my parishioners, if they are not summoned to speak a word on behalf of their past pupil, under these recent circumstances, that will be about all. You see we have not direct evidence for the defence."

"That is true. The witnesses you have mentioned shall all be subpoenaed for Monday in Holy Week, and I will go bail that their evidence will be as convincing, that the jury cannot fail to see how impossible it is that such a man could commit such a crime. But we must go further in our defence, and make it appear that this scoundrel Loser, whom I fully believe, from all I hear of him, to be the real criminal, might have been in the convent at the time of the murder. If we succeed in this, the victory should be ours. But we want more time, and unhappily more money, than is at our disposal."

"At the mention of the scoundrel Father Montmoulin betrayed a certain uneasiness which did not escape the notice of his interlocutor. After a moment's silence he said: "It is necessary for my own defence, suspicion should be cast on one of those guilty or innocent we know nothing? Is it in fact permissible? Let us confine ourselves to our own justification, without endeavoring to incriminate a third person."

"I have no intention of bringing an accusation against this scoundrel. You are right in saying it is not the business of an advocate to do so, but of the public prosecutor. Yet, it is my duty to show, if I possibly can, that there is some one else on whom the guilt may rest. And you are bound to uphold me in this assertion to the utmost; for it is not only your own good name and your life which are at stake, but the credit of your class and the welfare of the Church are involved in this affair. To be open with you, I must acknowledge that you have several times made me the impression that there is something more that you could tell me regarding this scoundrel. Whenever I begin to speak of him, you appear embarrassed, and break off short, as if you had something to conceal. Perfect frankness and complete confidence on the part of the client towards his counsel is the first requisite for a successful defence. I must beg you then, if you have any grounds for conjecture that the scoundrel, or any other individual acquainted with the place, and the circumstances was in the house at the time of the murder, tell it to me. Everyone must perceive how valuable this would be to us."

Father Montmoulin, who had received his composure, merely shook his head, in reply, saying: "I can only repeat what I said to the Mayor that night in my first cross-examination. I will not, and I feel that I ought not to say anything which will cause any one person to be suspected. If by no other means can I escape a sentence of death, it must be as God wills. It must be left to His good pleasure to make amends for the scandal in his own time and way. As far as I am concerned, I beg that no postponement be applied for. Holy Week is the time of all others that I should have chosen. But if my ecclesiastical superiors think otherwise, and consider further delay to be desirable, I am willing to ordain the tertium de hisce, and examine and this wearisome confinement for some time longer. (Counsel my kind old friend, Father Regan; he will tell you what the
