Some Queries.

Why does the Government not tell the people plainly if the difference with the Contractor as to the building of the Spur Line into Trinity West has been settled or not?

There is no doubt whatever that a serious dispute did arise, and what the people want to know is how the dispute stands at present.

We repeat there is no doubt about the existence of that dispute, as there is abundance of evidence of it, and it may prove interesting to our readers to recall it to their mind.

One survey (or more) was made into the heart of Trinity West by the Contractor's surveyors, and we presume a route into the heart of the settlement was decided upon by the Government. But it would be interesting to know if the decision of the Government was ever acquiesced in by the Contractor. We draw attention to this phase, because of the apparent difficulties of the grade in reaching the settlement, of subsequent events, and of a feature of clause 2 of the Agreement.

We ask again if the Contractor ever acquiesced in the decision that he should build the Spur Line into Trinity West?

A glance at the last clause of section 2 will bring out the bearing of our questions. The Contractor agrees to build "All the said branches, as nearly as may be practicable, the routes that may be decided by the Government."

Has the Contractor ever agreed that it was reasonably practicable to take the branch into Trinity West?

Does he claim that he is following the contract by touching at Gott's Cove?

If that is so, is there a dispute on the matter between the Government and the Contractor?

Certain it is, he continued the building of the branch to Bonavista, and has not taken it into the heart of Trinity West, as the Government promised he should and ordered him to do so.

Certain it is, that the Government have expropriated much land for the route into Trinity West and no Spur Line yet runs over it.

Certain it is, that the Government told him he was building the station at Jenkins' farm without authority.

These matters afford evidence of a dispute between them. The people would like to know if the dispute has yet been settled, and if so, ON WHAT TERMS?

Is the branch line to be built under section 2 at $15,000 a mile?

Does the Contractor claim that he has approached as near Trinity West as he is called upon under section 2?

If so, has the Government ordered it to be done under section 34 as an extraordinary work, "not included in or incidental to the completion of the works comprised in the contract, as the Government in their discretion may consider necessary and appropriate?"

If the latter is the course adopted, then under section 37 the Government will have to pay for it specially, no matter if the Spur Line costs $100,000 a mile.

We hope that the Premier may devote some of that exuberant energy of which we hear so much towards enlightening the public on these matters.

In Dangerous State.

Mrs. Butt whose husband was attacked and ill treated yesterday while on his way home came to the court house to-day and made a deposition of the facts of the case before the authorities. The man is badly hurt internally, she says, from kicks received in the stomach, and is in bed and suffers much pain. She is attended last night by Dr. Macpherson who yet cannot say what the issue may be. Mrs. Butt testified that a man named Leary III, used her husband and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Tariff Reformers Are Delighted.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.
The result of the Canadian General Election has put great heart into the Tariff Reform movement here, and it has been received by the Unionist newspapers and Unionists generally with enthusiasm. Fred Smith, Unionist M.P., says Canada's example will be an immense encouragement to Tariff Reformers here, while Lord de Brouckere declares with delight that Canada has not forgotten the Old Country. Bonar Law, Unionist, believes the result of the election will hasten the triumph of Imperial Preference. According to Amery, journalist, the election is the most important and decisive event since the South African War. He declares Canada has given a lead which England must follow. Peel, a leader of the Tariff Reform Party, says the Canadians have defeated the American conspiracy to absorb their country and that Imperial Reciprocity is now certain. Sir Max Aitken declares that time alone can make clear the far-reaching significance of the victory by which Canada has set the seal on a new brand of Imperial Unity. Viscount Biddley says the door, bolted and barred by Asquith, has been flung open again by Canada. Tariff Reformers will work with renewed vigor and with certainty of success. The Daily Telegraph thinks it will be a long time before the statesmen of the States or of Canada propose another Reciprocity Conference.

Trouble Between Italy and Turkey.

Special Evening Telegram.

PARIS, To-day.
Advice from Rome say the entire naval force is ready in case of emergency for a conflict with Turkey, if the Ottoman Government refuses to give consent for an Italian Protectorate over Tripoli. The Italian plan, according to these advices, embraces the bombardment of Tripoli simultaneously with a military expedition of 20,000 soldiers to block the Turkish coast along the Adriatic Sea and to operate in Macedonia, Sinai, Arabia, with a view of protecting numerous Italians living in these countries. Efforts are being made to induce Turkey to come to an amicable agreement for insuring Italy's preponderant influence over Tripoli. Italy being willing to go to the extent of leaving Tripoli under the Sovereignty of the Sultan. It is understood that Germany and Austria are supporting this plan and that France and Italy stand ready in case of acceptance to furnish an indemnity to Turkey. The dispatch adds that the Tarantaise has been proclaimed in a state of siege.

Females Terrible Experience

Wednesday morning two females named Smith, an aunt and niece, of Chance Cove, T.B., left there to go berry picking and travelled several miles in the country. In the evening it became very foggy, with heavy rain, thunder and lightning, and they lost their way when darkness overtook them. They travelled along whither they did not know for hours, drenched to the skin, hungry and fatigued, until a flash of lightning showed them the edge of a steep cliff towards which they were walking, and over which they must have gone had they continued on their aimless journey. Retracing their steps, after an hour or so they found themselves in the middle of a wide marsh covered with water, and both women sank to the ground exhausted. Here, with absolutely not a tree or bough under which they could hide from the storm, both lay all night until 7 a.m. Thursday, when the weather cleared and both managed to reach home in a terrible state and have since been very ill. All Wednesday night until daylight Thursday a search party of men were out with guns and lanterns but could not find them, having gone in an altogether different direction from that which the women took. It will be some time before they will forget the hardship they endured on that terrible night of weather.

Uncle V THE POET PHIL

I do not care a tinker's curse about those the statesmen fuss and caw and then they of wood, and pay me a visit.

THE VITAL good and I am sure of it. INSUES hard over public life and with back yard, they'd have a much selfish view-of course, that's under the stew don't seem to do much good. I think the world along when I know weeds and song. I do as much when I produce my ownman for his own, the dearest for his the men who pay the air and hawk to sell but collectors call. I'll let the nation say, by couldn't keep the blamed thing at all, let the statesmen blow the room from his tinker round at home, and do my little best.

Laid to Rest.

In the interment of the form of the Miss Laura Parsons yesterday afternoon, earth claims one of her sweetest flowers, one whose bloom has faded full soon, but the fragrance and influence of whose kindly deeds will live long felt and remembered. The deceased young lady was a native of St. John's and retired disposition, but with a gentle spirit so unselfish and a heart so loving that she continued to be around the hearts of all who knew her. Her and the break in the home circle, the one which can never be filled. Her father, Capt. Parsons, of the S. S. Solway, who is about 80 years of age, a mother, five brothers and two sisters will have a painful separation.

Why They Smiled.

"What," asked the counsel, "did you suspect the prisoner?" "Well, your honour, I had him three or three times in places where I had seen him before, and he could not understand what the Court laughed."
