THE DAY AFTER.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The day after Christmas I a st year I found my small nephew in his playroom lay out a gorgeous time. You may think this is not remarkable, considering the fact that he probably had a dozen or two new toys. You are right about the toys, but wrong in connecting them with the gorgeous time. For this is what my small nephew was playing with—the paper, string and boxes in which the fruit of the Christmas tree had been wrapped.

He was making a long train of the boxes and using the paper and string for freight. While The Expensive Toys Were Neglected.

And over in the corner of the room a beautiful railroad outfit, innumerable toy soldiers, and forty seven other expensive toys lay neglected. Children are queer, contrary little things, aren't they?

My littlest niece also demonstrated this on Christmas morning by pushing aside the dolls a circle of admiring aunts had dressed and were watching to see her receive. A rocking-horse and small tin trumpet were the only two offerings she would accept. They filled her whole horizon; she rocked on one and blew the other, stopping only to say firmly, "No, dollie," when her embarrassed mother pressed a doll upon her attention.

But Don't Forget The Other Children. Christmas is pre-eminently the child's day. There is nothing one can put so much genuine Christmas feeling into as trying to make Christmas happy for children.

But need we limit the happiness to those in our immediate family, and among our relatives?

Most children in middle-class families would be just as well off if half as much money were spent for their Christmas toys. Half the time the expensive toys that relatives and friends give them are given either to impress grown-ups or to gratify the buyer. I will admit it is a great happiness to buy the wonderful toy you craved in your childhood for some member of the second generation.

Where A Single Toy Is An Event. But do not forget in being lavish to those who have so much that they cannot appreciate it, to give something to those children in whose lives a single toy is an event.

I gave a few little toys to some children in a remote country town once. Five years afterwards I was there again, and the mother showed me the toys intact and told me in vivid details how excited they all felt on that Christmas Eve five years ago when the box arrived.

Think of it! It was an unforgettable lesson to me.

After being thoroughly washed, celery leaves are dried by putting them into a saucepan and standing them in a warm place. When they are thoroughly dry rub them through a wire sieve. They make a good flavoring for soup.

S. U. F. Election of Officers.

Lodge No. 5, S. U. F., held their annual meeting and election of officers for the ensuing year at the British Hall last night. The meeting was conducted by Past Master House and resulted as follows:—
W. M.—J. J. Coaker, re-elected.
C. O.—Robert LeDrew, elected.
S. O.—George Cook, elected.
Q. M.—P. Summers, elected.
Purser—J. Curnew, re-elected.
Secretary—A. Withycombe, re-elected.
Chaplain—P. Joyce, elected.
Lookout—Wm. Duffett, re-elected.
Committee—W. J. Coveyduck, W. Butt, W. P. Rogers, A. Mills, H. Hynes and J. Learning.

Bro. H. Stone, a returned Gallipoli and France veteran, attended the meeting and was given a hearty welcome by the Lodge. The members were privileged to listen to an address from Past Master Rendell, of Badger's Quay.

Under the able management of Bro. J. J. Coaker, W.M., and his efficient staff of officers we anticipate for Lodge No. 5 a successful year.

AT THE CRESCENT.
Go to the Crescent Picture Palace to-day and see "Friend Wilson's Daughter," a Quaker story plagiarized by the Edison Company and produced in three reels, featuring Mrs. Wallace Erskine, Lillian Devere and Harold Meltzer, a picture of superb photography. "The Stool Pidgeon," a great Lubin drama of the underworld with Velma Whitman and L. C. Shunnaway. "The Arful Dodger," a comedy riot by the Kalem Company. Professor McCaskey plays a new programme of music to accompany this big show; be sure and see it.

OFF DRY DOCK.—The sqhr. John, Baine Johnstone & Co's new purchase, which came off dry dock yesterday, has commenced loading fish for Brazil.

Patriotic Play.

Under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and under the direction of Mr. T. H. O'Neill, the comedy "The Liars" will be reproduced at the Casino Theatre on December 12th, 13th and 14th, in aid of the W. P. A. Local Red Cross Fund for Newfoundland Soldiers and Sailors and the Newfoundland Highlanders. Included in the cast is some of our best known histrionic talent. In view of its worthy object the play should be largely patronized.

Herring Scarce.

Herring are unprecedentedly scarce this season at Bonne Bay, particularly at the present time. Most of the American and Canadian vessels that went there left again for Bay of Islands and Notre Dame Bay to load. The total catch of herring up to the end of last week is said to have been not in excess of nine thousand barrels.

NEW A. D. C. COMING.—Capt. Riley, the newly appointed A. D. C. to His Excellency the Governor, is due to arrive here at the end of the present week.

Recruiting Meeting.

To-morrow night a Recruiting meeting will be held at Petty Harbor, at which Mr. F. J. Morris, K. C. will preside and Lieut. H. Ross and J. W. Morris will be the speakers.

Everyday Etiquette.

"When a woman has been invited to a party through the influence of a friend, should she call on the hostess after the occasion?" asked Ruth. "Yes, a call should be made whether you accepted the invitation or not," replied her mother.

THE USE OF MOLES.

There are as many different brands of moles as there are of toilet soaps, but like soaps, they are not all good, and beautifying.

A mole that is round, dark like a coffee bean and perfectly smooth like the cheek it adorns is a beautifying asset provided it is well placed.

If one is so fortunate as to possess a mole coquetishly placed near the eye, or daintily near the corner of the mouth, then one is indeed lucky, but if it is simply a blotch on the chin, or cheek, it would be well to have it removed by an expert with an electric needle.

There have been very attractive moles on the neck or arms of beauties, but they are rare. If one has no mole to pet and cherish, the next best thing would be a patch of black court plaster, or a cleverly painted one, done with the fine point of an eyebrow pencil.

A mole is really necessary as a finishing touch to a well planned toilet. It adds distinction, and subtle charm to the owner. Brunettes possess moles more frequently than do blondes, and for this reason, the girl with the golden hair must be careful how she applies the artificial touches.
