SEMI-PORCELAIN FIBREWARE CONTAINERS

United States Patents Granted July, 1915.

This Company has been working in a quiet way for about two years, but the present war conditions furnish an excellent reason for big expansion in order to meet the great demand due to the curtailment of tin and glass factories. The demand is really limitless, covering an enormous supply of hygienic food containers. We enumerate below a few of the many articles for which our Fibreware Containers are positively ideal.

FRESH MILK, CREAM, BUTTER, LARD, COOKING COMPOUNDS AND OILS, TINNED FRUITS, VEGETABLES, JELLIES, PRESERVES, SYRUPS, VINEGAR, OYSTERS, FISH and other Foods that positively require Sanitary, Single-service Containers; also LYE, SOAPS, POLISHES, TOBACCOS, POW-DERS, DRUGS AND TOILET ARTICLES.

We could fill this page with other such goods, but the above will suffice to show the pressing need of some such germ-proof, efficient, modern Container to be used once only and not re-

We Do not Use Glue, Paraffin or Paper in the Manufacture, but the finished Container is a fibrous porcelain with a hard, cream-white, glossy surface, tough enough for severe handling, and impervious to air, heat, cold, time, oils, fats or vegetable acids, and can be used for any purpose for which tin, wood or glass is now used, excepting mineral acids.
