

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
For Constipation

THE poisons of constipation effect more distinctive and harmful changes in the body than perhaps any other cause. Keep your system free of these poisons by thorough, daily movements.

Nujol works on an entirely new principle. Without forcing or irritating, it softens the food masses. This enables the many tiny muscles in the intestines, contracting and relaxing in their normal way, to squeeze the food masses along and out of the system.

In Praise of Government Member

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—Please allow me in your valuable space to make a few remarks concerning Mr. Penney's report to the Board of Trade on the 8th inst., which have been read with much pleasure, and have elicited with greater pleasure a report on the Norwegian fisheries, and it is only one who has been directly engaged in the fisheries of this country that would appreciate the value of his report to the Board of Trade and the country generally.

It is, Sir, the first time in the history of our responsible Government that there was any interest taken in the fishing industries of our country and it is a great pleasure to any man who is a fisherman to see that we have a Government who will have no stone unturned to develop our fishing industries.

We have had in the past men sent abroad to study such problems as have been mentioned, but all they brought back to the people of this country were titles and empty honors. Now, Sir, we have at last men come to us who are not only men of letters, but men of action. Mr. Penney, Mr. Coaker, Mr. H. R. A. Squires, who is really to enlighten our people to the importance of the fishery, and we have so long waited for.

Now, Sir, there may be some readers who will look upon this as party politics, but such is not my intention; I am only trying to wake up some of our people from the slumber they have been in for a long, long time and to point out to them the great cloud-like atmosphere we are living in. If some of our muddled interests become a little clearer and wake up to their duty, it is incumbent upon them to try and develop the resources of our little dominion, much better circumstances would be the result.

We have today in our midst unknown millions who have reaped fortunes during the long years of the great world war. But what are they doing to return thanks to those brave heroes who have fought and bled and died to bring peace and tranquillity to these unknown millions who have reaped the fortunes from the pockets of the people of this country during the trying time of that great and terrible strife.

And to come back to my story again some of these men have sat in their easy chairs and used their voice and pen against the man who has been trying to uplift the masses. That great man is Coaker, but, Sir, it is a recognized fact any man who will try to uplift the masses will be assailed by the classes. Let these muddled men be up and doing and try and repay the people from whom they have reaped their wealth, and in order to do this they will find the necessary information in Mr. Penney's report to the Board of Trade. We have right here, Sir, in the seat of our country, St. John's, such as Quidi Vidi, etc., an ideal spot to start a factory, and all we want is these muddled men to interest themselves. We have the men and we certainly can catch the fish, which is only a very short distance from our doors.

Take for instance, all the gill that is thrown over our stage heads and gone to the deep, that is so much value in Norway, that could be utilized and manufactured into valuable substances. Look at all the caplin that strand our shores during the months of June and July; look at all the herring, scupins, conners, ray, wolf fish, cat fish, that are numerous on our shores, and are never caught for human consumption, that could be easily taken from the water and manufactured into valuable substances if our people would become interested and get down to business. Take for comparison Bay of Islands. What a great manufacturing industry could be operated there where water power is so easily obtained and where there is an abundance of lumber to be found. Now you may think this nonsense or foolishness on my part, but I will convince you that such is not the case.

Take for instance in 1904, right in the heart of our country, where the great paper town is now located, we had nothing but a falling debris and the great white foam from the Grand Falls; but to-day we have one of the greatest power plants of the world, built from that raging foam, and from that great falling water comes the paper I write on, and where that falling debris was located we have a modern town with all the modern conveniences for numerous habitations and a happy and contented people. Now, Sir, this is to prove to you the facts of my letter.

In conclusion, Sir, there may be some who will criticize me for writing this letter to the public press, being a civil servant, but, Sir, I write this without fear of contradiction in the interest of our island home, and I am firmly convinced this letter will help to make a start in our new dominion, and with the co-operation of our people to assist Mr. Coaker, Mr. Squires and Mr. Penney to carry on the great fishing industries of our country, which they are so much interested in, and in the near future we will be living in a happy and peaceful country.

Yours truly,
MICHAEL FOLEY.

HOW YOU CAN TELL GENUINE ASPIRIN

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Aspirin—No others!

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, refuse them—they are not Aspirin at all. There is only one Aspirin, that marked with the "Bayer Cross"—all other tablets are only acid imitations. Look for the "Bayer Cross"! Then it is real Aspirin, for which there is no substitute.

Aspirin is not German but is made in America, and is owned by an American Company, all rights being purchased from the U. S. Government.

Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" have been proved safe by millions for Pain, Headache, Neuralgia, Colds, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger "Bayer" packages, can be had at any drug store.

Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 761) of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetate of Salicylic Acid.

The Discipline of the Snow.

The first rude blast of winter is often more keenly felt than the steady severity of January, when the smothering snow settles down for keeps upon the land. If with the usual unexpectedness there be unpreparedness of coalshed, pantry or wardrobe, then real hardship may be lurking near the household. It is not likely we can succeed in shifting the blame for this wholly upon somebody else. Hence, in the first place, it will be realized that the breath of the Frost Spirit is disciplinary in that it compels some sober thinking, perhaps long overdue. There have been warnings in plenty to put a prudent restraint upon expenditures for luxuries, but a touch on necessities in many cases will teach effectually where admonitions are unheeded. Having made provision first for the obligations represented by taxes, the family necessities and the application of Christian brotherhood, one can face his fellows with a better grace than by keeping up a fast pace for the time being, by means of income extracted through some such merciless maxim as imposing all the traffic, or the industry, as the consumer will bear.

Though we may shrink back from the early embrace of Our Lady of the Snows, as a species of affliction, her coming is an immeasurable benefaction to the husbandry of the land, adding fertility, sheltering from frost, and distributing moisture. Our growing aversion to the snow signifies by a kind of storm signal that the tendencies of modern life leave us less able to bear its rigors, and we do well to try the discipline of simpler living. Were we dwelling under millennial conditions, and freed from human frailties, we might not need the correction of adversity or training by trial, but clearly we have not reached that stage. We gain in knowledge, and a measure of wisdom lingers, but human nature does not materially change. Experience perpetually repeats itself. The mystery of suffering is as ancient as it is universal. Nowhere else has it been so adequately presented as in the masterpiece of literature, the Divinely-inspired Book of Job. In the midst of halcyon days of prosperity, the Satanic adversary of the Man of Uz conceived that were he permitted to break in upon the wealth, comfort and family joys of the stately patriarch, his character and his confidence in God would go to pieces. And so the storm was permitted to break over his devoted head. No such blizzard of disaster ever beat upon any other human life and yet from beneath the weight of cruel catastrophe he emerges purer, greater and more triumphant as a God-sustained man than he ever was before. Having entered into the treasures of the snow, and having seen the treasures of the hall, Job was able with truth to declare:

"He knoweth the way that I take, When he hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold."

In the Psalms of David, snow is quoted as the emblem of purity, and yet of severity:

"He giveth snow like wool; He scattereth the hoar frost like ashes; He casteth forth his ice like morsels. Who can stand before his cold?"

Few men have been permitted to attain such heights of distinction in goodness or material glory as the Shepherd-King of Israel. And rarely has one of his type descended into such depths of sorrow through moral failure, to be raised again by the pathway of repentance and confession to Divine favor and peace. In Psalms like the 6th and 51st, he touches tragic levels of anguish, but rises to sublime heights of penitential courage never surpassed by warriors upon any battle-grounds. Transgression had brought down upon him the pitiless snows of remorse. In the 119th Psalm he re-appears, a miracle of restoring grace:

"Before I was afflicted I went astray; but now I have kept Thy word."

"It is good for me that I have been afflicted, that I might learn Thy statutes."

"I know, O Lord, that Thy judgments are right, and that Thou in faithfulness hast afflicted me."

"He healeth the broken in heart. He bindeth up their wounds."

St. Paul, prince among apostles and inspired authors of apologetics, encountered a series of stormy experiences almost unparalleled in their severity, and yet he looks out in the
