opposes extreme measures—that he dvises the Local Legislature to attend to the ordinary legislature of the ountry; to maintain its attitude of ostility to the Union, if no satisfactbry terms can be made, to appeal again to England; and he discounnanced annexation or revolutionary neasures. It is tolerably certain that majority of Dominion members will go with him, and would, perhaps, go further if they could. Local memfurther if they could. Local members are more violent, and very many of them are said to demand some measure declaring Nova Scotia out of the Union. Still it is much doubted whether such course will actually be adopted. Some antis are beginning to discuss terms of conciliation. They want more money—say the remission of the interest on the excess of the debt of the Province over the eight millions, and as large a representation in the Commons as in the Senate. There is a flying rumour that the Dominion Ministers propose two year' trial of the Union, with the understanding that it be dissolved then it still unsatisfactory to the people.

RUSSIA. From the New York TRIBUNE. The vast world of Russia is again attracting the attention of both hemispheres. Baffled by united England nd France in its efforts to escape from its inland confinement through the Dardanelles, it is steadily pushing its way out towards the Indian Ocean by way of Toorkistan. Already it has reached Bokhara, the chief city of the independent State of that name, the population of which numbers more than a million on an area of 235,000 square miles, lying directly between the Russian dominions and Southern Asia. The City of Bokhara has completely dwarfed its old rival, the famous Samarcand, whose great colleges are ruins, whose public edifices are in decay, whose ancient walls inclose gardens instead of marts, and mosques instead of civilizing institutions; whose streets are trodden by the worshippers of a glory departed, not by merchants or traders, save when an occasional caravan startles the quiet around Timour's grave. Bokhara is a great city of some 200,000 inhabitants. It has aravan startles the quiet around Timour's grave. Bokhara is a great city of some 200,000 inhabitants. It has hundreds of mosques, but also hundreds of schools and colleges. It is a celebrated seat of learning. It is the centre of a flourishing and increasing fraffic, Merchants from Russia and Tartary, from Persia and Turkey, from India, China and Cabool, crowd its twelve gates and make busy its numerous markets. The possession of that eity and region is of immense importance to Russia. From that point rothe scaboard, where the Arabina opens into the Indian Sea, the road for such a power would be short and easy, but for the neighborhood of India, where jealous England crouches ready to spring at any competitor for the spoils of the East. But England is far away from India, war would be costly and precarious, the memory of the Crimea is fresh, and even to that haughty power prudence may suggest the policy of allowing the Titan to march umolested to the ocean. For Russia herself is not what she was. 'The Titan is a brute no longer. The interesting and important letter from our special correspondent, written a month ago at St. Petersburg, conveyed information respecting the social changes that are going on there which gives assurance of the presence of a living soul in that enormous bulk of dominion—a soul worthy of the body, and capable of animating it all through with human energy. In respect of vital power, that organizes and impels an empire, there is no comparison whatever between the Russia of today and the Russia of even ten years ago. The emancipation of the peasantry from the bondage to the soil to a fatal state policy doomed them

The Nova Scotia Difficulty.

The Halifax special correspondent f the Globe says: It is understood hat Sir John and his colleagues have syet made no progress with reconiliation. The absence of the Local finisters from Gen. Doyle's dinner a much commented on, as indicating a unwillingness to meet Sir John, wen to hear what he had to say. Genral Doyle had a dinner party last ight, at which Mr. Howe and Mr. IcDonald, Lunenburg attended. It is becoming more apparent that the Inionists look with 'suspicion upon he proposed Coalition. The Reporter Union) this evening says the Unionsts must not be sacrificed to atisfy the antis, and doubts the fficacy of conciliation. The Unionsts have been much vexed and discartened by the blunders of the Otawa Government during the past year. Mr. Howe made a speech seting forth the difficulties of the antituation but it is said that he avoid dommitting himself as to the course obe pursued. There are some rumors that he and other Dominion members be pursued. There are some rumors hat he and other Dominion members re disposed to adopta moderate policy, and the Unionists are very suspicious of what they call the timidity of the Dominion members.

Many of the members of the Local Legislature talk very bitterly, and scorn all idea of moderation and consiliation. Still many repeal politicans feel that there are grave difficulties in their way

It is understood that Mr. Howe makes a stream a measures which is safely in store.
