earing that he was convinced he id never see her again.

"The second. He had left off feigning anxiety to do rightly by his first wife, and honestly asked after Cytherea's welfare.

"The third (and most remarkable). He seemed to have lost all consistency. Whilst expressing his love for Cytherea (which certainly is strong) and evincing the usual indifference to the first Mrs. Manston's fate, he was unable to conceal the intensity of his eagerness for me to advise him to advertise again for her."

A week after the second, the third advertisement was inserted. A paragraph was attached, which stated that this would be the last time the announcement would appear.

3. The first of February. At this, the eleventh hour, the postman orought a letter for Mauston, directed in a woman's hand.

A bachelor friend of the steward's Mr.

A bachelor friend of the steward's Mr. Dickson by name, who was somewhat of a chatterer—plenus rimarum—and boasted of an endless string of acquaintances, had come over from Troominster the proceeding day by invitation—an invitation which had been a pleasant surprise to Dickson himself, insomuch that Manston as a rule, voted him a bore almost to his face. He had stayed over the night, and was sitting at breakfast with his host when the important missive arrived.

Manston did not attempt to conceal the subject of the letter, or the name of the writer. First glancing the pages through, he read aloud as follows:

"My Hushand,
"I implore your forgiveness.
"During the last thirteen months I have repeated to myself a hundred times that your should never discover what I voluntartell you now, namely, that I am alive in perfect health.

'I have seen all your advertisements. In him but your persistencey has won me must. Surely, I thought, he must love de lll. Why else should he try to win le a woman who, faithful unto death as will be, can, in a social sense, aid him Jackles acquiring nothing—rather the research, indeed.

The name and address were written on a separate slip of paper.

"So it is to be all rightat last then," said Manston's friend. "But after all there's another woman in the case. You don't seem very sorry for the poor little thing who is put to such distress by this turn of affairs? I wonder you can let her go so coolly."

Good News For Those Afflicted With Rheumatism.

Rev. Jacob Iler, of Cottam, Essex county, writes: "J. W. Kern: Dear sir, —For several months I was severely afflicted with salaticar heumatism. In December last inflammatory rheumatism set in. My family doctor failed to cure me. I tried various remedies, also Celery Compound and Pride of the Valley, with no benefit. I sent to Essex Center for another highly advertised medicine, also to Kingsville, but could get none. My friend, Mr. James Doan, druggist, of Kingsville, sent me a bottle of Kern's Rheumatic Cure, which vexed me, and caused me to say to my family this preparation is from some irresponsible person of whom we have no knowledge, and if his cure is good why is it not extensively known. I did believe it to be one of those many hundreds of worthless preparations that flood the market these days. After some days I concluded to try the stuff. It can't prove more worthless than the drugs I have been taking, But, sir, I had not taken more than half a dozen doses of it before the pain was entirely removed. That was several months ago, and I have felt nothing of them since. I must pronounce your preparation—Kern's Invaluable Rheumatic Cure. In conclusion, I will say I think it is your duty, at well as your interest, to make yourself and your cure more extensively known. I am a Baptist minister of Cottam, Essex county, Ont."

P. S. The reverend gentleman was so elated over his complete cure after a long period of intense suffering that he put an advertisement in the Essex Center paper recommending Kern's Rheumatic Cure at his own expense. He is upwards of 70 years of age

"Wedding over? Jumpin' Jupiter! It won't be over! That's the trouble."

"Why not?"

"Because it can't come off unless I'm on hand. I've got to be there. I'm the man that's going to be married. Policeman you mean well, but you can't pour any of the oil of joy into this wounded bosom. I'll feel obliged it you'll go away somewhere and sitdown."—Chicago Tribune.

Statistics show that ninety-five out of a hundred men fail in business sooner or later, and the cases in which a firm sees fifty years of business life are extremely rare. It is certainly, then, a noteworthy case when a house dates its existence back to the close of the Revolution, as do Walter Baker & Co., the famous chocolate and occan manufacturers of Dorchester, Mass., who began business there in 1780, and for a hundred and ten years have made their productions the standard of purity and excellence all over the world. The immense increase in the consumption of their Breakfast Cocoa is largely due to their saqueity in setting and maintaining the standard of absolute purity in its production, thereby insuring its perfect healthfulness and the highest degree of mutrition. No chemicals are ever used in its preparation, but only the action of the cleanest and most exact mechanical processes upon the best materials; and at the Paris Exposition the gold medal for absolute purity and excellence was awarded to W. Baker & Co.'s preparations by the most eminent scientific authorities of Europe. preparations by the most eminent scientific authorities of Europe. She Had Beautiful Hair.
