

Every Bone

In my body ached with the dreadful Rheumatism which followed a severe cold. My sufferings were awful. I could not dress myself or comb my hair. My husband had to carry me up and down stairs. I was scarcely able to nurse my little one. Within two weeks after I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, I felt better. Shortly I was able to walk up and down stairs without help and finally I was cured. My friends thought I was going to be a cripple, but thanks to God for his blessing on Hood's Sarsaparilla, I now enjoy good health. Mrs. J. BLACKBURN, Lower Five Islands, Nova Scotia.

Citizens' Day.

Favorable Weather—All Departments in Full Swing.

Interesting Programme of Attractions Successfully Carried Out.

The Aeronautes Land Safely from a Trip to the Clouds—Results of the Speeding Contests—Noteworthy Exhibits Described.

Yesterday was "Citizens' Day" at the Western Fair, but the inhabitants of this fair city—the business center of Western Ontario—were "not in it" to the extent that might be expected, for the attendance was below the average. It may have reached 7,000, but did not exceed that number. In this connection it is mentioned that the directors have left nothing undone in any line to make the Fair what it generally is—"the" exhibition of Canada, and citizens doubtless will redeem themselves by turning out in force during the remaining days of the week, dropping their good quarters on the shoulders of the ticket offices, running up the figures in the turnstiles, and making the hearts of the managers swell with joy. The weather yesterday was of the kind to prevent an attack of melancholia. The sun shone as brightly as he could, but on account of his desperate exertions during the summer was a little weak. This made the weather all the more enjoyable, and if there had been a 35,000 or 40,000 crowd on the grounds nothing could have stopped the Fair people from exhibiting joy by dancing the Highland fling, Irish jig, or some equally lively step. "There are four days yet," said one of the directors, "and if the entire population of London does not drop in on the gates, that time it will be a big surprise to me. Citizens have always treated us right loyally, and this year is going to be no exception. Germania Day is to come, and everybody likes it. The farmers have not had their turn, and when those from the rural districts come to town those stands will be packed. See if what I say does not come true," and the director hurried off to see the finish of an exciting horse race. After dinner the east-bound cars filled up, carrying visitors to the center of attraction, and for a couple of hours the gate keepers were busy. Every department was in operation, and the full list of special attractions was carried out. Music was plentiful, and everything went off without a hitch.

IN THE RING.

The events in the ring were of a satisfactory character and were carried out without any tedious waits. The audience in the stands numbered about 2,000. They were enthusiastic and applauded every good feature on the programme.

2:45 RACING STAKE.

Of the three races this was the most exciting. There were only three entries—Annie Rooney, Pay Rock and Dixie Van. Up to the start the first heat Annie Rooney and Dixie Van had a close run, with Pay Rock away behind. It looked as though the latter was out of it, but Annie showed herself to be of a very different disposition to the Annie Rooney, of whom so much has been sung in past days. She broke, cutting up capers just long enough to give Pay Rock a good lead and second. Dixie Van proved himself a wonderful little pacer. His pace was steady, and it was only in the third heat that he lost his head. Pay Rock lagged behind in the third heat till after the first half. Annie Rooney broke badly, leaving Dixie and Pay Rock to fight for first place. The two horses came down the stretch together, their drivers using the whip freely. As they passed under the wire they were neck and neck. It looked like a dead heat, but Pay Rock was given first place. Summary:

THE BI-CYCLE RACES.

The balance of the bicycle races, postponed from Saturday, went off very successfully. In the one mile, 2:50 class, Rowen, of Guelph, who finished second, was ruled out of the race by the referee. The third man finishing getting second prize and the fourth rider third prize. The boys' one half mile race was one of the most remarkable of the day, being won by Frank McCormick, a member of the London Bicycle Club, in the exceedingly short time of 1:12. Ferguson getting second and Brown being awarded third on being fouled by another rider.

The team race was won by the L. B. C. team No. 2, captained by Frank White, with Radway and Reid as mates. The trophy was a very choice one, being valued at $80. It will be quite an addition to the many team prizes won by the Londons this season. The London Club secured three firsts, three seconds, four thirds and the team prize. Summary:

One mile open—A. McLeod, Sarnia B. C. won; F. E. Radway, London B. C., second; C. H. White, London B. C., third. Time, 2:33-2-5.

Half mile, boys under 15—F. A. McCormick, London B. C., won; J. Ferguson, London B. C., second; Ashton Brown, London B. C., third. Time, 1:12.

Two mile, handicaps—A. McLeod, Sarnia B. C. won; F. Radway, London B. C., second; B. Devine, St. Thomas B. C., third. Time, 6:03.

One mile, 2:50 class—J. B. Shillington, Sarnia B. C. won; L. E. Rowen, Guelph B. C., second; J. W. Livingstone, Seaforth B. C., 2. Time, 2:41-2-5. F. Morehead, of the London B. C., was given third place in this event in consequence of being fouled.

Three mile team race—F. E. Radway, J. P. White and C. Reid, of the London B. C., won; C. H. White, F. Sweeney and E. Morehead, also of the London B. C., were the competing team, but only McCormick finished, the other two being thrown out by a collision.

THE ATTRACTIONS.

These are important features of the Fair, and during the afternoon they are scheduled in between the heats in each race. They are good in every respect, and were secured only at great expense by the management.

The hero of the high wire, Clifford M. Calverley, who has won fame in every part of America and England as well, received a great welcome as, attired in a suit of pink tights, pale green trunks and white blouse, he climbed the big pole to his mid-air wire. Cliff is as daring as ever. His terrible accident has not decreased his courage one iota. He prances out on the wire and performs many new feats. Calverley is really a marvel. He can dance, hang by one foot, walk blindfolded, with his feet in a sack and baskets, balance a chair, read the newspaper and smoke a cigarette with only the wire for his pathway, while his somersaults—in fact all his acts, are thrilling.

The Kemp Sisters' combination, in its many acts, attracts a great deal of interest. The Roman standing team race by two of the Kemp brothers, the chariot, flat, steeple chase, and hurdle races were pleasing. The two sisters, who are only 7 and 9 years old, ride ponies in some of the races. They give some good exhibitions of hurdle jumping, the little beasts on which the sisters are mounted clearing poles 42 inches from the ground. The pair of the performance attracts and amuses the children immensely.

In the first part of the afternoon what looked like a large piece of gray cotton lay on the ground near the south end of the ring inclosure. It proved to be the balloon which carries Mlle. Ruby De Veau, "The Queen of the Clouds," and Ed. R. Hutchinson, "The King of the Air," high above the earth. It took a roaring fire about one hour to fill the balloon, and when ready to ascend the top was high above the trees. The balloon was held down by many willing hands, and the two daring aeronauts soon put in an appearance. They took their places on the bags attached to the parachutes, and at a given word the airship was freed, and in a second was speeding skyward at a rapid rate. Higher and higher it went, until at an altitude of several thousand feet, Mlle. De Veau cut herself loose, and was soon descending to terra firma with her parachute wide open. Prof. Hutchinson continued on his journey for some time afterwards. The fair was expressed that an accident had befallen him or that he was unable to break away, but the minds of the spectators were set at ease when the big umbrella was seen to open and start downward. There was very little wind, and both Mlle. De Veau and Hutchinson landed safely a short distance from the fair grounds near the G. T. R. property.

Mons. and Mlle. De Coma performed a clever bicycle feat in mid-air. Mons. De Coma navigated the wheel on a wire about 50 feet from the ground, while Mlle. De Coma, on a trapeze pendant from the wire, executed many perilous feats. Acrobats who had displayed themselves in London before were outclassed by Rajan. His many acts are, to say the least, clever and exciting.

Siegrist and Lee, in the laughable acrobatic pantomime, "The Clown and His Sagacious Monkey," furnished plenty of amusement. The present Mr. Siegrist has a capable partner in Mr. Lee. Major Henderson, "the boy drummer of the Rappahannock," who served in the American civil war, is very clever in handling the sticks. He carries with him the drum presented to him by Moraco Greeley after the battle of Fredericksburg, and also the drum sticks presented to him by Presidents Garfield and Arthur. Henderson is accompanied in his selections by his son, who plays the flute.

NOTES.

About 200 patients, male and female, from the asylum were shown over the grounds and buildings yesterday morning by Keeper Angus and a number of attendants. They enjoyed the visit immensely and went through all the buildings. The side shows were a great attraction to them and the manager of the menagerie admitted them to a performance free of charge. They were generally very orderly, and as the crowd on the grounds was not very great the sharp-eyed attendants had little trouble in keeping track of them. A demented woman lost her head when she saw the animals and commenced to run. Two attendants had a sharp chase after her. One of the men fell in love with a cheap jewelry stand and tried to walk off with it. Failing in this he gave his keepers a sharp run to the south. He was recaptured near the race course.

The Northwest exhibition car has made its appearance. It stands on an impressive platform next to the Centennial dining hall.

The management can well afford to prohibit the firing of guns on the grounds to attract a crowd. It is a dangerous backwoods custom.

The Tecumseh brass band of Muncy played some of their choice selections at the fair grounds and were well applauded by the public. This band consists of the direct descendants of the late great chief and warrior, Tecumseh, who fell in the defense of Canada.

P. C. Rowell is doing mounted police duty inside the ring.

Mr. James Jackson, a member of the Windsor police force, is in attendance at the Western Fair. He weighs 257 pounds. Mr. Wm. D. Watson, of the Waton Manufacturing Company, Ayr, and Mr. D. J. Waterous, of the Waton engine works, Brantford, are attending the Fair.

The Seventh and Oneida Indian Bands played out to the fair grounds this afternoon. The Oneidas were resplendent in new suits and headed by a redman in full warrior's costume.

The officials in the horse races were: Starters, Ald. Drenney and J. R. Minihick; judges, J. D. Brown and D. Ferguson; timers, J. W. Hyman and Dr. O'Neill.

Wednesday morning the city band will travel to London in full force to fill their day's engagement at the Western Fair.

The Plowmen's contest band boys on their appointment, and trusts that every citizen who can possibly do so will take advantage of the special rates and accompany them, making a worthy showing from our progressive and pushing young city.—[Chatham Planet.]

SOME OF THE BEST EXHIBITS.
Reid's Crystal Hall.
After 50 years of successful business in the wholesale trade the firm of W. J. Reid & Co., are still leading. That it is the premier china and glassware establishment in Canada is exemplified by their large four-story establishment—197 and 199 Dundas street—by their large staff of hands, and by their ever increasing trade, reaching from the Atlantic and Maritime Provinces in the east, to the Northwest Territories, British Columbia and the Pacific coast in the west.

The firm has received 600 packages of ware, and the output has been correspondingly large. In fact, notwithstanding the cry of "hard times," the business has been steadily increasing. The reason for this is the fact that the firm does all its own decorating, and by that means it is possible to match glasses purchased from them at any time. The building contains four flats, each 50 by 250 feet. The ground floor is devoted to the showing of china and porcelain and novelties and specialties imported from the British and European markets, new white granite ware, semi-porcelain ware, new printed ware and tea, coffee and dinner sets. Here the newest china can be seen and lamps of all kinds—hanging lamps, parlor lamps, vase lamps—and all the latest patterns in glassware. The firm have an immense new stock of fancy goods of all kinds to select from. They are made especially for the holiday trade in French, German, Austrian and Bohemian glass.

The very latest thing in dolls, toys and knickknacks are also shown. The second floor is reserved for the wholesale show rooms, and in the flats above, tastefully arranged in immense bins are "C. C." and "spangled and majolica ware, white granite, light semi-porcelain and printed ware, and products of the British and European markets. The firm does all its own decorating, and has over 100 patterns to select from in tea sets alone, besides 50 or 60 patterns in toilet and dinner sets. They have all the facilities with which to handle their large wholesale trade, elevators, shipping cranes, etc., and printed ware and tea, coffee and dinner sets of ware at one firing. The exhibit in the main building is a fair sample of what this enterprising firm can do in the way of decorations.

Their full staff of travelers will be on hand all this week to wait upon their numerous customers; the sample room will be open each evening during the Fair until 10 o'clock, p. m. The firm keeps a constant line of the generous patronage already extended to them in the past. In their advertisement in this issue they call the attention of the trade to new goods. Everything new; new patterns, new designs, new shapes, and new colors. They wish to say in closing that their prices are new also—made to suit the times, and are as low as have hitherto always proved to be—in a position to meet all competition from whatever source it may come.

Ferguson's Ginger Beer.
If you get "that tired feeling" after walking around all day just stop at the exhibit of D. Ferguson on the south side of the main building, downstairs, and ask for a drink of ginger beer. It will be found to be particularly refreshing and invigorating—free from harmful or injurious ingredients, cool, sparkling and clear. Mr. Ferguson's exhibit is tastefully arranged, tier above tier, and those in the trade will find it to their advantage to leave an order with him before leaving the city.

E. B. Fawcett, Electrician.
Electricity has solved the problem of unsatisfactory lighting, and today no cottage, however humble, need be without its light. All the latest ideas appertaining to electricity, whether in the shape of incandescent light fixtures and furnishings, electric bells and indicators, batteries, wires, etc., are to be found in the exhibit of Mr. E. B. Fawcett, electrician, at the south side of the main building downstairs. Mr. Fawcett is up-to-date and modern electrician, and his work is highly commended by all his patrons. He was for a number of years with the Bell Telephone Company, and while there received a practical education in electrical matters. An electrical fan forms part of the exhibit. Visitors intending to purchase would do well to give Mr. Fawcett a call.

Gerhard Heintzman Planes.
Once more the Gerhard Heintzman Company is to be fore with a display of their justly celebrated pianos. Visitors to London's Fair should not fail to see this exhibit at the southwest corner of the main building, down stairs. Piano recitals are given each day by Messrs. Fred L. Evans, London, and James Maitland, Toronto.

Yesterday the sweet tones and rich sound of these instruments attracted a large crowd of interested spectators. They listened with delight to the music of the Gerhard Heintzman and admired the beautiful design and exquisite finish in various woods including ash, blister walnut, Circassian walnut and mahogany. Visitors who contemplate purchasing an instrument should not fail to inspect these celebrated pianos and be convinced, as others have been, of their superiority. They are endorsed by the highest musical talent and leading artists, and the price commends itself to everyone. Persons should make their furnishings complete and their home life pleasant by the addition of a Gerhard Heintzman. It is pronounced by competent judges "the only perfect piano." Mr. W. McPhillips, who has control for London and district, is ever ready to show visitors the merits of the Gerhard Heintzman. The downtown storerooms are at 229 Dundas street, south side, and visitors will always be made welcome.

A Light Display.

The Western Fair always brings to the city a magnificent exhibit from Gowans, Kent & Co., of Toronto, the well-known and extensive dealers in crockery, china and glassware in their many branches. The firm has been represented at London's Fair for some years and has always had a decidedly creditable display. The company keeps up with the times, and this year they have at the large store, 353 Richmond street, a complete show in itself. There can be found everything in the crockery, glassware and China lines, including the latest European and American patterns. The store is daily crowded with purchasers, from the western district, who know where to get the right goods at the right price. The old customers always call on Gowans, Kent & Co., and new comers should pay visit to the rooms and they will be so satisfied that an order will be left.
