VARI-GO-GELE

The Cause of More Wrecks Than Any Other Disease.

It Can be Cured by Electricity. Thousands of men have Varicocele and are ignorant of the harm which may result. They only know that something is draining vitality and ambition from their bodies and brains, and know of no reason to account for it. This terrible affliction is the most treacherous, silent and certain in its work of all known ailments. It comes on without apparent cause and never ceases in its destructive influence until it robs a man of all his vitality and leaves him a physical and mental wreck.

There are many ways of treating, but none so sure of a permanent cure as Electricity.

No New Light on Mysterious Death of Deep Interest in the Proposed Union George Whalley in Toronto.

Toronto, July 22. — It is announced that the examination of the body of George Whalley, shipper in the ware-house of Evans & Sons, wholesale druggist, who was found dead in the warehouse on Sunday under circumstances that pointed to foul play, discloses no wounds that could have caused death, nor anything that would explain the fatality. The government has ordered an analysis of the stomach of Whalley, and if poison is found the body of E. Geen, a young Belle-ville man, who on June 7 was found in a dying condition in the warehouse, where he too was employed, will be exhumed and the stomach examined

The police theory is that both nen were poisoned, but by whom and for what reason is still to be found out. Both men had been paid just before the warehouse closed on the two Saturdays of the tragic events, and in both cases their wages were missing. The police have been quite unable to secure any explanation of

of Newfoundland With Canada.

St. Johns, Nfid., July 23. - Widespread interest is developing here over the speech delivered in London last week by Sir Robert Bond, the pre-mier of Newfoundland, in which he declared that the confederation of Newfoundland with the Dominion of Canada was mainly a question of terms from the latter.

The press and public are discussing the matter eagerly, and the opinion is generally expressed that Prime Minister Bond's speech makes the question a practical one, and is likely to result in action being taken to advance the matter at the next session of the legislature.

JOHN W. MACKAY'S SOCIAL TRAINING

The Millionaire Appreciated His Shortcomings.

The House Where He Died Was a Palace-His Body Will Lie in a Princely Tomb.

New York, July 23 .- The story of John W. Mackay's rise from poverty to wealth has been already told, and is an interesting story. His subsequent career is even more interesting.

In 1867 Mr. Mackay married Mrs. Bryant, the young widow of a physician, who kept a boarding house. Mr.
Mackay was already a millionaire. His wife was a daughter of Major Hungerford, of New Orleans. She had one child, a girl, by her first husband. This daughter, in 1885, became Princess of Colonna Gatro. With Mackay's marfield of action.

In conjunction with Flood, O'Brien and Fair he established the Nevada Bank. Unlike the majority or men, he never forgot that he was once dependent himself, and his charity has been great. He belonged to the Catholic Church and established an orpital olic Church and established an orplan asylum for the children of that denomination in Nevada City, which he always supported.

COURSE IN SOCIAL TRAINING. The flow of wealth kept on. The great Comstock lode continued to pour forth its richness. Mackay and his partners became immensely wealthy, so wealthy that his name became a synonym for money. Mrs. Mackay and the family went abroad to live. Mr. Mackay spent his time partly in America, partin Paris.

But first came a time of preparation. of their natures. When wealth had come, Mr. Mackay appreciated his shortcomings, and with the same de-termination that had characterized his search for wealth, he set forth to find education and the veneer of sociwhom she was drilled and educated for five years. The little daughter was put through the same course and fitted to shine in the most cultured company of the old world. Then came the constant statues symbolize different attributes quests in New York, San Francisco, and finally the trip to Europe.

Mr. Mackay developed himself along new lines. He read, he studied. And the Mackay family developed itself. It was a rise hardly less remarkable than

Mrs. Mackay became a leader in society in Paris, London and Rome. The fame of her jeweis and her entertainments became world-wide. The residence at 6 Carlton House Terrace, London, in which Mr. Mackay died is one of the most beautiful homes in London. It is large enough to entertain a great number of guests with-out a crush. The home was purchased from Mr. Sandford, who lost his money in the Baring crash about ten years ago. Among other things it has a beautiful marble staircase that is said to have cost $300,000. When the house was opened, Mrs. Mackay, with the co-operation of the Duchess of Manchester, soon succeeded in attracting to it the notabilities of

Among the first guests were Justice and Lady Jeune, Sir Charles Russell, Harold Frederick, T. P. O'Connor, La-bouchere, Whistler and a host of others celebrated in law, arts and letters. Later came society leaders, such as Mrs. Ronalds, the young Duchess of Marlborough, Lady Curzon, Lady Arthur Butler, Mrs. George Cornwallis

London seasons, and during the coronation period, both past and expectant, the Mackays played and expected to play a most prominent part.

An interesting story is told of the circumstances surrounding the purchase of the Carlton House Terrace mansion. When some persons talked about Mr. Mackay's residence being in America, and wondered he should be-America, and wondered he should be-stow so much money in the preparation and fitting up of a London house, he published with characteristic straight-forwardness an announcement in the journals that his residence was at No. 6 Carlton House Terrace, London, England, and in San Francisco, but that his place of business was in New York

In the last few years of his life Mr. Mackay spent much of his time abroad, practically making his home in the London mansion and joining in the society affairs given by his wife. Mrs. Mackay, after the tragic death of her son, practically gave up society for five years. She devoted much of her time and money to the work of charity. One of her beneficences was raising a debt of $100,000 on a church in Paris because one of the priests had been kind to her son. It was not until a little over a year ago, after she had been joined by her husband, Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Mackay had fived a life which developed the lighter side a series of entertainments in Lonthat she re-entered society and began don on a magnificent scale.
