WHEN KURNEL MEETS KURNEL

Then Comes the Shock of War. The Battle of Stinking Creek. LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 20.—Another out-break of the Smith-Messer feud is reported from Knox County. The battle occurred Thursday evening at Hubbard's mill on Stinking Creek, one of the most lawless sections in the state. There was a political meeting there, the candidates for the various county offices being advertised as speakers. Both the Smith and Messeg factions were on hand carrying their Winchesters and "forty-foure." It is not known just how the trouble began, but at about 3 o'clock the shooting commenced and when the smoke had cleared away four men were found to have bitten the dust while the rest had disappeared. Eighteen men were arrayed on one side and about 25 on the other. Those killed are two of the Mills boys belonging to the Messer fachon and Robert Burchett and John Howard belonging to the Smith crowd.

THE SPOOK OF THE CROSSING.

Correspondent who is Much Puzzled Over Manifestations Generally. Editor World: In your issue of the 16th and 18th I notice articles under the above heading and I can fancy how hundreds of your readers will scan them with a grin and remark, "This is and I can fancy how hundreds of your readers will scan them with a grin and remark, "This is bosh." It is easy to come to such conclusions; it is also easy to assert that because we have not ourselves seen spirits they do not appear to mortal eyes. Ido not pretend to be a believer in spiritualism so-called, but I wonder why I should disbelieve the statement of seven or eight trustworthy persons who inform me they have seen a s, inti and yet believe them in all other statements they make. Your readers may not be aware that manifestations of such a character are taking place in different parts of the world, many having taken place during the past year, those who have seen them being as positive in their testimo y as the most truthful witness in a court of justice.

Up till last fall I always considered such reports as being unworthy of motice, but when I read of manifestations of a "spook" in the County of Pontiae, hear the village of Shawville, verified publicly by over 20 persons of standing in the township, I could not help making it my business while traveling in the vicinity to investigate the matter, thoroughly satisfying myself as to the accuracy of the statements. The "spirit," it was said, had manifested itself in ways such as the following: over-turning of beds, setting fire to the house eight successive times, breaking panes of glass in the windows, singing hymns of sweetest praise, talking for several hours at a time with those around the house, and while family prayer was being held taking a Bible and putting it in the oven. It would also at times write distinctly, and at other times use most blasphemous language. Death had also crossed the threshold one of the family having been burned in a way unexplainable. I personally saw all that saw these manifestations. Their characters were beyond question, and no one till this time has been able to throw any light on what is known as the Clarendon mystery.

The sminent Professor Crooks has written a valuable work on manifestations. After going into fite mat

Two Kinds of Errors.

"The Speaker's Error," by X. M. C., one of the leading articles in the July number of The North American Review, was ordered printed in its antirety in The Congressional Record as part of the regular bushless of the House of Representatives on the 11th Inst. This is the first time in the history of Congressional Record adiatinction has been accorded to any periodical.

Cora Tanner sailed July 16 in the City of Berlin for New York, Miss Tanner has been in Paris for the last two months selecting her drosses for her new play by E. E. Kidder entitled "One Error," which opens the season at H. C. Miner's new Fifth-avenue Theatre, August 25.

The August number of The Forum will contain an essay on "the Decollete in Modern Effe," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, which is a text from which the writer argues an alumining decay in delicacy in American society; and she traces the seffects of this decay in our art, in our literature, in politics and throughout the whole range of American activity. Two Kinds of Errors.

CAMPBELL ROUNDLY DENOUNCED. [From The Irish-Cauadian.]
We have frequently called the Mayor's attention to the ruffianly conduct of the wretch referred to by Mr. Murphy; but as wretch referred to by Mr. Murphy; but as there has been no abatement of Campbell's aboninable filth, we suppose His Worship has taken no action in the matter. The police say, when asked why they permit Campbell to proceed unchallenged with his vile drivel, that they can only interfere when some overt act is committed; but we put it to Mayor Clarke, if it is wise to wait for a collision that may lead to the shedding of blood, if not the loss of life. We arre again upon His Worship that he take measures to protect the citizens in their rights, and save them from the outrages to which they are weekly subjected by the foul-mouthed scoundrel Campbell.

THE PARK FULL OF POLICE. Queen's Park was yesterday afternoon thronged by 10,000 people. The outdoor preacher was there in force—so were the police. Chief Grasett was there in plain ponce. Chief Grasett was there in plain clothes—so were Deputy Stuart, Inspector Archibald, his two assistants, Sergeant Miller, and twenty officers, with and without uniform, were scattered throughout the crowd. There was no disturbance; had there been any the police were prepared to meet it, as reserves were also in eadiness. "Jumbo" Campbell was there as arge as life pouring out vituperations on the Roman Catholic Church.

During the year she has been stationed in the Province of Tsientraing, but failing health has necessitated her return to Canada. Her address last night was given at the request of Rev. J. McD. Kerr, who is holding services in the rink, and her remarks were devoted to show the manners and customs of the Chinese and the indrances which meet the missionary. Miss Crosthwaite gave the Chinese translation of the hymn "Come to Jesus," and exhibited several curiosities in the shape of Chinese shoes, beads, incense, etc. She appeared in the Chinese dress.
