WHEN LOVELY MAIDEN STOPS TO REST

no gentleman, driving a handsome pair of bays, seeing Laurence as he turned away from me on his heel, stopped and called out to him. I jumped in and took a ride with him. The name he called him by was not a name I had ever heard of. I was sure I must have heard it if I had it again.

"There, there! forgive me for mentioning that name again, Jessy, dear, for I see how it is by the look in your eyes. You love him yet. Well, I suppose you can't help it. Love goes where it is sent, they say," and the gentleman smiled, and I felt a jolly, madcap fashion.

"I'm in love with the man in the moon; He stays out at night; And he often gets tight; Yes, I'm in love with the man in the moon."

"Tells is right," thought Jessy. Carr, "I thought something to take up my thoughts—something to keep me from the dull pain at my heart—the loneliness and emptiness of my life. I will sing upon that fatal night, and print the pictures."

"I am searching for those negatives, dear," called Tekla, from an inner room. "I think I have found them. Will you come and see?"

With slow steps Jessy Carr entered the apartment in which Tekla was busily at work on her knee searching through the contents of a large box.

"Ah, there they are," exclaimed Jessy. "In my excitement at the time I knew I put them away carefully. They were misplaced since, and my search has proved fruitless."

"I was luckier than you," observed Tekla. "You know the old saying, 'That it's better to be born lucky than rich.' Ah! Do you need any help?"

"No," said Jessy. "You can do what you like for me or so; I shall not need you."

"I think I'll take a ramble around the block. I saw that Mallon girl pass down across the way, casting sheep's eyes up this way to see if she could see anything of my Tekla. She thinks I'm a handsome man, doesn't she?"

"A wounded soldier lying on a battlefield in the thick of a fight saw an Irishman hurrying along, and begged him, for the love of heaven, to help him across the line, that he might not die on the battle field of the enemy, meaning: 'Such my legs have been shot off, and I can not get there myself.'"

"That was kind of heart," said Jessy. "You have lost both your legs, I'll give you the loan of mine," he declared in his Irish brogue, lifting the man upon his back, which was the only possible way he had of carrying him.

"Heaven bless you for your kindness to me!" moaned the man as Pat trudged along, answered that he was only doing as he would like to be done by in such a sorry plight, all unmindful of the shot and shell that were flying thick as hail about him.

"Suddenly he was stopped short by a platoon pointing a rifle at him, crying: 'Halt! what are you doing?'"

"Only carrying a wounded man across the line, sir," declared Pat. "Wounded?" cried the platoon. "Why, the man you are carrying is dead; his head has been shot off."

"Well, well, I'll be damned!" exclaimed Pat, in the greatest excitement. "The rascal declared to me it was his legs that were shot off when he asked me to carry him."

"I'm going now. If I should happen to miss him, don't tell him the mission I'm on, please. You can't trust a man out of your sight, you know. I'm getting so I just forget him. Yes, I hate him. He's getting to be the meanest, most despicable, most abominable fellow that ever—"

The crowd ended in a scream of surprise not unmixed with embarrassment, for there, standing serene and nonchalant on the threshold, with a great bunch of red roses in his hand—Tekla's favorite flowers—was Tim himself.

"Are those for me?" cried Tekla, catching her breath at him.

He nodded. The next instant Tekla flew out into the corridor, dragging Tim with her. There was the sound of knees, and Tekla's voice murmuring her Tim was the dearest, nicest fellow in the whole wide world.

IN A BATTLE ON SUNDAY LAST

A Strathcona Trooper Was Killed
Capt. Cooper Missing.

Lord Roberts looking to them in Devon's Force—Krugers Agents says the Host Will Fight an Unseen Given Their Independence—Commander of Devon's Scouts Captured by the British—'Baba' Feeds His Enemies.

London, July 4.—Nothing decisive has yet been heard from the columns looking to them in Devon's Force. The British are engaged apparently in supplying these columns. Operations elsewhere are necessarily relaxed. The thousand Boers are hanging on Gen. Cley's right flank in his advance to Greylingstad.

Strathcona's Horse on July 1 received its baptism of fire, in which one trooper was killed, Captain Cooper is reported as missing.

Mr. Kruger's reply to a correspondent if there was any truth in the report that he had opened peace negotiations with the British.

"The President and people of the South African Republic most earnestly desire peace, but only on two conditions. The complete independence of the Republic, and amnesty for the colonial Boers who fought with us. If these conditions be not granted, we will fight to the bitter end."

CAPTURED DEWEY'S SCOUT.

Andeleo Wessels, the Head of the Afrikaander Bond, Now a Prisoner of the British.

London, July 4.—The following despatch was received yesterday afternoon from the War Office from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 3.—Gen. Hunter reached here yesterday. He found two men of the South African Republic, who had been well treated by the Boers."

"Mothus reports from Paardekraal, that he has captured the commander of Dewey's scouts, two other prisoners, and Andeleo Wessels, the head of the Afrikaander Bond."

The War Office has received the following despatch from Gen. Buller:

"Standerford, July 3.—Very occupied yesterday. The Boers were without opposition, but met with a good deal of sniping. There were four or five casualties."

ROBERTS FEELS HIS ENEMIES.

Boer Families Whose Fathers are Still in the Field are Being Fed.

London, July 4.—The following despatch was received at the War Office from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 2.—General Hunter's division has crossed the Vaal, and is now at Frankfort, where he will be joined by Col. Macdonald's brigade from Heilbron."

Gen. Buller's leading brigade has left Standerford for Greylingstad.

Feeding Boer Families.

"Both here and at Johannesburg, several families of the men who have been fighting against us are being fed. Some are in a state of destitution. At Heilbron, where the food supplies ran out, groceries, meat and other supplies food are being distributed among the inhabitants, under the supervision of the Relief Committee. Arrangements are being made for the distribution of food need purposes to farmers actually in need of it, those who are unable to procure seed oats in any other manner."

Wounded Soldiers Reach England.

London, July 4.—The American hospital ship Maine has reached Southampton with a number of wounded soldiers from South Africa. A distinguished party, including Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener, Lord Curzon, and Lord Lansdowne, met her at the Solent.

Casualties Nearly 30,000.

London, July 4.—The War Office yesterday issued a return of the British casualties in South Africa since the beginning of the war.

The total losses, exclusive of sick and wounded, have been 29,706, of which the killed in action were 254 officers and 2,408 non-commissioned officers and men; died of wounds, 70 officers and 610 non-commissioned officers and men; missing and prisoners, 4,024 non-commissioned officers and men; invalided home, 814 officers and 18,433 non-commissioned officers and men.

IN THE FIGHT AT SPRINGS.

The Canadians behaved splendidly and were congratulated by Lord Roberts.

Montreal, July 4.—The Star publishes the following special cable from Pretoria: June 29 (delayed in transmission).—The Royal Canadian Regiment, which is now stationed at Springs, was attacked on Thursday morning by a large force of the enemy, who tried to take a position commanding the coal mines. After a sharp engagement the enemy were forced to retire under heavy fire from the Canadians, who had two guns. The enemy numbered over 1,000, while the Canadians were only about 400. A great many of the enemy were killed, but there were no casualties among the Canadians. Our troops behaved splendidly and were congratulated by Lord Roberts for their gallant defence of a difficult position. (Signed) W. Richmond Smith. Two Boer Scouts were taken to the hospital.

London, June 30.—This despatch is published by The Daily Telegraph from Bennett Burleigh, its special correspondent.

Pretoria, June 28 (via Bloemfontein).—Krugers flight with the money has greatly disgusted the Boers. Two deputations have proceeded to Machadodorp to induce him to surrender. As he is afflicted with Bright's disease he was told that the English would probably allow him to remain in South Africa under parole.

Good Advice

Mr. Isaac H. Allen, Ontario, formerly of Toronto, has written a book, well and favorably known all over Ontario and Quebec, says in regard to Dr. Ward's Heart and Nerve Pills: "For the past two years I have been a great sufferer with heart and nerve troubles, and chronic constipation. The rheumatism got so bad that I could not get out of bed, and I could not get around without the aid of a cane, even then it was only with great difficulty and excruciating pain.
