

- (a) by the Board, in respect of any particular grievance or class of grievances, upon application of an employer, an employee or a bargaining agent; or
- (b) by agreement of the parties, subject to the approval of the Board.

(2) Where an objection that a grievance was not presented at any level of the grievance procedure within the time limit provided in a collective agreement or prescribed by sections 75 and 76 is raised for the first time after the grievance has been referred to adjudication, such objection shall not be entertained without the express consent of the Board.

90. The adjudicator concerned or the chairman of a board of adjudication may, if in his opinion it is advisable in the interests of justice, adjourn any hearing for such time and to such place upon such terms as he thinks fit.

91. Notwithstanding anything in this Part, the adjudicator concerned or the chairman of a board of adjudication may, if in his opinion it is advisable in the interests of justice, direct that any person be added as a party to a proceeding or be served with any document.
