

to the Britisher the point of view of the colonies would do just as good. Not a team to arrive there in the pink tea attitude, determined to make a good impression, but a team willing to say exactly what it thinks on the subjects at issue.

As I know the Englishman he is perfectly willing to be dealt with in this fashion and respects the people who treat him so.

It seems to me that with the aid of such men as Sir Michael Sadler & P^r Hill of the Universities Union much might be done. All that is wrong is misunderstanding and all that is needed is frank discussion. As I know the Britisher he is perfectly willing to listen to our point of view if we just have the courage to "talk up".

Sincerely yours,

G. H. C. Stalroot.
