Even if I had more ample means the present amount I am receiving seems rather inadequate.

Had I remind you of my past service? The incessant strain of responsibility at Macdonald, the starting of a policy, which I believe is now keeping up the supply of students to Macdonald, the amount of teaching undertaken, the large output of research work, largely carried out during the summer when I should have taken a vacation, the starting of graduate work at Macdonald, etc.

Truly with thus ready the University can afford a little better recompense to one of its worn out professors?
