To-day a Holiday.

In view of Thursday being a holiday, the House adjourned at midnight, after having made good progress with the supplementary estimates for the coming fiscal year. The Public school is closed until next Monday, as the teachers are attending the convention of the East York teachers, held at Scarboro Junction.

The supplementaries for the current year have been adopted, and but one item of the main estimates has been held over for general discussion.

When the tower wagon withdrew to the barn, Central avenue was cleared, partly to disperse a noisy threatening crowd and partly to prepare for the coming of the non-union recruits with their cavalry escort. The junction of the avenue with Quail-street had been impassable all day, and it took all the energy of the soldiers to clear it. The men of the 23rd have a clever way of running toward a crowd to clear it. The men of the 23rd have a clever way of running toward a crowd with bayonets lowered and then sudenly raising the points over the heads of their frightened victims. It is effective and somewhat harmless. The crowd roared its disapproval of the charge, and there was an exciting scene when the two forces met, but, foot by foot, the disorganized mass gave way before the soldiery.

Wrecked Cars Fired. Governor Odell said to-night that he had every reason to believe that Major-General Roe was handling the strike matter with excellent judgment. He said he had come into Albany because it was on his route west, and he will leave at 8 a.m. to-morrow. The two wrecked cars that have lain on Quali-street for two days were fired to-night, after the picket line was drawn in. An alarm was sent in, and a chemical engine quickly put the fire out.
