Amongst those named are members of the legislature and the house of commons. One of the latter, however, was struck from the list because he had failed to pay his dues. There are high city officitls, and, in, fact, French. Canadians belonging to all classes of society, chiefly, however, drawn from the better classes. The reports of the several meetings go to show that The Emancipation had already gained a foothold in the city council, and was attempting to secure control of the legislative bodies and the newspapers of the city and province.

MEDICAL CONVENTION

Outline of Important Gathering Here

This week some 500 or more members of the Canadian Medical Association will gather in convocation hail for the 43rd annual meeting, which takes place from Wednesday till Saturday. 'A pathological museum will be arranged in the foyer.

On Tuesday evening the city mem bers will entertain visitors at a smok-ing concert in St. George's Hall, and the convention opens next morning at 9 o'clock. There are sections in mediwhich will hold sectional meetings in the mornings and be addressed on topics of especial interest.

In the afternoons and evenings gennesday, President Falconer of the university will pronounce the invocation, and Dr. Adam H. Wright will be inducted as president. Addresses of welcome from the province and city will be followed by the report of the association milk commission, read by Dr. J. C. O. Hastings. The commission includes 27 physicians from all parts of Canada. H. A. Evans, commissioner of health, Chicago, will give an address on "The Municipality and

Its Milk Supply," and Chas. E. North of New York will speak on "A Pure Milk Supply," after which there will be a discussion, opened by Govern-ment Analyst McGill, Ottawa; Dr.

Rutherford, veterinary director-general, and Hon. H. E. Young, provincial secretary of British Columbia. In the evening W. P. Herringham,
