

WAR DOGS CARRY ROPES TO WOUNDED

French Canine Never Aids a German

HAULED BACK TO TRENCH

Military Authorities Propose To Extend Scheme Which May Mean Saving of Thousands of Lives

Paris, June 22.—A remarkable story of the new use to which police dogs (now called war dogs) are put by the French comes from the Vosges. An experimental squad of twenty dogs, the account says, is stationed near the front line of trenches, whence they are sent singly at night to range over the ground between the French and German lines in search of wounded Frenchmen, whom they have been trained to distinguish. Each dog carries a small bottle of brandy tied to his collar. When a wounded man is found the man pulls the string to which a coil of rope is fastened, the rope around his body, and is then pulled back to the French trenches. The dogs work quite silently, so far none have been noticed by the enemy. They never assist Germans.

MARITIME PROVINCE NEWS OF THE WAR

The first letters from Lt. Col. F. McLeod, M. P., since his arrival in France, were received Tuesday by Mrs. McLeod. One of the letters was written on June 8th from "Somewhere in France" Col. McLeod said he was going "up country," and hoped to soon join the 1st Canadian Division in the trenches.

Sergeant Maj. George Parker, who left Fredericton with the 26th Battery of Field Artillery, writes that he is still at Ross Barracks, Shorecliffe, England, having been left behind to train recruits for further drafts that will be sent to the front.

The Moncton Transcript says: The 40th Nova Scotia Battalion, which was on Wednesday afternoon en route from Aldershot Camp, are to be shifted to the sands and citizens general are already reckoning on a rousing reception for the "Bluenos." Invalided home because of the loss of his left eye, Private Lockhart of Toronto, passed through Amherst Tuesday. Private Lockhart, who enlisted with the 17th Loyal Nova Scotia Battalion, with the First Canadian Expeditionary Force, was transferred at Salisbury Plain to the Fifteenth Battalion, and with them marched into the battle of Langemarck.

Of Lieut. F. M. Bentley, killed in action, the Amherst News says: "Although his home was in Port George he has been living in Parrsboro for some years and at Parrsboro Garage Company and was one of the most popular and most highly esteemed young men on the Parrsboro Shore. His death was cast a shadow over Parrsboro and Port George. His brother Lloyd, who also went in Great Britain, suffering from an injured ankle, 29th Battery of Field Artillery, now quartered in the exhibition buildings in Fredericton, has been shifted to the military depot in Queen street. It is taken to mean that they will remain there for some time possibly until ready to cross the ocean. The battery is nearly up to strength.

Letters received from members of the 22nd and 24th Field Batteries told of being transferred to the 8th Battery and the Ammunition Column, first division, in Millard Wood of Woodstock, in a letter to his sister, tells of getting sailing orders and being sent to the front around Ypres and the Yser Canal.

ONTARIO FLOUR DOWN THIRTY CENTS MORE

Another drop of 30 cents was registered in Ontario flour today. A change was hourly expected in Manitoba patents, which will be made in Ontario. There is just 81 difference between the two rates now. In view of the several recent declines in the price of wheat, indicating even lower quotations on both Manitoba and Ontario, it is probable that the price of a loaf of bread rises.

BIDS THE "AD" MEN GET AFTER FARMERS' BUSINESS

Chicago, June 22.—Farmers of today are different from those of twenty years ago. E. T. Meredith of Des Moines, Iowa, publisher of a farm journal, told the convention of the National Farm Bureau of the world today. "Some of your advertisers," he said, "act as if you didn't think you do know that 50 per cent of all farmers want paper. You have not realized that from $15 to $40 for a suit of clothes and that he purchases motor cars ranging in price from $500 to $2,000. The advertising agencies had better study their rural towns, should know the farmer of today."
