

LADY ASTOR TO SWITZERLAND; REST NEEDED

Strenuous Political Life Has Proved Too Trying

The Judges and the Recent Hanging of a Woman in England—Pearl White to Enter Convent?—News Topics of London.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) London, Jan. 26.—The strenuous political life, from which she really takes little respite even during parliamentary recesses, has proved too much for Lady Astor, who has been ordered to Switzerland to recuperate her faded nerves. "Nancy" is not exactly popular with the M. P.'s at Westminster—"She hath a tongue with a tang" as Shakespeare says—but everybody admires her pluck, her quick intelligence, and her desperately conscientious work. Lady Astor had rather a trying fight at Plymouth to retain her seat against influential "interests" at the general election, and I hear a whisper that she plans some form of retaliation. This alert, masterful little American lady, who manages to mind a large family and a big public career simultaneously without letting either interfere with the other, is not the personality to take any hostile aggression easily. Lord Astor is simply devoted to her, and ably seconds all her enterprises. Although she is a Tory M. P., Lady Astor manages to maintain friendly relations with women's movements which are largely controlled by ladies of quite another political complexion.

The Judges and the Ilford Sentence. Now that Mrs. Thompson and Byrd have been executed, it is possible to mention the attitude of the judges at the conference held at the time of the appeal. They were unanimously in favor of the capital sentence being carried out, because they declared that it would be as good as an admission that capital punishment for women was abolished. Criminal lawyers believe that capital punishment is a very real deterrent. The permanent officials took up an equally strong line, and the Home Secretary, who personally would have been glad if a respite had been possible, could not possibly ignore advice from two such influential quarters.

Tipperary Lane?

The steep way down from the old military camp at Folkestone to the harbor, prosaically known as Church Lane, is to have its fine avenue of rosemary, and if the Folkestone town fathers concur, to be renamed Remembrance Road. This sentimental tribute to the gallant khaki cohorts who swung down that way in column of fours, marching to hurl their lives into the face of Death, is not inappropriate. Though perhaps the genius of the epoch, and the peculiar humor of the B. E. F., would be better recalled by christening Church Lane, just off the Tipperary Lane. That at the nonchalant dirge to which the First Hundred Thousand embarked, smiling serenely, on the long, long way to the Cenotaph, Folkestone was a queer parody on the fashionable seaside resort in those days. Drafts bivvied in those conventional bottle-houses overlooking the deserted front, destroyers circled and balloons hovered, and the dead-baited man, in his dingy R. A. M. uniform, when he brought round the porridge in the morning before you shouldered your pack for France, recaptured lost illusion with "Don't forget the water, Gent's!"

A Film Nuisance.

All the vast multitude of cinema-goers are, of course, thrilled by the news that Miss Pearl White, queen of the serial three-reel heroine, is talking of taking the part of a nun. So far the romance has not gone any further apparently than just talking about it—to the Parisian journalists—and those who realize the scientific developments of modern "movie" publicity may possibly reserve their sympathetic exclamations a little. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Relieved Her of Headaches

Headache seems to be habitual with many people, and some, if any, are seldom free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to the removal of the cause, and with the cause removed the headache will vanish.

It is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of every description than can equal B. B. B., acting as it does on every organ of the system.

Mrs. Douglas Rieborough, 280 McKeen St., St. John, N. B., writes: "I have suffered from severe headaches for a considerable length of time. I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and found that it helped me wonderfully. It relieved the headaches, and I noticed a decided improvement in my health."

Burdock Blood Bitters is a remedy that has been on the market for the past forty-four years, so you don't expect it to be a new fangled medicine. It is put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

trove, which revives whenever hard times emphasize the social inequalities of rich and poor. There is something to be said on both sides. These opulent shop displays, which have grown more and more luxurious in recent times, express trade activity. But it is hard if a Christian bishop is to be rebuked for rebuking the un-Christian attitude which in itself denotes a lack of windows typify. It is not the shopkeepers, but their patrons, who really stand accused. Those who spend their fortunes in purchasing luxuries, and who answer to their own consciences whether, in using the privileges of their wealth, they neglect their Christian duty to neighbors who lack the bare things of life.

Winston's Wife.

Lawn tennis is going great guns at Cannes, and amongst those well known society people who are competing in the tournament games, such as Lady Waverley, the Duke of Westminster, Sir Laming and Lady Worthington, Lord Ypres, and Sir Arthur and Lady Crossfield, Mrs. Winston Churchill's slim graceful figure is most active.

For the first time in fifty years the Round Pond in Kensington Gardens is being emptied of its waters. This work is being set in hand, not only because it is in itself desirable, but to hold this half-century clean-up, but to furnish work for some of London's unemployed.

For fifty years the Round Pond has been the Mecca of all model yacht owners. Every morning and afternoon the boys and girls of Mayfair and Belgrave, as well as the more modest yachts of the yachting clubs have raced and tacked across this seven-acre Atlantic.

In all those years how many brave souls and panting mechanical steamers have "unk benth the verge"!

The Tango Passes. A dancer friend tells me that the new four-step dance, about which such hopes were entertained by people interested in new dances, has definitely not caught on. It will soon be a memory—like the old 40-step affair that for a few months was all the rage in 1918.

The new tango was brought over from Paris, and for a while at the fashionable dance clubs the special music was played one night, but as only a stray French or Italian couple told the floor and everyone else sat out to watch, the innovation was soon dropped. The dance-restaurant, odd-idea enough, although it was often danced at private dances, and several big tango balls were organized and were very successful. It has failed, not because of immaturity—it is really the most sedate dance of the century—but because it is monotonous, and the tango rhythm does not appeal to the northern temperament. The fox-trot is still absolutely supreme, and looks like staying so for some years. The one-step seldom appears more than twice in a three-hour dance programme at smart dances, but the waltz is becoming a favorite again.

The Bishop's Rebuke.

The Bishop of Chester's criticism of London's profligate luxury display has not only been a serious rejoinder in the editorial columns of at least one London newspaper. Apparently the bishop's sense of social decency was outraged by the West End shop-windows, and the mock the object poverty of the times with arrays of costly luxury beyond the dreams of even people of comfortable means. Really this is a very old cliche.

TRIBUTE TO DR. ROBERTS (Moncton Transcript.)

A prophet is not without honor in his own country, and Dr. H. H. Roberts has the satisfaction of knowing that his work is being increasingly appreciated in his own city and province. The opening of a public health centre in St. John through the munificence of public spirited citizens marks a stage in the popularization of the public health movement. This centre will co-ordinate the public health activities of St. John, and should simplify the solution of problems which have to be dealt with. Its usefulness is guaranteed by the co-operation of the Red Cross Society, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, the Women's Institute and the I. O. O. F. The new headquarters in one of the finest buildings in St. John.

In a speech at the opening of the health centre Premier Foster said Dr. Roberts was largely responsible for its creation, as well as for the establishment of the Provincial Institute and Health Centre. It is more and more realized that expenditures to promote health are good investments.

CHANGES MADE IN ENDURANCE TEST

Board of Sponsors to Allow Owners to Have Grooms Care for Mounts.

New York, Jan. 26.—Changes in the conditions for the 200-mile endurance test for horses, adopted at the meeting of the Board of Sponsors in this city, were the result of four years of experience by expert riders who have studied the results of the various tests over the Vermont and New Hampshire hills and through the hard and soft roads of New Jersey, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

These alterations, also, may be traced largely to the influence of the army officers who, more than ever, are interested and are taking part in the competition with the hearty approval of the military authorities.

Most important of the new rules is that permitting owners of the horses entered to feed and care for their horses. The policy was approved from the first time that army officers took part in the event, and they have contended ever since that no rider possibly could get the best out of his mount in the five long days on the road if he lost many precious hours of rest and sleep in order to give his horse the necessary attention to bring him to the starting line the next morning in the best possible condition.

The original contention against the use of other than the riders to care for the horses was that the endurance test was for the purpose of determining the best type of horse for use in the mounted service of the United States and to determine what blood lines "will produce a mount which will satisfy many and exacting requirements demanded of a charger." It was pointed out that in the army the soldiers on the march are obliged to care for their own horses and that the test should

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Bronchitis.

While the human equation always must prove a large and sometimes a determining factor in this competition, it has been greatly realized, since the early tests out of Fort Ethan Allen in Vermont, that the contest is primarily a test of breed, blood and type and not of the endurance of the rider and not of every one of the contests of the past has proved a tremendous trial of the strength and stamina of the horsemen.

To bring his mount through in satisfactory condition the rider must be on the alert every instant from the moment he takes the saddle at daylight until he crosses the finish line each afternoon. The slightest slip or stumble may cause a strain that will bring on the lameness that is absolutely fatal to the chances of his entry. All day the horse must be favored, eased and humored in every possible manner, and times without number have been completed their sixty miles in far worse condition than their mounts; in fact, almost on the verge of exhaustion.

Only the riders themselves have realized in the past the strain under which they have labored. In the earlier rides, when the speed was not as great as it is today, the riders of the horses did not finish until dark or after. This meant that the grooming of the horse was accomplished under the greatest of difficulties, often by uncertain lantern light after the cooling-out process had been completed. Water often was heated in the pails over smoky bonfires, and the stable men were obliged to put on narrow stalls in inadequately lighted stables. Not infrequently the riders labored over their mounts until nearly midnight, being forced to rise at 3 o'clock in the morning to repeat the process. Neither man nor mount had sufficient rest.

Army officers contended from the first that the horse should be cooled out, groomed and given whatever treatment was necessary in the shortest possible time and then left alone for complete rest. A tired rider, they argued, could not accomplish the results with the necessary justice or do justice to the horse and himself. They argued also that the riders should be permitted to carry and apply on the road and in the stable all the liniments, applications and other aids that are carried by cavalry on the march—do everything possible for the comfort and well-being of the mount from the start on the first day to the finish on the fifth at the end of the 300 miles.

One other change of importance for the 1923 test is the reduction of the maximum time to be allowed for a horse to cover the sixty miles of each day's run. This maximum has now been placed at 60 hours for the 300 miles, or 10 hours for each day's run. The minimum time for the total distance is still placed at 45 hours, or 9 hours per day, which has been the minimum from the first test in 1919. In that year the maximum was 65 hours, but each year more and more of the contestants have reached or closely approached the minimum, so that it has been possible to reduce with a limit placed on the speed the original idea of preventing the test from deteriorating into a mere race to the finish.

In making the awards at the conclusion of the test.

PRESIDENT FOR SIXTEEN YEARS

Notable Career of Retiring Head of Chicago University.

Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago since 1907, and a member of its faculty since 1892, has been elected to the presidency of the University of Chicago for the next six years.

Under his leadership the university has been steadily increasing its reputation and preparing certain publications which it has been impracticable to carry on under the pressure of administrative responsibilities. Judson has decided to retire from the presidency of the university on February 20, 1923, the sixteenth anniversary of his election to the presidency.

At the same time he resigns as Professor of Political Science and as Trustee of the University, thus withdrawing from the institution which he has served for nearly a generation.

The Board of Trustees, with cordial unanimity, has conferred upon him the honorary title of President Emeritus and has offered the Acting President to Ernest D. Burton, Professor and Head of the Department of New Testament and Early Christian Literature and Director of the Libraries, who has accepted.

The University of Chicago has had but two Presidents, President William Rainey Harper for the first fifteen years and President Judson for the last sixteen years.

During President Judson's administration such buildings as the Harper Memorial Library, Julius Rosenwald Hall (Geography and Geology), the Classics Building, and Ida Noyes Hall for women students have been erected. Judson has been practically brought to completion.

The resources of the University in buildings, lands, and endowment have increased by $25,000,000 since 1907. The increased budget of expenditures has grown from $1,016,000 to about $3,750,000 in 1921-22. While the University greatly needs increased endowment and additional buildings, these needs have not prevented continuous insistence upon the highest leadership and intensive research in laboratories. The number of students has increased from 5,070 in 1907 to 12,429 during 1921-22.

President Judson has found time to serve upon the boards of two of the great beneficent foundations—the General Education Board and the Rockefeller Foundation. At the request of the latter he made an exhaustive study of the health conditions of China. As the result of his investigation and upon his recommendation the great hospital in Peking, costing upwards of $2,500,000, was erected. During the war, representing the Near East Relief, he was sent to the United States Department, he visited Persia and other portions of the Near East, and his reports were the basis of increased assistance to starving and beleaguered peoples and to diplomatic movements of our own and the British Governments. He has taken part in innumerable movements to upbuilding and uplift and improve the city where he lived.

In an application before Chief Justice McKenna yesterday for endorsement of a warrant signed by two Quebec Supreme Court Justices for the arrest, in a bankruptcy case, of William Thibault, of Edmundston, the application was refused on the grounds that Thibault, as a resident of New Brunswick, could not be taken to someone in LIFE WAS MISERY!

"I was reading the other day about Neurasthenia, about the large number of people who were troubled with this disease. It is just what my wife had. She felt miserable all the time and was constantly depressed. She would wake in the morning and tell me that something dreadful was going to happen that day. Life was nothing short of misery for her. She was so depressed that I expected she would lose her mind and have to go to a sanitarium and I kept wondering how I would get the money to pay for her. She could not eat and had no appetite for food. She was irritable and cranky most of the time. If she was crossed in any way, she would immediately work herself up into a violent temper. This worried me because she had always had a kind and gentle disposition and nothing which was said or done seemed to irritate her. I spoke to our family doctor about her and he said that her trouble was imagination and that if she would try and forget about her depression and look on the bright side of life she would be all right. Of course I didn't dare tell her this because I knew she would get into one of her tempers. When she got over these fits of temper, she was always weak and ill and more depressed than ever. The doctor said a tonic might help her and gave me a prescription but this did not do her any good. She tried all kinds of other tonics with the same result. Carnal was recommended to me and I was told that it was the leader of all tonics. Since taking it, my wife has changed completely. Now she is always ready for her meals and work and has a pleasant pleasure for me to recommend Carnal to anyone who is in need of a tonic or a body builder. Excuse me for writing this letter but I want you to accept my thanks for that wonderful tonic known as Carnal." — Mr. J. M., Toronto.

Carnal is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 7-622

ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, and it was so unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my back. I had been sick for seven years, but not for nothing. I had been married for eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I cared for no one but myself, and I would rather have died than live. I could not do my work, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread
