Heels-Wight.
At the residence of the bride's parents, 143 Gullford street, West St. John, last evening, Rev. Isaac Brindley united in marriage Alice Bertha, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Wight, and Newton Embro Heels, of Ontario. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion and relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride was charmingly gowned in a traveling suit of navy blue with hat to match and carried a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas. Her sister was bridesmaid and her brother, George Wight, was the groomsmen. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Heels left on the Boston train for their wedding tour. They will make their home in Port McNicoll (Ont.). Many friends extended hearty good wishes, and the bride and groom received a large number of gifts, including silver, china and cut glass, testifying to the high esteem in which they were held.

GIRL FIGHTS TO DIE, SAVED IN MIDRIVER

Battles With Policeman Who Leaps After Her From Pier—Tug Aids Both. Rescuer Already a Hero.

(New York Times)
Battling with a girl bent upon suicide in the swift current of the East River, Patrolman Matthew Corry of the East Sixty-seventh street police station risked his life early yesterday until a tugboat picked up the pair and brought them ashore. The girl, who said she was Rose Lawrence, twenty-one years old, a cook, of 511 East Seventy-eighth street, was taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital for observation.

Corry was patrolling his beat along the docks that border Exterior street at East Seventy-ninth street, about 7:30, when he saw a young woman walk to the end of the pier and take off her hat. He ran toward her, but she leaped into the river before he could reach her. The patrolman followed and grabbed her in midstream as she was about to sink for the third time. But she raised blows on his face and arms in a desperate effort to drown herself.

When the tide had carried Miss Lawrence and her would-be rescuer several blocks downstream, the tugboat Thesus sighted them, cut loose from a barge she was towing and steamed alongside. Two boatmen leaned over and soon had Corry and the woman on board. The couple were landed at Dr. Flanagan, an ambulance surgeon from Reception Hospital, treated Miss Lawrence, who was little the worse for her experience. At 511 East Seventy-eighth street Miss Lawrence was not known, but it was learned that her mother and another relative were notified by the Bellevue Hospital authorities and visited her there. The young woman talked to them, said physicians at the hospital, but they would not disclose the reason for her attempt at drowning.

Patrolman Corry has been on the police force about a year. He is thirty years old and lives at 95 East 106th street. He was commended a year ago for his capture of an armed man in a Harlem cellar.

SENTENCE BOY TO GO TO CHURCH FOR A YEAR

Attempted Burglary Charge to be Changed if He Keeps Promise.

Charles Lelendental, 17, of Woodside, New York, has started serving a sentence imposed upon him by Magistrate James J. Conway in the Long Island City Police Court, by going to church with his parents. The boy had been arrested when he was discovered in front of a store early in the morning. The boy declared that he was on his way home, but the detective entered a charge of attempted burglary against him. When the boy was first arraigned his mother appeared and pleaded for him. She said he had always been a good boy and she did not understand why he was out at the time the detective found him. Magistrate Conway reserved decision until he received a report from the probation officer that the boy's record was good.

The magistrate asked the boy if he had been attending church regularly and he said he had not. He was told that if he said he would go to church regularly for a year with his parents or alone the charge would be changed to disorderly conduct and he would be placed on probation for a year. Young Lelendental agreed and he was told to report regularly to the probation officer.

SKIRT LENGTH PROBLEM.

An Opinion That Eight Inches Above Ground Is About Right.

(New York Times.)

The question of skirt lengths is uppermost in the minds of retail buyers who are now coming to this market to purchase fall dresses, suits and separate skirts. This is particularly true in the case of dresses, inasmuch as they constitute the largest portion of the women's ready-to-wear garment business from the standpoint of the number of articles sold.

Commenting yesterday on what might be considered the proper skirt length for fall, Executive Director David N. Mosselson of the Associated Dress Industries of America said that it is safe to regard the skirt which comes within eight inches of the ground as the length that will be worn by the majority of women who want to be in style and at the same time want to avoid being extreme.

"As is usual with all styles," he continued, "there are many women who overdo. Some dresses are seen on the street already which might be called ankle length, but they are not generally accepted as good style. With the continuance of the straight-line effect, the extremely long skirt will necessarily have to follow the old hobble style, which was obnoxious to all women. It was not only uncomfortable, but unsightly. The straight-line silhouette does not permit of the flare necessary in the long skirt, unless it is especially well draped, and this can be done only in the higher-priced garments. Buyers will be safe in confining their orders to conservative lengths. The woman or girl who still wants a short skirt can have it by raising the hem to any length she desires."

SOLID COLORS IN GOOD PATTERNS

Sort of Patterns Men Grow Fond of as They Wear.

"There are certain fundamental principles of art which must be observed," said the Chief Designer, "Gainsborough found the golden truth of one of them when he painted the $600,000 picture of the Blue Boy—a solid blue pigmy without any attempt at frills or fancy scrolls. It was a masterpiece. 'You cannot weave a fancy style into a bright pattern, but a plain cloth woven as a homespun should be used for the prevailing mode in outdoor summer suits. Homespun and Donegals have the call of this season, and their value is enhanced by the new 'Dixie and English' 'Golfers' designs in four-piece suits. It is these two models on which I rest my claim to distinctive creations suited to the modern man who believes in the proper mixture of business and play. They are my own sartorial masterpieces, and I think they will hold their vogue for many years.'—Greasy, at 87 Charlotte street, have all the new models in Semi-ready Suits on show.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

Season's Prospects Detailed by the Dominion Fruit Branch at Ottawa.

The July fruit and vegetable report of the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture is full of matter of importance to growers and shippers. Apples, on the whole, promise exceedingly well in Ontario, although Spy, Baldwin and Greening promise to be light. In the other apple-growing provinces a crop twenty-five per cent. lighter than last year is indicated. Peaches and plums promise well in Ontario; so, too, do cherries and currants, while grapes and raspberries are likely to prove a fairly good crop, but pears appear to be below the average.

A larger acreage than usual has been sown to onions, and one per cent. less to potatoes. The prairie provinces, British Columbia and the maritime provinces all show a rather larger decrease in the acreage devoted to potatoes, and Quebec shows an increase of six per cent. over last year. In the fruit-growing provinces, plums and prunes promise to be better than the average; apricots, raspberries and currants about an average, cherries fair and loganberries light. An increase of the acreage devoted to onions is reported. Taking Canada as a whole, 703,600 acres are covered by potatoes this year, compared with 701,912 acres last year, being an increase of 1,688 acres. Returning to apples, the total production last year in the five apple-growing provinces was 4,046,813 barrels, against 3,882,540 in 1920. The care that is required in packing and shipping fruit to avoid damage is emphasized, and the special arrangements that have been made by the branch for transportation by lots are set forth, with particular reference to the distribution of British Columbia fruit in the prairie provinces. $59,500,000 SPENT IN RUSSIAN RELIEF

Hoover Reports to President Harding on the Great U. S. Effort There—788,878 Tons of Supplies.

Washington, July 18.—Herbert Hoover, as Chairman of the American Relief Organization, has rendered to President Harding a preliminary report of the work of the organization in relieving distress in Russia and other countries in Europe under the authority of an act of Congress. The report covers the activities of the relief organization up to July 1, and is to be supplemented by a complete report when the distribution of supplies is finished and final accounts have been received from Russia.

The preliminary report shows that $59,500,000 has been expended or allocated for expenditure, while 140 shiploads, aggregating 788,878 tons of food and medicines, have been provided for starving and sick men, women and children. There is excellent prospect of a good harvest in Russia, and while the breakdown in distribution is likely to cause some suffering, Mr. Hoover does not hesitate to say that the great famine is under control and the situation promises to be much better after the harvest.

Under Mr. Hoover's handling of relief funds and shipment and distribution of supplies it was not necessary to deduct a cent for administration or distribution from the funds placed at his disposal by Congress or the act of Congress. In addition to relieving starvation the organization kept terrifying epidemics of typhus, typhoid, smallpox and famine fever under measurable control.

Mr. Hoover says in his report that he is advised by his Russian staff that the relief organization is now reaching in jeopardy, and that the loss of life due to starvation ceased some time ago, "although," he adds, "most every one in Russia is hungry."

While Mr. Hoover finds it impossible to give an estimate of the number of lives saved, he notes that the 200 members of the American relief organization's personnel and their 80,000 Russian assistants have conducted 15,000 kitchens and distributing stations and fed in round numbers about 3,250,000 children and 5,300,000 adults.

New York, July 18.—A beggar with $134 in her possession, was held by Magistrate Ryttenberg in Yorkville court in $800 bail for examination on a charge of disorderly conduct.

She was arrested by Detective Henry Sharrock of the railway police, who found her soliciting alms outside the subway station at Eighty-sixth street and Lexington avenue. Sharrock had a hard time when placing the woman under arrest, he said. When searched by a matron, at the East Sixty-seventh street station, most of the $134 was found sewed in the lining of her dress. She described herself as Marie Lettisia, sixty years old, of 322 East 107th street.

He returned recently from a three-day automobile trip through southwestern Pennsylvania, in the vicinity of Washington, Pa., where he went in search of an old "bunny" thrasher of the vintage of 1820, which he had heard had been discovered in an old foundry. He found the machine and also one of the 1847 period. Both were purchased and sent to Detroit. Ford is housing his threshing machine collection on his old home farm near Dearborn and intends to make this farm a museum of early farm implements.

A special meeting of the board of commissioners of the General Public Hospital was held yesterday afternoon. The contract for painting the exterior woodwork was given to J. H. Pullen whose figure for the work was $750. The matter of tenders for a supply of 1,500 tons of coal was set over for further consideration. Provisionally to the approval of the municipal council, the tender of Wheaton and Co. for building a retaining wall on the south side of the hospital property was accepted, the figure being $3,273. M. E. Ager presided and Commissioners W. Emerson, J. L. O'Brien and J. King Kelly and R. H. Gale, superintendent of the hospital, were present.

THE CATTLE EMBARGO.

Referring to the cattle embargo, in a recent interview in the London Times, Rev. Dr. Cody of Toronto said:—

"The question concerns the economic unity of Canada and its relation to the empire. If we are going to have trade going east and west in Canada, to maintain Canadian unity, and through that Canadian unity Imperial unity, I think the barriers in the way of that trade should be few as possible. There is a strong feeling in Canada that the removal of the embargo was promised. Canadians feel that the embargo, so far as Canada was concerned, was no justified by the facts of disease. As that is practically universally admitted this embargo should now be removed and the promise redeemed. There is a strong sentimental feeling on this point in Canada. Moreover, if you do not keep your currents of trade going very largely east and west they are going to go north and south. They do to a considerable extent go north and south now, and if we want to keep Canadian unity we have to make trade conditions in the west as favorable as possible. However, I think it is mainly this strong sentimental feeling. We do not want our cattle to be under the stigma, and we do not believe that this promise given by this great mother of nations will not ultimately be redeemed. We have every confidence that the Motherland will do what is just and fair."
