LETTER FROM BERLIN

An Amusing Incident at a Masked Ball—Wonderful Model of Nelson's "Victory"—Honor is Paid to Zeppelin

(Times' Special Correspondence)

Berlin, Aug. 23.—In a leading article in the "Deutsche Tageszeitung," the organ of the Agrarian party, it is stated that recent speeches of British ministers and the strengthening of the British navy have made but little impression in Germany, as hardly any new idea is advanced in them, and hardly any fresh development revealed. It is immaterial, says the Agrarian organ, that the statements made about and against Germany were of a more friendly character. Germany has to reckon with the fact that England contemplates the possibility of a conflict with Germany, although this conflict is not desired, and nothing will be done to bring it about. It has been stated in the British parliament with gratifying clearness, it adds, that England will regulate the size of her navy according to that of Germany, and little importance need be attached to the assurance made by the way that in adopting measures for the strengthening of the British fleet, the government considers only the necessity of protecting and defending the vital interests of the British Empire.

"While we admit all this," the Agrarian organ writes, "we expect that England will adopt a similar attitude towards Germany. We have not only the right to strengthen our fleet in order to embarrass England or even to irritate her, but solely because we have considered, and still consider, that the left has this possibility, far off as it may lie, out of consideration."

"We cherish against the island kingdom neither resentment nor envy, nor even dislike. We are glad if the mutual relations of the two peoples remain correct and friendly, so far as this is possible. But in political calculations feelings and sentiment have no place because these, to use a mathematical expression, are imaginary values. Even from the standpoint of an unqualified peace friendship, the right to determine for themselves the strength of their armaments on land and on water must be conceded in principle and in fact to those nations which wish to pursue a rational policy in the present and for the future, and a policy which must follow up their historical task."

In view of the influence exerted on the course of German politics by the Agrarian party, the point of view developed in this article is deserving of special attention.

An amusing story of an incident at a masked ball given in the capital of one of the smaller German principalities is being told in Berlin. Upon the invitation card was printed a rule that everyone must come either in fancy dress or in a black domino. The guests, however, were not so particular. A buffet had been set out, and the attendants there soon came to remark the unusually active appetite of one guest, duly masked and cloaked, who consumed extraordinarily large quantities of the more expensive delicacies and wines. After several minutes of vigorous eating he would leave the buffet and disappear among the throng of dancers. Soon, however, he would be back again, his appetite apparently as strong as ever.

At this time a confusion was noticed in his hearing, and the master of ceremonies requested him to remove his mask and cloak. To the astonishment of the servants and the amusement of the guests there was revealed the shaggy figure of one of the soldiers of the capital of the principality. The guard had found a spare domino lying in the hall and they had been putting it on one after the other during the evening, so as to be able to go boldly into the ballrooms and eat their fill at the buffet unchallenged. So amused at the story was the grand duke that he refused to allow the greedy soldiers to be punished.

A remarkably complete model of Nelson's flagship, the Victory, worked out in elaborate detail so as to form in miniature a perfect facsimile of the original, has been constructed by Herr Paul Karl, technical inspector of the Berlin Museum of the Industrial Arts. The model will be kept for a time in this museum, but it is ultimately destined for exhibition in the German museum in Munich, for which it was built.

Herr Karl, who spent three years in its construction, has reproduced every rope, spar, and porthole of the original ship, and has even gone so far in his efforts to attain realism that the small cannon with which it is provided can actually be loaded and discharged. The interior furnishings of the ship, which can be seen through the windows on the upper stern decks, have been worked out with equal care.

Zeppelin Honored

On the eve of the famous aerial engineer's seventieth birthday the Stuttgart branch of the Jung-Deutschland League (recently founded by Field Marshal von der Goltz) paid Count Zeppelin a delicate compliment by a celebration in his honor before the statue of Bismarck. Deeply moved by the implied comparison, the count published his gratitude to the patriotic juveniles in the local paper. Among his words were the following: "My arduous labor is rewarded by the knowledge that you, my young friends, have been given an instrument with which you can work for the maintenance and progress of Germany's welfare, power and greatness. But always remember this: The development of my airships was almost shattered by the variance of German opinions, by the miserable disputations German spirit of contradiction. Then the God of Germany intervened at the right hour and commanded the storm to destroy my airship. At Eckerdingen the flames shot upwards, setting the soul of the German nation ablaze in a mighty conflagration. This was salvation. Never forget it. Unity alone makes strong."

After the fourth visit of this hungry great head waiter called the attention of the master of ceremonies, who walked at the buffet until the masked stranger once more returned. He was again served with a full supply of food and wine, and as he turned away was politely asked to show his invitation card.

At this time a confusion was noticed in his hearing, and the master of ceremonies requested him to remove his mask and cloak. To the astonishment of the servants and the amusement of the guests there was revealed the shaggy figure of one of the soldiers of the capital of the principality. The guard had found a spare domino lying in the hall and they had been putting it on one after the other during the evening, so as to be able to go boldly into the ballrooms and eat their fill at the buffet unchallenged. ## INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION.

The Canadian government railways are prominently featured at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year, in a very striking and attractive display in the new Federal Government Building. The electrical map of the territory served by the Intercolonial and the Prince Edward Island Railway occupies over thirty feet of the wall space, and by an ingenious contrivance of electric lighting flashes at various intervals the many points of interest along the route. The line of the railway across the map flickers with motion effects as if the Ocean Limited or the Maritime Express were dashing along the "All Canadian Route" from Montreal to Halifax, St. John and the Sydney linking by a national highway the maritime provinces to the more populous centres of the Canadian Dominion. Close by is an illuminated large painting of the Ocean Limited, with alternating lights behind giving a motion effect that is most realistic of a moving train.

Several new and attractive pictures in sepia show places of interest and scenic beauty along the line in Quebec and the maritime provinces.

In another part of the exhibit are pictures showing the grand opportunities for sport and recreation, and a splendid collection of mounted fish and game specimens make this a very attractive and interesting exhibit and one that every visitor to the fair should see.

Kew Gardens had a record number of visitors last year, the total being 3,704,000, or 108,904 more than in the previous year.

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring comb the hair out straight all around, then brush the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Avoid additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated. The purpose being to get the Cuticura ointment to the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to use Cuticura soap on the hair, to help to protect the pillow from possible stain. The hair should be washed with Cuticura soap and hot water. Shampoo alone may be used as often as agreeable, but not more than twice a month is generally sufficient for most people. Cuticura soap and ointment are sold everywhere, those wishing to try this treatment may do so without expense by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. 44, Boston, U.S.A., for a free sample of Cuticura soap and ointment, with 25-p. book on skin and hair.

TERRIBLE AND TRAITOROUS

NEWS COMES FROM OTTAWA

Think of it, Borden Government Gives Contract to Despised Yankees—Bona Law and Home Rule

(Toronto Globe)

Terrible and traitorous news comes from Ottawa and it is confirmed that nothing short of the resignation of two-thirds of the Borden cabinet need be expected. A Minneapolis firm has secured the contract for an elevator which the government is about to have erected at Port Arthur. True, the Minneapolis firm's tender was $333,851 less than that of any Canadian firm, but don't we all remember how present cabinet members, other Tory speakers, bankers and perverted patriots appealed to us to throw aside all questions of gain and vote against reciprocity? Some cabinet members, amid the applause of their hearers, declared against any "truck or trade" with the United States, and now here they are, for the sake of a few dollars, turning down good Canadian contractors and throwing no less than $1,179,500 into the pockets of Yankee contractors. Borden should be cabined for once.

Unpleasant swift and sharp overtook the premier at least in the Westland police court yesterday. One Sam Morris of Buffalo, came to Welland about three weeks ago, and when the property owners were voting on the Hydro-electric by-law he perorated a voter, and cast his ballot for the by-law. He was shortly thereafter arrested and pleaded guilty to the charge. For the next two years Morris will be in jail, and so deprived of a vote. In the meantime the attorney-general's department must find out, if it does its duty, who was behind Morris in his perorating rascality.

What a pitiable sight the Unionist party now is under Bona Law, and what a miserable exhibition so-called loyal Ulster is making of itself over home rule. The same stupid hysteria which a few years ago led the Ulster Orangemen to declare they would kick Queen Victoria's crown into the Boyne has broken out again, and so the men of Ulster, in Britain and in Canada, on every possible occasion have been declaring that they stood for one navy, one army and one crown are now shouting for a separate crown, for they declare their intention to kick King George's crown into the Boyne if home rule passes. This is the pass to which Bona Law has led a wing of his party, and no wonder he and his lieutenants are squirming under Winston Churchill's lash, while Hon. A. J. Balfour looks grimly on, knowing the party must soon call on him to deliver it.

Struck By Lightning
Norton, Aug. 23.—(Special)—During tonight's lightning storm a bolt struck a barn near Bellefleur station and burned it to the ground, together with twenty-five tons of hay and two pigs.
The barn was owned by G. G. Seville and was situated about a half mile from Bellefleur Station. The hay belonged to Roy Farrer. Near the barn was a farm house, which escaped. There was no insurance.
Reports from the country round about say that the storm was very severe, but as yet no other place has been reported as having been struck.

Moncton Man Attempts Suicide

Moncton, Aug. 23.—Harry Wallace, aged about thirty-four, unmarried, who lives with his mother on High street, attempted his own life between 8 and 9 o'clock this evening by shooting himself in the breast with a revolver. Wallace fired two shots, one taking effect in the region of the heart and the second missing the mark. His condition at a late hour was critical and his recovery is doubtful.
The shooting took place in his room and when those in the house were alarmed by the shots and reached the room the young man was lying on the floor. Dr. Claxton was hastily summoned and worked several hours in an attempt to save his life. Wallace, who resided with his widowed mother, had been drinking the last two or three days and his rash act is attributed to a fit of melancholy. He is an employee of the I. C. R. as a laborer and was formerly a brakeman. He had been working in Boston at railroad work and returned here recently and of late has been in the I. C. R. employ.

The Poor Nobles of Italy

Lecturing at the Camera Club on an out-of-the-way tour in central Italy Alexander Keithley said he learned on good authority that a fine medieval castle in good preservation in one of these Italian towns had been sold to an Englishman for $185, says the London Daily Chronicle.
The poverty of the nobles in Italy was sometimes pitiful. He found one majestic palace inhabited by an old woman of aristocratic family, but miserably poor. Showing outwardly as much as possible of its ancient state, the only furniture within it was a deal table, a chair and a battered rickshaw.
In the town of Assisi, while he was talking to a priest, some poor little child doted persisted in begging, and the priest told him they were the children of a Count.

Some women delight in showing how agreeable they can be to strangers.
